ASK 50 MILLION U.S. EASY MONEY FOR PORT HERE

Engineer Outlines Harbor Plans.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

Aroused over the abundance of federal easy money allotted to the east, the south, and the far west for public works while Chicago and the central states receive a comparative pittance, the Chicago regional port committee is sponsoring a project designed to get some of the federal millions out of Washington for the aid of jobless workers and tax burdened business of this area.

The project was announced yesterday by Maj. Rufus W. Putnam, executive secretary of the port committee. In its barest outline the project calls for allotment of 50 millions of federal funds to improve navigation on the drainage canal and the Sag channel of the Chicago sanitary district, thus diverting marine traffic from Chicago's busy loop district to the Calumet industrial area, where engineers contend it belongs.

Would Give Jobs for 7,000.

Completion of this long considered improvement, Maj. Putnam pointed out, would provide the last essential link to join the great lakes water routes to the inland waterways, on which routes the government has already spent 800 million dollars. Moreover, he pointed out, the project would create jobs over a five year period for an estimated 7,000 workers, more than half the 50 millions estimated for the work being figured for wages.

Within the next week, Maj. Putnam said, the port committee will call together representatives of the four state and local agencies concerned in waterway questions to line up solid support for the project. The agencies involved and the subjects of their interests are: Chicago city council, bridge construction; Chicago sanitary district, canal right of way; Cook county board, bridge abutments and bridge maintenance, and state highway commission, bridge maintenance.

If previous conflicting interests of the city and sanitary district can be reconciled, Maj. Putnam said, the project should be ready for submission to the public works administrator, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, within a month. Thereupon, he said, the port committee and local authorities will have provided a test of Mr. Ickes' claim that the federal government is disposed to be generous with hard pressed Chicagoland if the authorities here will only submit plans.

Details on Cost of Project.

Members of the port committee are William R. Dawes, Chicago, chairman; John T. Pirie, Floyd L. Bateman, and E. M. Antrim, also of Chicago, and Col. Walter J. Riley, East Chicago, Ind. At their behest Maj. Putnam has set up a schedule of cost on the project, as follows:

1. Widening of the Sag channel from 60 to 250 feet for a distance of twenty miles between Lake Calumet and the Sag canal's junction with the main drainage canal, $20,000,000.

2. Purchase of privately owned right of way for a distance of eight miles along the Little Calumet river between Lake Calumet and the outer Calumet harbor on Lake Michigan, widening of the Little Calumet to 250 feet, and reconstruction of 37 fixed bridges across Sag channel, $22,500,000.

3. Improving of Lake Calumet harbor facilities for use of grain storage, steel, and other heavy industries of Calumet district, $2,500.000.

4. Reconstruction of ten low bridges along 13 miles of main canal from Lockport to Cicero avenue, $2,500,000.

5. Purchasing privately owned right of way and widening of Grand Calumet river from Sag canal to Indiana harbor, Ind., $2,500,000.

Approved by Army Engineers.

No great federal generosity is entailed, Maj. Putnam contended, in approving item 1, the $20,000,000 Sag channel widening, as army engineers approved this project once before. Nor could he see any cause of federal hesitancy in allowing the $2,500,000 Lake Calumet improvement, a project he regards as a normal federal function.

There will be real federal generosity displayed, however, he conceded, if the government consents to purchase private right of way and to pay for reconstruction of the 47 bridges in the project. Even here he could see no inconsistency in the government undertaking the job, for it is because of requirement of federal engineers for a 34 foot clearance above the canal that the bridges must be changed.

Were it not for the inability of the

GETS 6 MONTHS IN JAIL UNDER NEW VAG LAW

Freed on Cash Bond of $10,000.

Machine Gun Jack McGurn, who was the principal gunbearer for Alphonse Capone when that fat gangster was boss of the Chicago underworld, was found guilty of vagrancy under the new criminal reputation law by a jury in the Felony court last night. The jury was out just 19 minutes.

Judge Thomas A. Green, who presided at the trial, denied a motion for a new trial and immediately sentenced McGurn to six months in the Bridewell, the maximum punishment under the law's provisions.

Attorney Benjamin Feldman who conducted the defense, gave notice of appeal and requested that his client be freed on bonds while this was pending.

"He can get out," said Judge Green, "only if the $10,000 is furnished instanter."

Bondsman Halts March to Cell.

No one appeared at the moment, and McGurn was being led out to the Bridewell when Robert R. Marcus described as a professional bondsman, stepped up and presented the required sum in cash. A stay of mittimus was then issued, and McGurn, refusing to comment, left the courtroom.

Machine Gun Jack had been arrested Aug. 27 at the Olympia Fields Country club while he was competing under his real name, Vincent Gebhardi, for the Western Open golf championship. The police officers encountered him while he was finishing the sixth hole. He was one under par at that spot, but their presence rattled him and he made an 11 on the eighth hole. The officers permitted him to finish the 18 holes before he was actually taken into custody.

His Country Club Tone.

From the time McGurn first appeared in court yesterday morning until the end of the trial he maintained a sturdy country club attitude. He wore a blue sports coat with pearl buttons, gray flannel slacks impeccably pressed, and shiny white and black shoes. Although the day was hot and the jurors, attorneys, and court attachés all took advantage of permission to shed their coats, he stuck with his, conveying the subtle impression that he disapproved of such informality. The trial lasted until 9:30 p. m.

Altogether eleven witnesses, ten of them members of the Chicago police force, testified that McGurn was well known as a gangster and hoodlum and had no known legitimate means of support. The defense produced five witnesses who testified that they knew him as a good fellow or a good golfer and as one greatly maligned by current reports.

Had Played with Judge Green.

One of the strange facts brought out during the questioning was that McGurn and Judge Green, who was presiding at his trial, had once played a part of a round of golf in the same foursome. Judge Green aided in bringing it out himself. As Attorney Feldman was trying to frame an acceptable question to show that the game had been played, the judge halted him and said:

"I know what you are driving at. I was playing once at the Evergreen public fee course with the manager and the professional. A fourth man joined and was introduced to me. That man was McGurn. It was purely a coincidence and it might happen to any one on a golf course."

Later, not in the hearing of the jury, the judge said that only a few holes had been played when he realized the identity of his new companion and that he then withdrew from the game.

Override Delay Motions.

The dapper defendant, who had never before been convicted of a crime in the state courts, began to suffer in the morning. When the case was called Attorney Feldman presented several motions. One was to quash. Another was to do something else of a technical nature. A third was a demand for a change of venue.

"All motions overruled," said the judge. "The one for a change of venue should have been filed yesterday."

A jury trial was then requested. Some difficulty was encountered in finding a venire, so busy were all the courts in the Criminal Court building

Orders Sapiro Extradited for Racket Trial

Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York yesterday granted the extradition of Attorney Aaron Sapiro to Illinois to stand trial in Chicago with 23 other men on charges of conspiracy to control the laundry industry here by racketeering methods. Sapiro, nationally known as a professional organizer, is one of the six leading defendants in the case. The five others are Al Capone, Murray Humphries, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, and Attorney Morris I. Kaplan.

Announcement of the New York governor's action was made at Albany last night by Charles Poletti, executive counsel. Sapiro is now in New York City, and Illinois authorities announced last night that, assisted by New York agencies, they would take steps to compel his return to Chicago at once.

Two Extradition Hearings.

Two separate extradition hearings were required. The first ended in failure because of a faulty indictment. As a result Sapiro and the others were reindicted. Gov. Lehman's action yesterday was based on the new indictment.

The first indictment was returned on July 27. It charged Sapiro, Capone, and the others with conspiracy to stifle the laundry industry by bombings, sluggings, acid throwings, strikes, and intimidations. Only a month before this Sapiro had resigned as counselor for the Chicago Laundry Owners' association.

Action for Return Begun.

Sapiro was in New York at the time. He asserted that he had worked for the best interests of the Chicago laundry industry. He also intimated he would not return voluntarily to face trial. Accordingly, extradition proceedings were begun, with First Assistant State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer representing Cook county.

The New Yorker testified in his own behalf before Gov. Lehman, and helped prove that he was in New York on May 30, one of the dates cited in the alleged conspiracy. On that proof Gov. Lehman refused extradition. Then, on Aug. 18, the second indictment was returned, with the May 30 date eliminated.

GUNMAN SLAIN IN FLIGHT FROM 2 DETECTIVES

A gunman identified as Edwin Harris, 25 years old, was shot and killed by two policemen at 5th avenue and Independence boulevard last night when he and another man tried to escape after being caught in a stolen automobile. The second man got away.

The pair were sighted at Crawford and 5th avenues by Detectives Frank Krueger and William Gibbons of the stolen automobile detail and trailed to Independence boulevard and 5th avenue, where they were forced to stop for a red light. The detectives walked up to Krueger with guns drawn.

"Put up your hands, we're policemen," he ordered.

"Go to hell," returned the driver. Then he backed up his car, almost running over Gibbons, and the next instant proceeded forward. The fugitive car was wrecked in a crash with three other autos and the detectives opened fire as the two occupants fled on foot, killing Harris.

MERCURY RISES TO 95°, HOTTEST SINCE JULY 30

Yesterday was Chicago's hottest day since July 30, the mercury climbing to a high of 94 at the Federal court building at 4 p. m. At the University of Chicago, where the official records formerly were kept, the highest mark was 95.

The hottest Sept. 6 on record here was in 1922, when a mark of 96 was attained.

Forecaster W. P. Day said that today would be unsettled and considerably cooler, due to a shift in the wind from the west and southwest to the north tonight. Showers are expected tomorrow.

Viscount Grey Dies; British Leader in War

CHRISTON BANK, England, Sept. 7 [Thursday].—(AP)—Viscount Grey of Fallodon, former British foreign secretary and ambassador to Washington died today at the age of 71. Death came at 6:05 a. m. The viscount had been in a coma since Monday, when he suffered a relapse.

LED BRITAIN INTO WAR.

Viscount Grey of Fallodon will go down in history as the man who, as British foreign secretary under Premier Asquith in 1914, led Great Britain into what soon developed into the world war. It was Grey who convinced the British nation that to fail to go to war with Germany in behalf of Belgium would be unworthy and cowardly.

Four months before the European crisis arose it had been said of Grey that if it ever became necessary for him to take such a step he would do it with the calm deliberation of a man about to sip a cup of tea. So it proved.

When Grey—then Sir Edward—made the decision which brought England into the mêlée it was with the laconic observation. "The neutrality of Belgium must be preserved."

Inspired Entente Cordiale.

Indirectly Viscount Grey also had other responsibility for the extent of the war, for it was he who was instrumental in the formation of the entente cordiale with France in 1907 and the entente with Russia that same year which caused these three nations to take up cudgels against their common foe.

Not that Viscount Grey—he acquired the viscountcy in 1916—did not try valiantly to avert the war. He had long been known for his pronouncements for peace and had advocated some sort of peace league through the efforts of which international strife might be abolished. But even he must have made those speeches with his fingers crossed, for he was a consistent advocate of a larger British navy.

In speaking of his diplomatic efforts to bring peace out of the 1914 crisis he said:

"All efforts to avoid war failed because you cannot have peace without

Actress' Home Raided; Read Was Her Guest

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Details of a pleasure trip to Agua Caliente on which Alfred C. Read Jr., wealthy young broker, accompanied Claire Windsor, movie actress, and during which four detectives broke into Miss Windsor's bungalow at 7 o'clock in the morning, were related on the witness stand by the actress today. She testified in the $100,000 alienation of affections suit filed against her by Mrs. Marian Young Read.

"We went across the border and had dinner," Miss Windsor said. "During the meal Al became ill and I accompanied him to my bungalow and got him to lie down for a while on the bed.

"After a while others joined us. Al felt better and we left the bungalow, returning about midnight.

"Grace Read was staying with me in my bungalow and she retired to her room. The other man left and pretty soon Al left."

Read Not There at 7 A. M.

"What time was that?" demanded Attorney C. Ray Robinson, representing Mrs. Read.

"I don't just know," Miss Windsor replied.

"Was it 1 o'clock?" Robinson pressed.

"I can't say exactly as to the time," Miss Windsor answered.

"Well, was Read there at 7 o'clock the next morning?" Robinson asked.

Miss Windsor flushed. Her eyes snapped and in an almost hysterical voice she replied:

"No, he was not, but four detectives walked in on me at that hour."

"Eternal Love" Cools.

Earlier Miss Windsor had declared on the stand that the "eternal love" that Read pledged her lasted slightly under three months.

Her testimony was given as she interpreted and explained lovelorn passages in a sheaf of letters presented for the perusal of herself and the jury, five of whom were women.

The packed courtroom evidenced great eagerness to hear Claire's tender messages, but Read's were a trifle too apologetic in tone. There was a stir of evident discontent when Read, in letters sent from Hollywood, where he was enjoying life with film social groups, began to evade answers to the beauty's letters entreating the broker to hurry to her side in, successively, Philadelphia, Washington, Cleveland, and Chicago.

"Accident" Prevents Visit.

Read wrote Claire, in answer to fervent wires inviting his presence in Chicago on Christmas day, 1931, and again on New Year's eve, saying that he had been seriously injured in an airplane crack-up in Oakland. According to Mrs. Read's attorneys, Read was living with his wife at the time in Oakland and had had no crack-up. But Claire, in Chicago, didn't know that.

Ray Robinson of Merced, Cal., attorney for the plaintiff, brought slight furrows in the white brow of the poised defendant, smart in linen suit with abbreviated sleeves, polka

AMERICANS IN CUBAN CITY ASK FOR PROTECTION

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7 [Thursday].—United States marines early this morning disembarked from the destroyer McFarland and boarded waiting automobiles which took them to the National hotel, where they now are on guard.

One hundred and fifty American families took refuge at the hotel in fear of violence should the United States decide on intervention.

Cubans Unaware of It.

Few citizens in Havana at the moment were aware the marines had set foot on Cuban soil protecting Americans.

Ambassador Welles was reported to be arranging with Wilbur P. Taylor, the hotel manager, to lodge other Americans, believing their lives in danger.

Cuban soldiers are guarding foreign banks.

NAVY SECRETARY EN ROUTE

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson was steaming at full speed for Havana, Cuba, tonight, nearly 1,000 marines were assembling at Quantico for possible duty in Cuba, and more American warships were under orders to proceed to that island.

Secretary Swanson boarded the cruiser Indianapolis that was anchored off the naval academy at Annapolis. The ship soon left.

Other warships en route to Cuba included the battleship Mississippi, the cruiser Richmond, and several lighter craft.

The situation admittedly was tense, although up to the present no direct attacks or threats of attacks had been made on American citizens or American property in Cuba.

Roosevelt Takes Charge.

It was insisted at the White House that Mr. Swanson was not being ordered to Havana, but was stopping at the Cuban capital on a previously planned cruise to the west coast through the Panama canal.

It was plain, however, that with a dozen or more war craft either in Cuban harbors or hurrying there Secretary Swanson's presence there would be important. The President stated plainly today that he regards armed intervention by the United States in the Cuban imbroglio as absolutely the last resort. He indicated that the uncertainty of just what kind of government eventually may be set up in Cuba made it impossible to forecast what will be done by the United States in the future. If there is any honorable way for the United States to avoid it, however, no forcible entry into the island will be ordered.

Statement by Swanson.

Before leaving Washington, Secretary Swanson issued this statement:

"A wholly erroneous interpretation has been given to my trip. This trip to the west coast was planned, as every one knows, a month ago. No one at that time expected a second revolution in Cuba.

"I had told Ambassador Welles, when the trip was first planned, that I would drop in and visit with him in Havana if I could. During my conversation with the President today he told me he saw no reason why I should not carry out the original plans for the trip.

"I have not been ordered to Havana.

"I am carrying no instructions to Ambassador Welles or any one else. The Cuban situation will continue to be handled from Washington by the President."

Explains to Cuba's Neighbors.

At the close of the day Mr. Roosevelt called in the diplomatic representatives of four South American countries and gave them a complete disclosure of the United States' position, as well as supplying for them the completest information on Cuban conditions now possessed by this country.

The President laid down for them this three point policy which, he said, the United States would follow:

1. The President and the state department will supply the South American envoys with complete and full information as it is obtained. There is no disposition on the part of the United States to play a lone hand in dealing with Cuba.

2. The United States has no desire to interfere in Cuba, and will exert every means to avoid that step.

3. The expressed hope of the United States is that the Cuban people, as quickly as possible, will select a stable government of their own choosing.

Asks for Their Advice.

President Roosevelt conferred with the South American envoys in the White House in the presence of Secretary of State Hull and Assistant Secretary Jefferson Caffery, in charge of Latin-American affairs. The envoys present were Ambassador Felipe A. Espil of Argentina and three chargés d'affaires, H. Accioly of Brazil, Benjamin Cohen of Chile, and Don Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico.

Mr. Roosevelt told the Latin-American diplomats that he considered their interests in preserving order in Cuba just as keen as that of the United States, and that he solicited their advice and aid in giving whatever aid might be necessary.

Sumner Welles, American ambassador at Havana, talked with President Roosevelt by telephone. He told the President that particularly in Cienfuegos there was unrest among natives and soldiers and increasing disquiet along the southern coast. Mr. Roosevelt indicated a hope that some sort of government may be established speedily before further violent rioting.

Accompanying Secretary Swanson to Havana on the Indianapolis were his naval aid, Capt. H. R. Stark, and Capt. Edgar C. Wood of the medical corps. Assistant Naval Secretary Henry Latrobe Roosevelt declared that Mr. Swanson would confer with Ambassador Welles as soon as the cruiser reaches Cuba.

Assistant Secretary Roosevelt said that he anticipated Mr. Swanson's stay in Havana would be brief, unless further troubles had developed. He is due to arrive in Cuba Friday.

Air Planes Ready, Too.

Squadrons of airplanes are in readiness to move a considerable force of marines into Cuba, and Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, declared that the marines could land within six hours after orders to send them were delivered.

The military authorities are of the opinion that no difficulty would be experienced by the marines in establishing protective measures around American properties in Cuba.

At the present time, the President has been informed, the soldiers of the revolutionaries are posted to guard all foreign embassies and legations and all foreign banks in Havana.

U. S. WARSHIPS ORDERED INTO CUBAN WATERS

SabathEstablishesNew Court Policy.

In refusing to grant a petition for a lease of a building in receivership, Judge Joseph Sabath, in the Superior court yesterday enunciated the principle that the would-be lessee should post a bond covering the rent for the full period of the lease.

The property on which the lease was sought is a building at 1257 Lunt avenue, containing 60 small furnished apartments. It went into receivership Dec. 22, 1932, and J. J. Bickel Jr., head of the property management division of the Central Republic Trust company, which floated a bond issue on the building, was appointed receiver.

Offers $5,000 a Year.

Yesterday Attorney Robert R. Scher, representing one A. J. Horn, who was not further identified in the discussion, presented a petition to Judge Sabath to rent the building for three years at $5,000 a year. Scher said the receiver has operated the building at a loss and has failed to pay taxes.

Attorney Vincent O'Brien, who opposed the lease on behalf of the receiver, disputed this. The building has shown a monthly profit, he said, increasing as the World's Fair progressed. In July, he said, there was a profit of $774, of which $372 was paid on an installment for purchase of the furniture in the place, which did not belong to the building previously.

"We'll raise our offer to $480 a month," said Attorney Scher. "That makes $5,760 a year."

Suggests a Delay.

"This is no emergency matter," said Judge Sabath. "Why don't you wait and present your petition to Judge Gentzel after Sept. 18, when the regular term of court opens?"

"We'll only offer $5,000 a year then," said Attorney Scher.

"I wouldn't consider appointing you on such a petition," said Judge Sabath, "unless there was complete agreement on all sides, and unless you posted a bond for the full amount of the three year lease, at no cost to the receiver."

Attorney Scher made no reply to this, except to say that he would present his petition later in the month to Judge Gentzel.

Receiver Bickel said after the court hearing that Attorney Scher also represents Leon Oppenheimer, owner of the equity in the building. He had never heard of Horn, he said. Oppenheimer operated the building on a lease from the trustee of the bond issue for ten months after the foreclosure proceedings were started in February, 1931, but when he was unable to make his agreed rent payments of $800 a month, the receiver was placed in charge last December.

Judge Gentzel had ordered the receiver to pay Oppenheimer $372 a month until he had received a total of $3,500 for the furniture in the hotel. Because of these payments, and the payment of back bills, including several years' water rent accumulated by Oppenheimer, the net income was reduced, Receiver Bickel said. The occupancy in the building, however, was increased from 40 per cent when he took charge to 90 or 95 per cent at present.

Bondholders Reject Plan.

After Oppenheimer's lease was terminated, the receiver stated, Scher approached him a number of times with a proposal to lease the apartment for $5,000 a year. He put the proposal up to the bondholders, who refused it, Mr. Bickel said. The petition for the lease was filed in the Superior court a few days after he had gone on his vacation, he added.

Henry G. Zander Jr., president of the Chicago Real Estate board, recently attacked what he termed the "growing practice of skinning income producing properties" through leases. Bondholders are being cheated, he charged, by operators who impose upon courts to get leases of receivership properties.

DISORDERS DOT CUBA; AMERICAN FORCES ON GUARD

Radical Junta Draws Up Its Program.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 6.—Cuba's second revolutionary government within a month tried to organize itself today under the watchful eye of United States warships which rode at anchor off Havana and Santiago. More American warcraft were speeding in this direction and the island republic will also be inspected soon by Secretary of the Navy Swanson.

The government tonight went into a meeting to consider what action to take, I fany, in event President Roosevelt orders intervention.

As the junta of five—two professors, a lawyer, a former banker, and an editor—met to formulate their program, reports of minor disturbances reached Havana from various parts of the island.

Stores Looted by Mobs.

In Santiago stores were forced to shut their doors. Revolutionaries tried to seize municipal and provincial posts in the city, but were balked by the army. The United States destroyer Sturtevant stood by.

At Cienfuegos hardware stores were looted of guns and ammunition by demonstrators, and business was at a standstill.

Three sugar mills were confiscated, two in Oriente province and one in Santa Clara. In all cases the evidence indicated that the seizure was instigated and carried out by communistic elements. A strike had been in progress for about a month at one of the mills—the Chaparaa plant—and the administrator, Ralph B. Wood, and the manager, Hunter M. Hicks, were forced to flee for safety aboard a British freighter.

Government Guarantees Order.

In Havana Matthew Molamphy, manager of the United Fruit line, was the object of a hunt by a mob of radical workers, who claimed Molamphy had not shown a willingness to compromise in the mediation of labor difficulties.

While these and other disorders took place, the new Cuban government issued a proclamation in which order was guaranteed throughout the republic.

One of the first tasks to be undertaken by the junta will be the reorganization of the army and police, it was announced. Most of the officers who were ousted by the enlisted men in the bloodless coup of Monday night will be given back their positions, it was said. Col. Julio Aguado appeared to be the choice of the revolutionaries for chief of staff of the army. This would mean that Top Sergeant Fulgencio Batista, leader of the revolt in the army, who acted temporarily as chief of staff, will be returned to the ranks. Spokesmen said that none of the men who engineered the mutiny will accept promotion.

Investigations, however, will be launched against officers who are suspected of having aided the deposed President Machado in his warfare against oppositionist elements.

Emilio Laurent, the new Havana chief of police, announced that a vigorous anti-communist platform will guide the reorganization of the police force. He denied emphatically that communism has any hold on either army or police forces.

Fear Third Revolution.

In some quarters fear is expressed that a third revolution will be attempted by followers of former President Mario G. Menocal, who recently returned from exile at Miami. Menocal is known to have been planning a coup similar to the one which took place Monday night.

Another report tonight said the "conservative" members of the ABC secret anti-Machado organization are planning a counter revolution. Radical ABC men bolted their group to join in the Monday night coup. ABC officials were subsequently refused admittance to meetings of the leaders of the new régime.

The junta today distributed the cabinet posts among themselves as follows:

Secretary of state and justice—Guillermo Portela, who also will serve as provisional president before the diplomatic corps.

Interior, war and communications—Carbo.

Finance—Porfirio Franca.

Public works and agriculture—José Irizarri.

Family Joins Machado.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 6.—Gen. Gerardo Machado, deposed president of Cuba, was joined here today by his wife, his daughter, his son-in-law, and his granddaughter. They came from Philadelphia, where they fled a month ago, when the revolution started.

ASHES OF MURDERED CUBAN STUDENT ARE STOLEN IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 6.—(AP)—After a fight between communists and members of the Cuban ABC in Dolores cemetery today the body of Julio Antonio Mella, slain Cuban student leader, was exhumed and cremated in preparation for shipment to Cuba, but the ashes were stolen mysteriously from the funeral director.

The ceremony was first interrupted by communists, who attempted to seize the coffin with shouts of "don't take him, he's ours." Polic ereserves intervened to protect the ABC members, who finally exhumed the body. Several men and five women, described as communists, were held, and several members of the ABC were arrested but later released.

The funeral director who took charge of the remains told police later that he was attacked by a group of Mexican and Cuban students not affiliated with the ABC, who stole the urn containing the ashes and disappeared.

Mella was assassinated here in 1929.

OFFICIAL PUTS WRECK BLAME UPON ENGINEER

Asserts He Violated All Rules.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Blame for the death of 14 persons and injury to scores here last night was placed definitely upon the engineer of the Erie milk train which rammed into the rear of the Atlantic express by H. J. Boardwell, general manager of the eastern division of the railroad.

"Engineer M. H. King was to blame and alone to blame," he said in a newspaper interview. "He absolutely disregarded signals, rules, regulations, and about everything else."

Four Separate Inquiries.

Four separate inquiries were under way today into the disaster in which the heavy locomotive of the milk train plowed a distance of eight feet into the steel observation coach of the flyer, causing the next car, a steel Pullman, to telescope into a wooden day coach directly ahead of it. Nearly all the victims were in the demolished day coach.

The various investigations were conducted by county and city officials, the interstate commerce commission, and railroad officials.

Engineer King, who was in the locomotive cab of the milk train, insisted he was "running on caution signals and didn't come in on a clear block."

"It all happened too quickly for me to have time to set the brakes and stop the train," he declared. "We were coming around the curve. The next thing I saw was the rear of the train. Then in a second almost we were plowing through the rear coach of the passenger train."

In Cleveland, R. E. Woodruff, vice president of the Erie railroad, was quoted as charging that Engineer King "knew he did not have a clear track."

Wooden Car Between Steel Ones.

All the evidence adduced in the preliminary stages of the various inquiries indicated that the heavy loss of life was due to the inclusion of the wooden car between steel cars of the passenger train. At Washington George V. Levering, chief of the interstate commerce commission's investigating division said that while there was no law to prohibit the use of wooden cars that the commission had been recommending for years that steel cars be used exclusively for safety.

LIQUOR COMMISSION TO DRAFT PLAN FOR STATE LEGISLATION

A liquor commission appointed by Gov. Horner is to meet in the county building tomorrow afternoon to draw up recommendations for legislation to control the liquor traffic in Illinois after national prohibition is voted out.

It is expected that the report adopted by the commisison will be used by Gov. Horner and his administration leaders as the basis for laws that will have to be passed in a special session of the general assembly if a constitutional repeal, as now appears probable, is completed by Dec. 6.

State Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] is a member of the commisison. He indicated yesterday his belief that the body would urge strongly that the return of the saloon be prevented. He suggested the possibility that the recommendations would be for sale of hard liquor only in stores and not in places where consumption would be permitted on the premises.

SEIZED ALCOHOL TO CUT WEATHER BUREAU EXPENSE

The weather bureau here will save $45 a year by using alcohol seized by government agents in place of a special fluid in a manifolding machine, it was announced yesterday by C. A. Donnel, chief forecaster. Experiments conducted by clerks at the bureau showed alcohol to be satisfactory in the machine. Fifteen gallons were then requisitioned from United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer, who has charge of a stock of prohibition seizures.

YACHT GUESTS TELL OF NUDE GIRL'S SUICIDE

Depressed After Reading Book, Roommate Says.

The story of how a nude young woman danced wildly about the deck of a yacht on a cruise in Lake Michigan Tuesday evening and then lost her life when she plunged over the side of the boat into the waters two miles off Navy pier was told yesterday by the five business men and three girls who had been her companions.

The story of the cruise, which, the men said, was an "innocent gathering of business associates," was related in the offices of Coroner Walsh, whose investigators spent the day questioning the members of the party. Meanwhile coastguardsmen under Capt. John O. Anderson were watching the lake waters in hope of recovering the young woman's body.

The girl was Clara Moore, 22 years old, 515 Belmont avenue, an artists' model. Her home had been Lakewood, O., a suburb of Cleveland. Authorities directed a telegram to Mrs. Lottie Latiak, 1592 Alameda avenue, Lakewood, the girl's mother.

Happy Recently, Mother Says.

Mrs. Latiak, on receiving the telegram, said she had believed Clara to be too happy and full of life to drown herself. She had visited home two months ago, the mother said. Mrs. Latiak was puzzled over the use of the name of Moore by her daughter. Clara, she knew, had married a man named Patterson less than three years ago, but she was uncertain whether the two had been living together recently. The Latiak family said they could not afford to bury the girl.

The owner of the yacht and a member of the party was Albert E. Gundelach, 3600 Pine Grove avenue, executive of the Auditone company. The boat was the Pal-O-Mine, 45 foot power cruiser, which is docked at Belmont harbor. Another member of the party was John Drake, 431 Oakdale avenue, an advertising agency representative.

Despondent After Reading Book.

The other women on the yacht were Miss Anna Mae Burmek, 24 years old, 25 Surf street, also an artist's model; Miss Joyce Byers, 23 years old, 629 Deming place, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Cora Mae Smith, 21 years old, of Evansville, Ind.

Mrs. Charlotte McLain, who shared the Moore girl's apartment, informed Sergts. Frank Donohue and Charles Reynolds, that Miss Moore had been despondent and "acting queerly" since finishing on Tuesday afternoon a book she had been reading. The book, according to Mrs. McLain, was "Thunder Without Rain," a sex story.

Drake, Redel, and Gundelach appeared early yesterday morning at the coroner's office. They said the girls had been asked to go along to provide a little levity." Weber had known Miss Burmek, he said, and she had provided the other girls.

Several Rounds of Drinks.

There had been several rounds of highballs and beer, they said while the boat was headed toward the Columbia Yacht club. Arriving there, all the party went to dinner in the club rooms. All the members of the party said that the Moore girl had gone to the boat ahead of the others.

When the rest of the party returned to the yacht, according to Miss Burmek, they met Miss Moore. She had taken off her clothes in the yacht's cabin and was climbing, nude, back of the pier. The party gathered around her, pushed her aboard the craft and hurriedly set sail into the lake, where there was a gathering fog.

Says She Spoiled Party.

"Miss Moore was tough," Gundelach told the coroner. "She kept cursing and running about the boat. She seemed in high spirits but nevertheless she kept repeating, "I don't care if I live another minute. What has life got for me anyway? This is my last night on earth.'

"The rest of us were fed up. She was spoiling the party. Finally she went to a long seat back of the wheel and went to sleep."

Drake was at the wheel of the boat and the rest of the party was scattered about the decks when Joyce Byers went to the side of the sleeping girl. Awakened, she climbed out on the stern of the craft and sat holding a small flagstaff. After an exchange of words Miss Byers turned toward Drake.

Miss Byers said she heard a scraping sound and immediately turned back to see the flash of the nude girl's body falling into the water. The boat was turned back and the members of the party lined the rails watching the water nearby.

There was no sign of the girl and after a brief search the party returned to shore and reported the affair to the coast guard. Coroner Walsh said that he could hold no one responsible. An inquest will be held when the girl's body is recovered.

22 KNOWN DEAD, HUNDREDS HURT IN STORM AREA

Accurate Reports on Casualties Lacking.

Brownsville, Tex., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Hurricane tolls reported here today showed that at least twenty-two deaths, injuries to perhaps 1,500 persons, and property damage of many millions of dollars were caused by the wind that swept inland from the Gulf of Mexico Monday and Tuesday and lashed southern Texas and northern Mexico.

In Brownsville there were no deaths, but 800 persons were made homeless and many buildings were destroyed. The citrus crop of the district, valued at $12,000,000, was almost a total loss. This city of nearly 30,000 felt the brunt of the terrific wind.

Disease Increasing.

Havoc was wrought throughout the rich valley of the lower Rio Grande. Ruin, mud, and débris were left in the storm's wake, and relief workers reported that disease and an increasing death list were following, principally in the outlying districts that are isolated by high water caused by the deluge of rain.

Eight persons are known to have lost their lives at Matamoras, across the river in Mexico. Four are dead at Harlingen and seven at Rio Hondo, two at San Benito and one at Port Isabel. That the death list does not include citizens of Brownsville is due to the fact that ample warning was given that the tropical storm was rushing toward this city.

At Edinburg it was reported that considerable damage was done and many persons injured. Telephone and telegraph poles were uprooted and communication was difficult, but relief had reached the city and the work of restoration was under way.

Drinking Water Scarce.

Various towns in the valley were without drinking water, and their power plants were destroyed. Food was rendered unfit to eat. Caring for the injured and efforts to restore a semblance of order in the stricken area were reported a huge task.

Messages to the effect that small homes have been smashed to kindling wood were numerous. Makeshift places of shelter are being rapidly put together to afford resting places for the homeless. Most of the highways are under water, and railroad traffic is almost paralyzed.

SENTENCED FOR FRAUD IN OFFER TO FREE CONVICT

Theodore Jaske, 28 years old, 3130 Kimball avenue, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday after a mother testified that she had paid him $265 in a vain attempt to have her son released from the Pontiac reformatory.

The mother, Theresa Rumkowski, 2501 North Monticello avenue, testified that Jaske offered to "fix the case," saying he was from the state's attorney's office. The money was paid, but William Rumkowski, 21 years old, continued to serve his one to 20 years sentence for robbery with a gun.

Brevoort Seeks to Enjoin Picketing of Crystal Bar

A bill for an injunction to restrain the members of the Bartenders and Beverage Dispensers' union, local 278, from picketing the premises of the Crystal bar in the Brevoort hotel or molesting the employés was filed yesterday in the Superior court. The bill alleged that the hotel does not wish to maintain an open shop but that numerous unions, including the defendant, have made conflicting claims for recognition.

FORMER OHIO BANKER SAID TO ENJOY HIS VISITS AS PRISONER

Columbus, O., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Prison life at the state brick plant near Junction City has different meanings for different prisoners. Clarence A. Dorger, an official, was technically a prisoner because of conviction in connection with the wrecking of the Cosmopolitan bank. Dressed in clothing made specially for him by the prison tailor, Dorger posed as a "big shot" at Hotel Martens in Lancaster, where he frequently registered with his wife.

Former Banker Dorger, it is said, used the warden's automobile to attend wrestling matches in Cleveland and night baseball games in Columbus and Zanesville.

It was said he crashed a cocktail party at a home in a prominent residential district of Columbus. It is said he had a private room and separate table at the prison. Warden E. P. Thomas is investigating.

GIRL LEAPS OFF BRIDGE; DRAG RIVER FOR BODY

Coast guards dragged the Chicago river this morning for the body of a young woman who was reported to have jumped from the Clark street bridge shortly before midnight. The only witness, Peter Gallagher of 53 West Wacker drive, said he tried to stop the woman but that she leaped before he could interfere.

Near the railing police found a beaded purse containing a brief note which stated: "Dear Ernest: I love you so. Give my love to baby. She and you are all I have left. You just said you didn't love me any more, so I am going."

The note was signed Marjorie Jane Stomper, 534 North Clark street, and was addressed to Ernest Dint of the same address. Policeman Elmer Johnson went there and found Ernest Pagliardini, who is known as Dint. He said he knew the woman, but did not realize she loved him. He said she was a divorcée, about 21 years old, and mother of a 3 year old daughter, Jane.

JAPAN ACCUSES U. S. OF BEGINNING NEW NAVAL RACE

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—Secretary of the Navy Swanson's signature to the United States shipbuilding contracts has started a reaction in Japan which now pervades the whole press. The American program is represented as inaugurating a new armament competion, and as it is clearly within the London treaty limits, these limits are now discovered to be unacceptable and unrenewable.

The keynote of this reasoning is found in this statement by Capt. Sekine of the navy press bureau to the newspapers:

"If a country which has not felt anxiety with its existing naval strength carries out a large building program, even within treaty limits, it will be impossible for Japan to remain a passive spectator."

The newspaper Nichi Nichi's English edition expands this hint, asserting: "Now America has dared us to follow her example, and there is nothing to do but build more ships to maintain the existing floating ratios." Nichi Nichi declares that Japan feels as much in danger from the United States' naval program as France does from German nationalism.

GUARD PUPILS' LIVES, BOGAN ASKS AUTOISTS

Supt. William J. Bogan yesterday issued an appeal to motorists for aid in preventing accidents to pupils after the opening of the public schools on Sept. 18. He requested that drivers be especially cautious in the vicinity of schools and obey the directions of boy patrolmen guiding children across the intersections.

"The danger to children from automobiles will be emphasized by all teachers in lessons to be given as part of the regular courses of instruction," said Mr. Bogan. "Cartoons, diagrams, photographs, motion pictures and other teaching devices will be used to give a protective education to the pupils."

Records of the Chicago Motor club disclosed that 75 children of school age were killed in Chicago by automobiles from Sept. 1, 1932, to June 30, 1933. The records show, however, that children are safer in school and on the way to and from school than when they are playing near home.

6,000 NEW SEATS IN HIGH SCHOOLS FOR WARDS 46-50

Eliminate Portables Under Economy Plan.

Six thousand additional seats will be provided in high school buildings in wards 46 to 50 inclusive this fall through the operation of the board of education's economy and better housing program. If the school board had not reorganized the system at least 6,000 students in these wards would have been housed in ill-ventilated portables, which the children call "dog houses."

The serious congestion at Lake View and Senn Senior High schools is virtually eliminated under the economy plan. Other changes include abandonment of 26 portables and 10 half day divisions in elementary schools and utilization of 30 vacant rooms.

The boundaries of Lake View High school at 4015 North Ashland avenue have been revised, according to the educational department, in order to relieve overcrowding at Waller High school to the south. The relief is increased by establishing a six room branch of Lake View at the Hamilton Elementary school. At the same time Lake View will be relieved by Senn, Stockton, and Amundsen High schools.

Becomes Branch of Senn.

The former Stockton Junior High school at 4430 Beacon street will become a branch of Senn with accommodations for 735 senior high school students and will also house elementary school branches of 475 pupils. The former Sullivan Junior High school at 6631 Bosworth avenue will be converted into a new senior high school, with room for 1,885 students, to relieve Senn.

Eight portables at the Senn High school, located at 5900 North Glenwood avenue, will be abandoned under the housing program. The former Amundsen Junior High school at 5110 North Damen avenue will also become a new senior high school with room for 1,824 senior high school students. The building will also house 433 elementary pupils.

The changes in this part of the city will be duplicated in other congested areas. More than 300 portables in the city, many of them vermin infested, will be abandoned, according to the plans worked out by Don C. Rogers, director of research and building survey for the school system.

Hearing Today on Loan.

A public hearing on a request for a $10,000,000 federal loan for completion of fourteen new schools in Chicago will be held before the state advisory board of public works this morning. The board consists of Carter H. Harrison, chairman; James L. Houghteling, and James H. Andrews.

According to the plan submitted by Supt. William J. Bogan, the federal government would lend 70 per cent of the amount needed for construction and would make an outright grant of 30 per cent. Mr. Bogan has already opened negotiations with Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

Navy Pier to Stay Open This Year Until Oct. 1

Harbormaster William J. Lynch, in charge of the Navy pier, announced yesterday that he had been instructed by Mayor Kelly to keep the pier open until Oct. 1. In previous years it has been customary to close the pier and concessions after Labor day, but the period was prolonged this year so World's Fair visitors could visit the pier. The municipal band concerts at the east end of the pier will be continued throughout September. They are held every Wednesday and Friday evening at 8 o'clock and Saturday and Sunday afternoons at 3 o'clock.

COURT HEARING GIVES HOPE FOR CAB SETTLEMENT

Checker Drivers Get More Time to Pay.

Hope of a settlement of the differences between 400 or more Checker cab driver-owners and the Checker company appeared yesterday as a result of the efforts of Judge George T. Page of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He urged the drivers, who have withheld payments to the to company, to pay up at once if they are able to do so and he advised the company to oust the agitators among the drivers.

The judge had delayed for 24 hours in giving a decision on an appeal by the driver-owners seeking to restrain the company from taking advantage of an order by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward empowering the company to take the cabs away from drivers who are delinquent in their payments. Yesterday he again delayed the entering of an order denying the appeal, so that the drivers who are acting in good faith need not lose their cabs.

Drivers to Get More Time.

Michael Sokol, president of the company, said that any driver giving a valid excuse for not making his service payments, as was ordered by Judge Woodward, would be given additional time to make up back payments. Attorneys Samuel A. Ettelson and Edward C. Higgins, representing the company, gave assurances in open court that drivers who showed good intentions would be treated accordingly. Some of those who refused to make their payments did so with the idea of wrecking the company and then obtaining control of it, Attorney Higgins asserted.

Judge Page told Attorney Julian C. Ryer, who represented some of the drivers, that he could not understand why the money owned was not paid. If the drivers cannot afford to pay now, when they are enjoying extra business due to the World's Fair, they ought to look for other work, he asserted. The judge also took the attitude that Ryer and the drivers were entitled to no relief from him because they had not obeyed Judge Woodward's orders to make payments and to use the designated garages for their cars when not in use. The judge said, however, that he wanted to be helpful to those drivers who were sincere.

Weekly Payments Lower.

The amount of the weekly payments ordered by Judge Woodward represents a reduction from former charges for storage and the accident fund. President Sokol said the daily income of the drivers now averages $10 for a single shift cab and $14 for a double shift.

Judge Page told the attorneys to return before him today at 2 o'clock and report on the arrangements they had made.

JAILS GUNMAN IN FAIR CASE.

John Stevenson, 35 years old, colored, 604 East 50th place, who threatened cashiers at the 31st street entrance of the World's Fair with a revolver Sunday, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Joseph H. McGarry in the South State street court.

EAST WILL SEND CROWDS TO FAIR, SURVEYS SHOW

Cooler Weather to Bring Heavier Travel.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—A multitude is surging from the populous northeastern corner of America in an eleventh hour rush to attend the World's Fair before it closes on Oct. 31. THE TRIBUNE roadster, touring as A Century of Progress official car, received reports in New York, New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia that the Fair has yet to see its biggest crowds from this area.

The advent of cooler weather and the imminence of the final curtain will spurt 3,299,000 to the Fair from this territory in the next fifty-six days.

Visitors to Spend Millions.

THE TRIBUNE roadster was dispatched to these states to assist in promoting this travel and its important influence upon general business and employment in Chicago in the next two months. The visitors from this distance will spend an average of three days in the city. Taking into consideration that many are receiving meals and lodging from friends and relatives, the average expenditure, including food, shelter, laundry, transportation, amusements, merchandise, and incidentals, is placed at $7 per day per visitor. So Chicago, at this rate, will receive $69,279,000 from the easterners in the next fifty-six days, more than one and a quarter millions per day.

Deterrents to this flow of travel feared by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, and by some of Chicago's business and civic leaders are the widespread false reports about adverse conditions encountered by Exposition visitors in Chicago, especially the sixty per cent of out-of-towners who come by private automobile.

Find Rumors Circulated.

THE TRIBUNE automobile editor, accompanied by George Barton, engineer for the Chicago Motor club and a member of A Century of Progress traffic committee, found that these rumors have been circulated in these eastern states. Newspapers and automobile clubs interviewed on the tour have been cooperative in squelching the vicious gossip.

James O. Spearing, automobile editor of the New York Times, and Ernest Bernarth of the Automobile Club of New York said that one of the reports that a private car could not be driven into Chicago during the Fair had even been published in one of the city's large newspapers. They said they will continue to contradict these stories, and they were furnished information to publicize a true account of conditions at A Century of Progress.

ARREST 10 WHEN THEY GREET PAIR HELD AS KILLERS

Ten men, waiting in the Illinois Central station at Roosevelt road to greet two brothers who were being brought back from New Orleans to face charges of murder, were arrested last night by Deputy Chief of Detectives William Blaul. All were friends or relatives of the accused men. Some twenty others in the reception party fled at the approach of the police.

The alleged killers are Peter and Americo Manzoni of 2533 Flournoy street. Peter is said to have confessed in New Orleans the killing of Ralph Pisano, who was shot down in front of 417 South Western avenue last December. Ralph has been sought for several months as one of the killers of Policeman Morris Marcusson, shot when he interrupted a holdup.

Great Leipzig Trade Fair Offers Example for an Annual Exposition in Chicago

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Chicago, in its search for a formula for a successful annual exposition to be founded on the advantages and attractions of the city itself, its many permament exhibits in science, art, and education, and the experience of its 1893 exposition and A Century of Progress, might turn with profit to the ancient city of Leipzig, Germany, which is now opening its annual fall fair, with hotels booked full for years in advance and buyers there from all parts of the world.

The Leipzig Fair, called the International Industries Exposition, is known as the spiritual mother of all fairs, for it has persisted as an important economic factor in Germany since the 15th century and has survived the thirty years war, the Napoleonic campaigns, and the world war.

In fact, it has increased its scope during the last decade, adapting itself to changed conditions. It is not something to which people contribute for the glory of Leipzig or Germany, but a business necessity, changing and expanding. Its record business for one week in 1927 was $200,000,000.

The Crossroads of Europe.

Leipzig, like Chicago, is an economic inevitability, lying at the crossroads of Europe as Chicago lies at the crossroads of the United States.

It lacks the rich agricultural background which makes Chicago unique, but it is a city of half a million, with palaces and forts of historic interest, its Grassi museum of art and science, a museum for the book trade, its municipal library of 120,000 volumes, and its reputation as a music center. In addition it has built 37 palaces and 17 exhibit halls, many larger than Madison Square Garden. Twice annually it opens its trade fairs, with 9,000 exhibitors and buyers from 72 countries. An interesting point made in the literature of the fair is that 95 per cent of the visitors are repeaters.

"Here in Leipzig," reads the invitation of Dr. Raimund Kotzer, the chief director for the fall fair, "you will find the items, the materials, the machinery, or the semi-finished goods which your business needs now—for profit and in formulating your plans for 1934."

Buyers from All Over World.

Among the 126,203 foreign buyers who visited last year's fair were 596 from the United States. The exhibitors are chiefly manufacturers. Of the foreign exhibitors, Czechoslovakia heads the list, with Japan second, and Austria third. There is a general sample fair, an engineering fair, and a material and equipment fair.

The exhibits in the sample fair consist of advertising, applied art, chemicals, foodstuffs, furniture, glassware and ceramics, household goods, electric appliances, lighting fixtures, musical instruments, notions and fancy goods, office appliances, optical goods, scientific instruments, jewelry and metals, sports goods, textile goods, and toys.

The engineering and material division of building and construction equipment, electrical equipment, iron and steel products, machine tools, machinery and apparatus for food and food luxuries, machinery for textiles, paper and graphic arts, power machinery, heating and gas fuel engineering, pumps, compressors and miscellaneous exhibits.

An All Year Organization.

The total exhibition area is 3,700,000 square feet, 40 halls in the inner city and 17 great halls for the engineering and building fair. Additional halls are being planned, for the fair directors work all year with a permanent staff. The most rapid development has come since the war.

The sole task of the board of directors and staff is to bring the Leipzig fair before the world. They have a network of branch offices in Germany and abroad and supply information of every description relative to the fair, taking care of visitors even to their entertainment and rooming.

Spring and fall fairs are held each year.

"Combine with a fascinating vacation a most profitable visit to the Leipzig fairs to compare the products and prices of the entire world," their invitation reads. "Thus, at first hand, you can learn, which items can be bought best at home, combining profit with patriotism, and which items should still be purchased in the other world markets, where you can share in the wide profits of the international exchange."

The word "profits" seems to be the keynote of this exposition, and may account for its permanence and growth.

Toronto Also Has Its Fair.

In Toronto, Canada, is another example of an annual fair run on its own financial momentum. The Canadian National Exhibition is now in its fifty-fifth year, an outgrowth of the old Toronto fair. Last week 1,002,000 visitors had passed its gates. The government and public bodies lend it every aid, but it shows a profit each year and gives the city of Toronto, its official sponsor, a profits check of something between $100,000 and $250,000.

Its books are audited by the city. It costs $1,225,000 each year to "stake" the fair for its run of two weeks. It has never had a deficit. The plant investment is about twenty million dollars. Its record day was Labor day, 1928, when 260,000 attended.

The Toronto exposition has permanent buildings and its exhibits come from all over the world. Canadian manufacturers regard it as their show place and their opportunity to do business. Agriculture has an immense place in the program, with a horse show and live stock pavilion covering twenty acres. Entertainment features include an annual midway of scores of shows, pageants, sport events and races. The fair is spread for a mile and a half along the waterfront, with permanent police, fire, hospital, telegraph, telephone and street cleaning service.

New York state will take the center of the stage at the World's Fair tomorrow with a program of music, speeches, and songs. State Senator Cosmo A. Cilano of Rochester arrived last night to complete the arrangements.

The chief guests at the program at the New York exhibit at the Court of States will be Gov. Herbert H. Lehman and Mrs. Lehman, members of the executive's staff, and mayors from twenty New York cities. The official party will arrive either late tonight or early tomorrow.

The party is scheduled to arrive in the Court of Honor at 11 a. m., to be greeted by President Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair and Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois. Visiting New Yorkers will be guests at a reception in the state exhibit after the formal program at 3:30 p. m.

Only 55 More Days Remain in Which to See the Fair.

Special Trains to Bring Visitors.

Several special trains are bringing New York delegations to Chicago for the day from the eastern seaboard.

With the eastern state presenting its formal program late in the week and Saturday and Sunday attendance constantly growing, officials are hopeful that the Fair will snap out of the slump of the last two days. After the record breaking crowds of Friday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday, the Fair officials expected the falling off of attendance and are not alarmed by it.

The fourteen millionth visitor was welcomed yesterday, ending a five day period in which the attendance was highly irregular. The record attendance for the Fair was established and some of the poorest days of the past month were recorded during the period. Despite this, the present Fair is, by all methods of measurement, far in advance of the 1893 Fair, when a final attendance total of 21,480,141 was attained.

Predict Financial Success.

The honor guest was Miss Bertha Savage, 17 years old, Seattle, Wash. She was given an official reception and awarded a score of prizes.

Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager of the Fair, yesterday made a study of the financial chart, and arrived at, what officials believe, to be a fairl yaccurate estimate of the final financial reading of the Fair. If 25,000,000 visitors pass through the turnstiles, concessionaires will collect $28,000,000, of which $4,000,000 will revert to the Fair. If the attendance reaches 30,000,000 the collections will amount to $33,000,000, of which the Fair will receive about $5,000,000. On the basis of this estimate, an attendance of between 27,000,000 and 28,000,000 will permit the Fair to meet all contractual obligations. Present estimates call for a final attendance to be of 30,000,000.

RUSSIAN TO TRY FOR AMPHIBION WORLD RECORDS

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky of New York, Russian war ace, announced yesterday that he plans to bring his new amphibion plane to Chicago late this month to attempt to establish new world records for that type of plane over the three kilometer and one hundred kilometer courses, which will be measured along the lake front opposite the Fair.

The Seversky amphibion is a low wing, all metal plane which has wheels incorporated in the pontoons, both of which are controlled from the cockpit to take three positions, one for a water landing, another for taxying the plane on the water, and a third for a ground landing. The present record is 156 miles an hour and is held by Italy.

SENATOR URGES EARLY BUILDING OF LAKE AIRPORT

Speaks at Memorial for Mail Flyers.

BY HUGH SEXTON.

The construction of a lake front airport, plans for which have been completed by the Chicago plan commission, as a permanent and fitting tribute to the pioneers of the air mail service and as a lasting benefit to the commerce of the central states, was advocated yesterday by Senator William H. Dieterich at a ceremony held at the World's Fair in commemoration of the work of the pioneer flyers in the air mail service.

"The construction of the lake front airport should be done immediately as part of the vast building program of the national recovery administration," Senator Dieterich said. "This airport would be a great benefit, not only to the city of Chicago, but to the nation as a whole because Chicago is the air hub of the country. It would reduce ground transportation time between the airport and the loop from one hour to five minutes."

Introduced by Rickenbacker.

Senator Dieterich was introduced by Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, American war ace, who stressed the importance of commercial aviation as a preparedness measure. He said the lake front airport would be the most important air center of the world. It would cost six million dollars and require a year to build.

The addresses in the Hall of Science were preceded by a ceremony at the foot of Monroe street, where Capt. Lewis A. Yancey landed his autogiro "Miss Champion" to place a wreath on the propeller marking the spot where Edward Gardner and Max Millfrom New York 15 years ago yesterday. Capt. B. B. Lipsner, first superintendent of the air mail service, described the hazardous flights of the pioneer air mail carriers.

Eighteen army planes of the First Pursuit group from Selfridge Field, Mich., soared overhead in formations while a flight of air mail planes dipped in salute to the memory of Gardner and Miller, and the many other pilots who gave their lives in the mail service.

Finds U. S. Air Systems Best.

Maj. James H. Doolittle, speed flyer, who has just returned after a 12,000 mile world tour of air lines, said that the United States has the best, safest, and fastest air travel systems in the world, due to the pioneering efforts of the early mail pilots. Col. Roscoe Turner and William P. MacCracken, first assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, urged the public to support the air mail lines as the finest transportation system in the world.

Among the listeners was Mrs. Nellie Spangler of Plainfield, Ill., sister of the pioneer air mail pilot, Gardner.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Today will be the last day visitors to the World's Fair may see the Mexican presidential train, and the valuable exhibits it houses, officials of the National Railways of Mexico and the Mexican national government announced yesterday.

Another of the Gilbert and Sullivan operatic concerts is scheduled at the Floating theater tonight. The entire three acts of "The Mikado" will be presented between 8:15 and 10 o'clock. The first act will be brought to radio listeners over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station.

Illinois Achievement week will be observed at the Fair, mostly at the Illinois Host house, Sept. 24 to Oct. 1. The week's program is designed to show the contributions made by the state in music, literature, painting and sculpture, education, and science. Each day's program will be devoted to one or more of the arts with addresses and exhibits by prominent artists in Illinois.

When 18,000 persons visited the Fair art exhibition at the Art institute one day last week, they set a world record for one day's attendance at an art museum. Daniel Catton Rich, assistant curator of paintings, made that announcement yesterday and predicted that visitors for the period of the Fair will reach a total of a million.

After tonight the exhibits will be closed at 10 o'clock Thursday evenings as on other evenings, unless the attendance during the final hour justifies keeping them open until 11 one night a week, Fair officials announced yesterday. The 11 o'clock closing on Thursdays was established in response to requests from visitors, but the crowds have been disappointing.

An address by Prof. R. S. Hutton of Cambridge university, England, will be the principal event in the observance of Michael Faraday day at the Fair tomorrow. The ceremonies will be held in the Illinois Host house at 8 p. m. Scientists attending the international convention of the Electro-Chemical society will take part.

REDUCE HEALTHFULLY!
"BURN UP" FAT... with WELCH'S GRAPE JUICE

At last, an end to dangerous diets, harsh cathartics and questionable drugs; for science has now discovered the safe and sane way to reduce . . . by which fat disappears, yet beauty, health and vigor are maintained.

NRA
THANKS TO WELCH'S I'VE LOST TEN POUNDS AND NEVER FELT BETTER IN MY LIFE
All Reducing Diets Should Include Welch's Grape Juice

The Welch Way to Weight Control

It is the Welch method, the drinking of Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice in substitution for high-calory foods in your diet. Science tells us that in order to lose weight you must force your body to "burn up" its fat. That's why all reducing diets are low in calories or fat-producing elements. But, says science, in order to burn up fat, there must be available to the tissue a certain amount of easily burnable, non-fattening sugar. The grape sugar found in Welch's is simple, pre-digested and non-fattening. It burns up fat, does not add weight. Start right in today. Along with your reducing diet, drink a glass of Welch's with and between meals, and before retiring. Meanwhile, write for Welch's free booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down."

Maintains Your Strength and Beauty

Dieting becomes a pleasure. Your craving for sweets is satisfied. Pounds disappear. You look better, feel better. We do not claim that Welch's is a cure-all but we do say that never until recently has it been possible for the truth about the food value and health-giving qualities of Welch's to be thoroughly known—either by scientists or by ourselves, although we have been bottling this remarkable fruit juice since 1869. The following facts were supplied us by a noted food authority, from the laboratories of a great Eastern university:

"Welch's Grape Juice contains simple grape sugars which are speedily absorbed and require no digestion.

"Welch's Grape Juice is nature's own energy builder . . containing vitamin B content, iron, potassium, and energy elements. For children and adults, Welch's offers an abundance of body-energizing properties combined with a delicious taste. It contains Vitamin B ($B_1$). Its minerals have, as an end effect, an alkaline reaction on the body. It provides good quantities of iron. Thus, Welch's is valuable as a hemoglobin or blood restorative."

But Only Welch's—That's Important

Welch's is not a diluted beverage. The exclusive Welch process retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified-Pure and Pasteurized . . . aged three months to permit the crude tartaric acid crystals to settle out of the juice. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water. And it sells today at the lowest price in 35 years.

FREE Write today for "Keeping Your Weight Down" . . . full particulars of the Welch Way to Weight Control . . . how to reduce healthfully, delightfully.

PARENTS! Ask for free booklet, "Red-Blooded Children" . . . how Welch's helps restore rosy cheeks and buoyant energy to run-down children.

MOTHER CABRINI OF CHICAGO MAY BE MADE SAINT

Church Takes Testimony in Traditional Rite.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

In the first procedure of the kind in Chicago, a Catholic church tribunal with a history of hundreds of years is holding daily sessions in a small room of Columbus hospital, 2548 Lake View avenue. The tribunal is composed of high dignitaries of the church.

It is hearing testimony regarding the virtues and miracles associated with Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, a resident of Chicago for several years before her death in 1917. The testimony is presented by proponents of her proposed canonization by the church.

Whether Mother Cabrini will be made a saint does not rest with this tribunal, but with the congregation of sacred rites in Rome, and, finally, with the pope. But all the important testimony regarding the two reputed miracles, without which no one may be declared a saint, will be taken at the Chicago hearing.

Naturalized Citizen of U. S.

No American citizen so far has been sainted by the church. Mother Cabrini, although a native Italian, was a naturalized citizen of the United States, it was revealed by sisters at the hospital, which she founded in 1905.

The hearing is being held by order of the Apostolic See and Cardinal Mundelein was appointed presiding judge, although he does not appear at all the sessions. The tribunal began taking testimony on Aug. 8 and the work will probably continue through September.

It is a hearing based on elaborate precedent and rigid rules of procedure. There is strict secrecy. The judges meet behind locked doors, hearing only one witness at a time. Notaries, witnesses and all concerned take the vow of secrecy.

Two "Devil's Advocates."

Two main figures appearing before the tribunal are high church officials known as the "devil's advocates." They are in reality sub-advocates, the identity of the "devil's advocate" himself, a high dignitary in Rome, never being revealed. His two representatives here are the Very Rev. George J. Casey of Chicago and the Right Rev. Mgr. John Della Cioppa, who came to Chicago from Rome for the hearing.

The duty of "the devil's advocates," according to Father Casey, a tall, young priest with a questioning blue eye, is to point out every possible objection within reason to the testimony presented.

The "devil's advocates" take the rôle of skeptics for the time being and severely cross-examine witnesses who recite the virtues of the candidate for sainthood and those who describe miraculous cures gained through Mother Cabrini's intervention. The advocates may bring in their own medical experts to testify if they want to rebut the testimony of witnesses.

A Scene of Industry.

One wing of the second floor of the hospital, not far from the room where Mother Cabrini died, is the scene of solemn but intense industry six days out of seven.

Black hooded figures, sisters of the order founded by Mother Cabrini, the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, flit back and forth along the corridors, caring for the wants of witnesses and judges. They do not enter the room reserved for the tribunal, however, so long as the judges are in session.

At the conclusion of yesterday's sitting of the tribunal, a sister opened the empty courtroom for a reporter's inspection. It contains high backed chairs, a long polished table, a rug and two religious pictures. A pre-dieu is at one end of the table. There the witness kneels before a crucifix and, hand on bible, takes the oath.

Four Copies of the Record.

Across the hall a light burns at a late hour. There six or eight sisters, including even the mother superior, bend over desks. They are making the four copies of the day's proceedings which must be done in longhand. They will be sent to Rome for perusal. All the copyists are under oath of secrecy.

The first testimony concerning the miracles attributed to Mother Cabrini's intervention, the first of which occurred four years after her death, will be introduced at the present hearing, possibly next week.

On adjournment of the tribunal some of its members will proceed to West Park, N. Y., where the body of Mother Cabrini, now in a chapel vault, will be exhumed in strict privacy, properly identified by witnesses, and examined for any unusual signs of preservation. If any seemingly miraculous state of preservation exists, this will be added as corroborative evidence of her merits, but is not considered proof in itself of a mircle, it was explained.

Then Case Goes to Rome.

After that, the congregation of the sacred rites in Rome will judge of the validity of the present hearing and of the informative hearings held in 1928 in Chicago and in Sant' Angelo Lodigiano, Lombardy, Italy, where Mother Cabrini was born on July 15, 1850.

If these hearings are affirmed, the congregation of the sacred rites will then consider the testimony regarding "the heroicity of her virtues." If the decision is favorable, and approved by a number of cardinals called in as counselors, and by the pope, she will be known as "venerable."

"Then the question of the miracles is taken up," Father Casey explained. "Only two miracles are required, if there were eye-witnesses whose testimony was introduced. After thorough investigation, if they are approved by the congregation and by the pope, beatification is pronounced by decree and the ceremony is held in St. Peter's in Rome with great solemnity. Two more miracles must occur after beatification before canonization may be possible."

Judges Named by Cardinal.

The judges of the Chicago tribunal, appointed by Cardinal Mundelein, are the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Dennis J. Dunne, the Rev. J. A. Murray, the Rev. Louis Giambastiani, and the Rev. Benjamin Franck.

The postulator of the cause for America is the Rev. A. V. Simoni, a chaplain with the rank of major in the United States army, who is now assigned to duty at Fort Sheridan. He is proponent of the canonization in behalf of the Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart.

So strict is the court procedure that Father Simoni is not allowed in the courtroom during the hearings, on the theory that his presence might influence a witness.

Despite the solemnity of the proceedings, however, the judges on emerging from each session are offered, and accept, small white silk sacks containing hard candies from Rome.

Expense Borne by Order.

The vast expense incurred in the proceedings is borne by the sisterhood, and may extend to one million dollars before canonization, it was estimated.

Formerly no one could be proclaimed a saint until 50 years after death so that time might be allowed for the revelation of some possible error in testimony. Now, however, it was explained, special dispensation permitting early review of testimony is common.

"All miracles must take place after the death of the candidate for canonization," Father Simoni said. "The Blessed Mother herself could not perform a miracle. It must be God who performs the miracle, and all the glory is God's, but He sometimes likes to reflect a little glory on his faithful servants.

Nun One of Witnesses.

Sister Delfina Grazioli of Seattle is one of the witnesses now in Chicago to testify before the tribunal. In December, 1925, after four major operations, Sister Delfina had received extreme unction when, she says, a vision of Mother Cabrini came to her, spoke to her and vanished. Her recovery followed within a few days.

A 12 year old boy, Peter Smith of New York, will come next week as another witness. When he was born, in a New York hospital, on March 14, 1921, a careless nurse washed his eyes with a 50 per cent solution of nitrate of silver instead of the proper 1 per cent solution. The boy was blinded.

"The baby also developed pneumonia and ran a temperature of 109 degrees, I understand," said Father Simoni. "Prayers were said asking Mother Cabrini to intercede. The next day the boy's eyes were pronounced safe and his temperature normal. Now all that remains of the burns is a tiny scar. His sight is perfect, his eyes blue like Mother Cabrini's. I understand the boy wants to be a priest."

Father Simoni paused, and in the pause the chant of the nuns kneeling at their evening prayers was heard from the chapel across the hospital corridor.

Subjected to Medical Test.

"Much of the world thinks, 'How naive the Catholic church is, to believe in miracles still,'" Father Simoni resumed. "Yet cold, scientific medical men will testify at the hearing that the cures were not within the realm of natural causes. X-rays will be shown. Other physicians will be sent from New York to examine the witnesses, to break down their story if possible. Later in Rome the devil's advocate goes over all testimony and writes his objections, and the whole is submitted to noted medical men who, unknown to each other, review it."

Mother Cabrini was the youngest of 13 children, a frail child. It is told that at her birth a flight of white doves alighted on the Cabrini home and fluttered about the threshing floor. As a child she was miraculously saved from drowning, it is said. Thereafter she had a horror of water, although she crossed the ocean 24 times in founding and visiting missionary centers in France, Spain, England and both Americas.

TAX AUDIT SHOWS SUBURBS LEADING CITY IN PAYMENT

But Warrant Collections Are Still Untabulated.

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday were $3,674,820, making a total of $53,-979,180 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act was started on April 28. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the last four years follow:

| | 1928. | 1929. |
|---|---|---|
| Sept. 6 | $ 33,315 | $ 42,606 |
| Uncollected | 17,876,691 | 48,603,432 |
| | 1930. | 1931. |
| Sept. 6 | $ 86,085 | $ 3,513,802 |
| Uncollected | 74,795,162 | 91,657,345 |

The day's collections of 1931 personal property taxes totaled $1,067.

Residents of country towns and villages in Cook county have paid 49 per cent of their total 1931 real estate and personal property tax bills while residents in the city have paid 47 per cent of their bills. This was disclosed yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough in a report of his audit of tax collections through Sept. 5.

The treasurer said, however, he believes when all the tax payments within the last few days have been tabulated, it will be shown that the city residents have paid a higher percentage. It is estimated that about ten million dollars has been paid by large property owners through the tax warrant bureau. These payments, which are partly in cash and partly in tax warrants, have not been audited. When these are added to the collections they will bring the collections to about 53 per cent of the 1931 levy.

The total 1931 tax bill in the suburbs is $41,133,877, of which $20,269,441 has been paid. In the city, $104,608,173 has been recorded as paid on a total tax bill of $222,622,732.

County Judge Jareckl yesterday appointed the county treasurer as receiver for 63 properties to collect delinquent taxes totaling $247,132. Attorneys for 175 other properties paid a total of $200,000 to avoid tax receiverships. Following is the list of properties ordered into receivership under the Kerner-Skarda act and the amount of taxes owed by each:

COUNTY BOARD ASKED TO PROVIDE EXTRA FUND FOR ASSESSOR

The finance committee of the county board yesterday voted to recommend to the board that an additional appropriation be made for the assessor's office. Assessor J. L. Jacobs announced last night that he would need nearly $70,000 to complete the work of the 1931 real estate assessment. A large portion of the expense is entailed by revisions following the order of the board of tax appeals, cutting 15 per cent from the assessment of homes and small apartment buildings. The state Supreme court is expected to give a new ruling on the legality of the order next month.

The motion for the additional appropriation was made by County Commissioner Marie E. Plumb, who declared an emergency existed. The board will consider the recommendation today.

WITNESS TELLS HOW BANDIT SHOT OFFICER IN BACK

War on Crime Lags in Criminal Court.

Witnesses for the state yesterday told the jurors in Judge Harry B. Miller's Criminal court how Ross King, alias Kenneth Smith, 34 years old, a paroled convict, shot and killed Policeman Harry Redlich. King shot the policeman in the back, the witness said, in an effort to rescue his pal in crime, John Bongiorno, 28 years old, also a paroled convict, after the latter had been captured following a robbery on July 8.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty is asking the jury to impose the death penalty on the defendant. The case is expected to reach the jury by tonight.

Sullivan to Spur Colleagues.

The King-Bongiorno trial is the only major criminal case to be started since the crime war was taken over by Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court, who succeeded Judge John Prystalski last Monday. The new chief justice, however, has called a meeting of his associates for this noon to put new life into the crime campaign, which has made little progress in the last two days.

Judge Michael Feinberg pronounced three penitentiary sentences yesterday to bring the total up to 258 since the war was started early in August. Since the new roster of judges took over the Criminal court on Monday only seven penitentiary sentences have been imposed.

However, most of the judges appeared yesterday and expressed a desire to go to work, but lack of jurors prevented them from starting trials. The criminals have been demanding jury trials since they have been unable to bargain for lesser penalties on pleas of guilty or bench trials.

Orders Special Jury Panel.

Chief Justice Sullivan said that the jury problem would be solved today when a special venire of 100 men will report. In order to make sure of enough jurors another special venire of 100 is to report tomorrow morning. The judges will then have no excuse, it was pointed out by the court attachés, for not pushing the crime war at top speed.

Judge Sullivan held a conference with First Assistant State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer yesterday after which he announced that he would ask for twelve judges for the Criminal court instead of ten as was originally planned. The extra judges are expected to preside in some of the cases which will take weeks to try.

For a time yesterday it was feared the King-Bongiorno trial would be delayed through a lack of jurors, but enough veniremen were found to complete the panel shortly after noon. The taking of testimony started immediately.

Ward Rogers, 6147 Kenwood avenue, who has an office in the building at 9 South Kedzie avenue, was one of the witnesses who testified yesterday. He said that on July 8 he saw Policeman Redlich questioning Bongiorno in the hallway of the building. King, who had escaped from the hold-up scene by jumping through a window, came back into the building and without any warning shot the policeman in the back. He and his pal then escaped, but were captured later.

John W. Compton, River Forest, whose advertising agency was robbed by King and Bongiorno just before the arrest and murder, told how the men came into his office, tied him up, and then rifled the safe. Miss Charlotte Taylor, an employé of Compton, became suspicious of the men when she saw them entering the office and had summoned Policeman Redlich.

The only penitentiary sentences yesterday were imposed on Frank Caruso, 22 years old; Fred Cantieri, 23, and Howard Kendall, 26. Each was sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Feinberg after they admitted robbing a branch store of the Consumers Sanitary Coffee and Butter company at 3014 West Madison street, on April 7.

sanitary district or the city government to finance the cost of the bridge work heretofore, Maj. Putnam pointed out, the widening of the Sag channel might already be under way. A survey on the project was undertaken by the government in 1931 and a commission of four army engineers was appointed to study it. The commission comprised Col. G. R. Spalding, St Louis; Col. E. M. Markham, Cleveland, and Col. R. G. Caples and Col. Dan Sultan, Chicago.

"Unable to Bear Expense."

After nearly two years of study Maj. Putnam recalled, the commission concluded that the Sag channel should be widened and was prepared to recommend a federal expenditure of 20 millions when a hitch developed over the bridges. The sanitary district proclaimed its need of all available revenue and more to complete the sewage treatment works ordered by the United States Supreme Court and the city declared itself in an equally penurious plight.

Notwithstanding his conviction on the question, Maj. Putnam indicated that there is doubt that the government will allow an outright grant of the full amount needed for construction of the bridges. There is a feeling, he said, that Secretary Ickes will consent to the bridge financing only on the 30-70 basis, the government granting 30 per cent and compelling the city or sanitary district to post collateral for the other 70 per cent at 4 per cent interest.

ESCAPED LIFE CONVICT SEIZED AFTER SHOOTING 3

James [Red] Kelly, arrested Aug. 28 after he shot and seriously wounded three men during a card game in a poolroom at 3616 South 52nd avenue, was identified last night as Jack Hart, convict, who twice escaped from the Maryland penitentiary while serving a life term for murder.

Hart was sent to the county jail by the Cicero police after he had been held to the grand jury for the shooting. A comparison of records at the bureau of identification showed yesterday that he was wanted in Baltimore and authorities there took steps to have him returned.

The record showed that Hart was sent to prison in August, 1922, and escaped May 10, 1923. He came to Chicago and was arrested for robbery Dec. 19, 1924. Two policemen collected a $1,000 reward for his capture and he was sent back to Maryland. He escaped again on March 15, 1929, and had been at liberty since until the shooting affray in Cicero.

JUDGE GREEN'S PLAN TO FREE 5 IS BALKED BY JURY

Vote Secret Indictment in Fair Ticket Theft.

A secret grand jury indictment charging five men with conspiracy spoiled the plans of Judge Thomas A. Green in th Felony court yesterday to try the men on a lesser charge. The state's attorney's office had hastened the indictment to preclude the reported possibility of their being placed on probation.

Announcement in Judge Green's court of the grand jury action caused an oral explosion from the bench, and a tilt between the judge and prosecuting officials.

Theft of Fair Tickets.

The case involved George Warfield, 26 years old, 7829 Cregier avenue, Lorne Meyers, 27, 6314 Maryland avenue; James Doyle, 19, 7527 Jeffery avenue; Harry Stagg, 38, 1810 Indiana avenue, and Herman Higgensen, 27, 1430 Hyde Park boulevard. Meyers and Warfield are printers for the Donnelley company. All were arrested in connection with the theft of 4,200 World's Fair tickets from the Donnelley plant. About 100 were sold and 288 recovered.

The five were arraigned before Judge Green on Tuesday and after a formal hearing, were held by him to the grand jury on a charge of conspiracy. Meyers and Warfield were also held for larceny.

Not long afterward, Judge Green evinced a change of heart in the matter, and announced he would withdraw his order holding the men to the grand jury if they would plead guilty to a lesser charge. He indicated, according to reports, that he might consider probation in such a case. A rehearing was set for yesterday.

Reaches Ears of Prosecutor.

This development reached the ears of Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash who is assigned to Felony court, Tuesday afternoon. He immediately notified Acting State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer, and the latter ordered the case taken before the grand jury. The grand jury acted promptly by returning indictments against the five.

When the case was called yesterday before Judge Green for the rehearing, Assistant State's Attorney Edwin A. Spiro, in charge of the grand jury, told of the indictment. Judge Green listened indignantly.

"Since when has the state's attorney's office undertaken to run my court?" shouted Judge Green. "If the state's attorney insists on taking cases directly to the grand jury there is no need for a Felony court."

Sergt. Patrick McNamara attempted to defend the procedure but was ordered to "shut up or I'll throw you in jail." McNamara shut up. Then followed an interesting scene. The five defendants, dumfounded by the developments, backed up against the wall, not knowing what to do. Judge Green noticed them and announced a decision.

Tells Men They Are Free.

"I'm going to enter a nol pros in these cases," he continued, "and I forbid anyone to lay hands on these defendants in my courtroom. You men are free. Get out of my courtroom."

Prosecutors protested, saying the capiases for the arrest of the five men were downstairs, and that if the men were allowed to leave court they would escape arrest. The judge listened, then turned to the five defendants again. "Go," he ordered. Four of them left, but were served with the capiases before they could get out of the building. The fifth, Warfield, remained in the santuary of Judge Green's court for an hour, then departed. He was seized outside the court.

Slayer of Wife and Self Crazed, Inquest Jury Says

A verdict of murder and suicide while temporarily insane was returned by a coroner's jury which yesterday investigated the deaths of Charles L. Schmidt, 60 years old, Melrose Park coal dealer, and his wife, Bertha, 40.

in the crime drive, and Judge Green ordered a delay until 11:30 a. m. so some veniremen could be rounded up.

Slow in Choosing Jury.

Selection of the jury proceeded slowly, the gangster's counsel asking each man whether he had prejudices against golfers and other equally relevant questions. It was, therefore, 5 p. m. when the testimony started.

Capt. Matthew Zimmer, chief of the uniformed police, and Supervising Captain John Stege were the first of the police witnesses. The questions asked by Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash and the answers were substantially as follows:

Q.—Do you know Vincent Gebhardi, alias Jack McGurn? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know his reputation. A.—Yes.

Q.—What is it? A.—Bad. He is known as a machine gun and pistol carrier.

Q.—What is his occupation? A.—He is known as a gangster and a hoodlum.

Other Policemen Testify.

Following the captains came Sergt. John Howe, Lieut. Charles Welling, Lieut. William Cusack, and Sergt. William Drury. Their testimony was substantially the same. Welling told of arresting McGurn in 1928 in a loop hotel and finding firearms in his hotel room.

McGurn was freed on a charge growing out of this arrest, and Attorney Feldman protested that the admission of Welling's evidence was improper. Judge Green pointed out that the new vagrancy law makes a man's reputation as well as his deeds a factor in prosecution and held that Welling could tell all.

The seventh witness for the state was Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, director of the Chicago crice commission. He testified that while he did not know McGurn, he had heard of his reputation as a machine gunner, hoodlum and gangster, and that his organization had a file showing just what it was.

Chief Schoemaker on Stand.

Additional police witnesses were Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, Lieut. Edward Birmingham, Sergt. Thomas Touhit, and Patrolman Daniel H. Benson. Answering questions propounded by Assistant State's Attorneys Nash, Granville Beardsley, and John S. Boyle, all associated in the prosecution, they also averred that the McGurn reputation was that of a hoodlum and gangster.

The first to testify for the defense was Gus Pappas, 527 South Morgan street. He said that for two years prior to July, 1932, he and McGurn were partners in a restaurant at 1001 West Harrison street. He had known the defendant, he said, as a biscuit salesman, as a boxer, and a man of good reputation.

Admits Reputation Is Bad.

Arthur Ahern, 9140 South Western avenue, manager of the Evergreen golf course, then told of knowing McGurn for three years. He was forced to admit, however, that he had gathered from the newspapers and gossip that the golfing gunman had a reputation that wasn't good.

The concluding witnesses for the defense were Al Megeff, the Evergreen professional, who declared McGurn was gentlemanly and of good repute, and John Hanik, 2137 West 50th place, a caddy.

Three other well known hoodlums, charged with vagrancy, were arraigned before Judge Green in the morning. They are Bert Delany, once a Capone brewery manager; Frank Buglio, another Capone adherent, and James Belcastro, "king of the bombers." Belcastro's case was continued to today, Delaney's to Sept. 29, and Buglio's to Sept. 19.

COAL PACT NEAR; NO MORE 'OPEN SHOP' IN CODES

Johnson Gives His Views on Labor Issue.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—A code for the bituminous coal industry is expected to be laid before President Roosevelt for final approval on Saturday, National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson announced today.

Virtual agreement on the knotty unionization problems, which for months have impeded the completion of the coal code, was obtained at a White House conference this evening, Gen. Johnson stated, after he and President Roosevelt had talked the controversial matters over with four leading nonunion coal operators and four officials of the United Mine Workers.

Discuss Labor Pacts.

"We really got somewhere tonight," Gen. Johnson asserted following the White House meeting. "My best guess is that we'll have a code for the President on Saturday."

"The discussions tonight were about the labor contracts. I'm not so worried about the code. The contracts are the principal things now. In them we can negotiate all agreements right here and leave nothing to be settled after the code goes into effect," Gen. Johnson added.

Gen. Johnson said the principal point at issue between the nonunion operators and the labor officials was still the matter of open and closed shop language. He would not discuss the controversy further, stating that he had promised not to do so.

It was reported, however, that the coal operators have insisted that language qualifying the "collective bargaining" provisions of the national recovery act be written into the labor contracts. The labor officials, on the other hand, have been equally insistent that the pacts recognize long standing principles of union labor organizations.

What settlement of that question is imminent, the general would not state. He was confident, he said, however, that the difficulties are sufficiently adjusted to predict an agreement by tomorrow.

Strengthens Labor's Status.

Meanwhile today organized labor's position in the national recovery campaign was strengthened still further with an announcement by Gen. Johnson that industry will not be permitted to include open shop language in any code approved under the NRA.

This declaration by the administrator while twenty or more other industries were asking that similar provisions be written into their codes constituted a denial of all these requests. How this attitude affects the coal code negotiations was not made clear.

The automobile pact completed some days ago carried the stipulation that employers retained their right to hire, promote, demote or to dismiss workers regardless of their labor affiliations. This stipulation or any similar language is to be barred from all future codes, the general declared today.

Regarded Labor Victory.

Johnson's decision, announced suddenly after weeks of speculation, was regarded as a conclusive victory for labor, which is insisting that the "collective bargaining" provisions of the recovery act be left unqualified by the language of recovery codes.

"I am not going to allow that provision in any more codes," the general asserted at his press conference. "It creates confusion and, while we have stated that it was not an attempt to modify or qualify the statute, portions of it has been lifted out and construed as modifications and qualifications. I cannot allow any modifications of the statute.

"That language is innocuous, anyway," the administrator continued. "It doesn't mean anything, really. I am not going to approve any other code in which it is included. That or any other similar language."

$50,000 GALESBURG FIRE.

Galesburg, Ill., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Loss estimated at $50,000 was caused by a fire in the Galesburg Implement company garage, destroying twenty-five cars and trucks, including five live stock vans.

Charge 1,000 NRA Violations; Await Order for Hearings

Members of the Chicago Recovery council and other recovery bodies said yesterday that they were expecting instructions from NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson to begin the establishment of enforcing or policing organizations.

These organizations, it was explained, will conduct hearings into cases where violations of President Roosevelt's reemployment agreement and trade codes have been charged and will then take suitable action in each instance. More than 1,000 alleged violations have already been reported to the local recovery council in the Chicago district.

"No attempt to threaten any one will be made unless the violators take an arbitrary attitude," said F. L. Roberts, district administrator for the local department of the United States department of commerce. "Gen Johnson doesn't want to use compulsion unless it is absolutely necessary. On the contrary, he is seeking coöperation.

Working on Uniform Procedure.

"The national administrator is now working out a uniform procedure and method which will be used throughout the United States to enforce the agreement. It is expected that his plans for bringing into line those still remaining out from under the Blue Eagle will be made known very shortly."

It was pointed out that Gen. Johnson has said that the recovery administration's chief reliance in the case of complaints is in the force of public opinion, and that to take away the Blue Eagle is a more severe penalty than any fine; but if that should prove insufficient there are plenty of penalties under the law that may be invoked."

Meanwhile more than 10,000 canvassers were at work in the city making a house to house drive in the campaign to enlist the head of every one of the approximately 800,000 families in Chicago in the NRA movement. Five new pledging stations were opened yesterday to bring the total to 148 stations where pledge cards may be signed and consumer's stickers obtained.

Wrigley Employés Sign.

All the 1,000 employés of the William Wrigley Jr. company have signed pledge cards and many other large concerns are nearing that 100 per cent record, it was announced by Paul Kunning of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Mr. Roberts reported that 3,730 acceptances of the President's reemployment agreement, which affects 209,629 employés, were received yesterday from employers in this district. A total of 1,620,703 employés have now been affected by the acceptance of 35,811 employers in this district, which includes Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa.

Six hundred members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the ladies' auxiliary of that association opened a two day joint state meeting at Hotel La Salle and discussed, among other subjects, how the NRA will affect their field. Representatives from every state in the union and many Canadian provinces were present.

Rail Men Demand NRA Status.

David Brown Robertson, president of the brotherhood, declared that railroad labor will continue its movement to be included under the NRA despite President Roosevelt's statement that congress had exempted railroads from the provisions of the recovery act.

A settlement of the strike of 75 maintenance men in the Greyhound Bus Lines shops at 34th street and Cottage Grove avenue, who walked out two weeks ago, was expected to be made today or in the early future. Meanwhile strikers picketed the bus depot at 164 North State street.

The strike was called after five mechanics had been dismissed because they refused to join a Greyhound company organization and did join the International Association of Machinists after organizing under the NRA movement, it was explained by Don Burrows, business agent of the association. He said that efforts at a settlement had been held up because O. F. Cæsar, president of the Greyhound Management company, has been out of town.

RELY ON EAGLE TO BRING FORD INTO NRA LINE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—A policy of "watchful waiting" over Henry Ford will be the order for NRA. This was announced tonight by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson after he had conferred at length at the White House with President Roosevelt. There also was a suggestion that the U. S. district attorney in Detroit could act under the penal sections of the recovery act.

Will "Sit Tight."

Noticeably less cocky about Mr. Ford than he had been late in the afternoon, Mr. Johnson said the President "agreed" with him that the best course to pursue for the present, so far as Mr. Ford's defiance of the automobile code and the Blue Eagle is concerned, is to sit tight and await developments.

"Everybody doesn't have to sign the code, under the law," Gen. Johnson said after the White House conference. "The automobile code is in effect, however, and everybody's got to obey its provisions, and that includes Henry Ford."

Prefers Force of Blue Eagle.

Reiterating that he had heard nothing from the Detroit automobile manufacturer, Gen. Johnson said that if Mr. Ford violates the provisions of the code, "he lays himself open to prosecution under the law."

The federal district attorney in Detroit can bring this criminal action against Mr. Ford, if he obtains evidence that the Ford factories are operated in defiance of the code.

"But I'd a lot rather wait on the force of the Blue Eagle—public opinion—than to go out there and look for violations and take action upon them," the general added. "I don't expect to do anything at this time to bring any suits under the NRA."

"Has the President the same idea?" he was asked, and he replied affirmatively.

MAYOR LAUNCHES DRIVE ON WASTE AND TAX EVILS

Civic Leaders Appointed to Recovery Committee.

A double barreled drive against the twin evils of tax wasting and an antiquated revenue system, which have cut down the credit of Chicago local governments was launched yesterday in the office of Mayor Kelly.

Leaders of local governments and civic leaders appointed to the new Chicago recovery administration by Mayor Kelly completed their organization and elected Newton C. Farr chairman of their executive committee. Before the meeting opened the mayor had a conference with Fred W. Sargent, who recently resigned as chairman of the committee on public expenditures; E. R. Graham, chairman of the executive committee of that body, and D. F. Kelly, at which it is understood, Mr. Graham agreed to take the post vacated by Mr. Sargent.

See Close Coöperation.

The election of Mr. Farr, who is secretary of the committee of public expenditures, was one of several indications of close coöperation between the two bodies.

The committee on public expenditures, which is purely a citizens' organization, is to continue the work which it has done in the past of scrutinizing public budgets and keeping expenditures of tax money as close as possible to the minimum required to perform the essential functions of government. The CRA, to the executive committee of which Mayor Kelly appointed Gov. Horner and the heads of all the large local governments, will work on reform of the revenue system, restoration of public credit, and collection of the huge mass of delinquent taxes.

A suggested program for its activities was given to the organization meeting by Mayor Kelly, in the form of five recommendations to which he urged they apply their collective thought and effort.

Limitation on Taxes.

These recommendations were:

1. Enactment of a reasonable and effective limitation upon general property taxation.

2. Substantial modification of the entire revenue system so as to relieve some of the burden now imposed by general propert, taxes.

3. Development of a practical and definite plan for dealing with the increasing mass of delinquent taxes.

4. Development of conditions necessary to improved short term loan credit so that running expenses can be paid, and of long term loan credit so that public debt can be funded.

5. Development of a plan "for more effective coördination of local governments by voluntary action or legal consolidation."

Plan New Revenue Amendment.

From the nature of the problems suggested for study by Mayor Kelly it appeared likely that one of the first concrete tasks of the CRA will be the drafting of a new revenue amendment to the state constitution, perhaps for consideration at the expected legislative special session, to deal with relief and liquor control problems.

Opening the meeting, Mayor Kelly said that the purpose which he had in mind in suggesting the CRA was "to try to develop through a study of our problems and interchange of views and ideas the solution of certain pressing problems which are upon us here and which find their counterparts in many other sections of the country."

Most essential, he continued, is the finding of "the most adequate ways and means of meeting the proper and necessary costs of the essential public services." He mentioned the unpaid pay rolls of local governments, the default on bonds by some of them, the mass of unpaid taxes all as evidence that the revenue system is not functioning in a proper manner.

Expenses Have Been Cut.

"We are too largely dependent for local governmental revenue upon the overburdened property tax system," he said. "The expenses of our governments have been reduced substantially since 1930, yet even these reduced expenditures are not being financed."

The executive committee named by Mayor Kelly consisted of Chairman Farr himself, Gov. Horner, and the following:

President James B. McCahey of the school board.
A. D. Piamondon, president of the Lincoln park board.
Emmett Whealan, president of the county board.
Ald. William A. Rowan of the 10th ward.
Ald. John S. Clark of the 30th ward.
T. J. Bowler, president of the sanitary district.
Assessor J. L. Jacobs.
State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.
The Rev. Samuel K. Wilson, president of Loyola university.
R. M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.
Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university.
Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency.
George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago.
John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.
Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers and a leader of the "Save Our Schools" committee.
E. R. Graham, D. F. Kelly and Fred W. Sargent, members of the committee on public expenditures.
Walter R. Gregory, president of the State street council.
F. J. O'Brien.
George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.
Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the Commercial club.
William Stelzer, president of the Cook County Civic council.
Charles E. Fox, real estate broker.
Nathan K. McGill of the Chicago Defender, Negro newspaper.

A subcommittee consisting of Chairman Farr, Messrs. Fairweather, Zander, Gregory, Rees, Fox, Jacobs, Stelzer, Sutherland, and Frank H. Cenfield of the city council finance committee staff was appointed to draw up plans for organization and procedure and report to the executive committee in a few days. The CRA will hold its next meeting Monday.

Chairman Farr is a former president of the real estate board, a post which was held before him by his father, the late Marvin A. Farr, pioneer Chicago real estate man.

CLAIRE WINDSOR TELLS OF RAID; READ WAS GUEST

Two Go to Agua Caliente Together; Letters Read.

dot scarf, perky black satin beret and black gloves, by reading Claire's letter from Pittsburgh, written Nov. 25, 1931. In that letter she had hoped to "always be yours."

"Did you, on that date, feel that you would 'always be his'?" Robinson challenged.

"Well, we hoped for a lot of things," Claire said, thoughtfully. "We never know whether they will work out as we want them or not."

Q.—Answer the question, yes or no. A.—Yes. But, from everything he had told me, everything that happened, I believed thoroughly that some day, probably, I would marry him.

Q.—Did you ever use any other means than these letters and telegrams to bring him to you? A.—[Angrily.] No, I didn't. I never had a vicious thought in my head.

First Hint of Frost.

Reading of the correspondence disclosed that the first hint of frost for the romance crept into a letter from Read dated Oct. 7.

His letter said: "Darling, my secretary forwarded two of your letters, the two that tell of you possibly waiting for something you will never get. Darling, you speak of me possibly being selfish in continuing with you if I knew all the time I never could have you. Well, dear, you know what I told you on the train—that I loved you more than any one in the world, but that I could not expect your love until I was free and that I would be fair with you by telling you immediately if I found we never could be anything to each other.

"Dear, this still holds good. I never would cause you unhappiness or hurt you."

Had Always "Been in Love."

Another letter she wrote at Pittsburgh, on Nov. 27, read:

"Darling—I dolled up for a change and went to a smart affair, the Charity ball. Was invited to join Libby Holman. She's to star in 'Three's a Crowd' in Chicago when we play there. They were in Philadelphia when we were. But I don't care much about her. To my mind she is ugly. . . .

"I've always been sort of in love, all my life. I live on it and am now, but it's all so foolish unless something is worked out soon, for I can't fool myself.

"I need some one. It's you, but I can't have you. Honest, it's been so long I've forgotten the meaning of it, or why the angels sing. Darling, do come on. Forgive this awful writing, my hands are tired and my d—n arm aches.—Claire."

More About that Crack-Up.

Other letters exchanged between the couple suggested cooling love, with Read's cooling first. Miss Windsor wrote from Cleveland, Dec. 16, 1931:

"Darling: My disappointment is great not to have some one dear near me on Christmas. Your wire came with a letter today. They all think you are stringing me along. I've talked about you coming so long I'm beginning to think it's the second coming of Christ. Forgive me, darling, but you are slow getting east to me. Claire."

An apologetic letter about a plane crack-up was forwarded by Read from San Francisco Dec. 22:

"Darling: This letter must not cause you worry, dear, as I am O. K., but cannot write. Had a little misfortune four or five days ago, to be exact, a crack-up. Frank [Trower, his business associate] is kind enough to write for me, as I was worried over the fact you would be wondering why I had not written. Al."

Miss Windsor wrote from Cleveland on the same day:

"Darling: I am all strapped up with plasters about my back, neck, shoulders and arm. [She had an ailing shoulder]. Am making a desperate effort to feel good for Chicago. Please, dear, wire immediately if you are going to Chicago New Year's eve. I'd die if left alone that, of all nights. I know I am going to cry my eyes out this Christmas. Claire."

A Long Silence.

Read did not write against until Jan. 27 from Los Angeles:

"There is certainly a lot to say now, after such a long silence. As you probably know, I cracked up and broke my arm and got cut up generally. While I do not know what the future holds, I know I think a great deal of my little boy and daughter and am madly in love with you, dear.

"I would be so unhappy if you were to think of me in the wrong light. I shall never forget you, dear, and only pray some day to be with you forever. I will not kid you, dear. I do understand your point of view. Al."

Miss Windsor signed off from Milwaukee, Feb. 3:

"Dear Al: Your letter from Los Angeles received. So glad you are all right now, but it was all so mysterious and I hope you have given up your desire to fly so high. I am inclosing clipping—you see, I am denying there is any interest whatsoever, as I am already a joke to so many for having foolishly admitted fondness for a married man who had no intentions of being anything else but married; but wanted his vanity flattered at the expense of a silly fool. Well, we all live and learn, but each lesson is so different. I hope you are happy—am sure you are—and, believe me, I'll be, too, when I get back to my home in Los Angeles. Happiness always to you. Claire."

Mrs. Read, who asks $100,000 damages, later took the stand and drew a picture of a happy Oakland home that existed, she said, until her husband met the stage and screen beauty.

GOVERNOR APPOINTS BOARD ON HOUSING; ASKS SPEEDY ACTION

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Gov. Horner today appointed members of the state housing board, provided for in the Sinnett housing bills. The governor said he would request the members to meet at an early date and proceed as rapidly as possible, with a view of providing additional employment.

Charles L. Rice, Chicago, associated with Western Electric company.

Robert I. Hunt, Decatur.

Mrs. Guy Tawney, Champaign, vice president of the Illinois League of Women Voters.

Duncan C. Smith, East St. Louis.

A short time before the governor announced the personnel of the commission he received a telephone call from Robert Kohn of the federal department of labor asking him to include in his call for a special session of the legislature a proposition to give counties the right to secure grants from the government to rebuild tenements.

GOV. GORE CALLED "DAMN LIAR" BY PORTO RICO PAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 6.—La Democracia, organ of the insular Liberal party, today printed an editorial on the front page in which it called Gov. Robert H. Gore of Chicago and Florida a "damn liar." The paper is a Spanish daily, but the editorial was printed in English.

The appellation was used in the course of a reply to a statement made by Gov. Gore in Washington, D. C., in which he denied that he had sought undated resignations from his insular appointees and asserted that Senator Barcelo, Liberal leader, had spread such a story to harm his influence in Porto Rico.

Senator Barcelo today cabled Gov. Gore at Washington advising him of the contents of the editorial. Barcelo concluded with the assertion that the occasional manifestations of hostility toward the United States here are largely due to the presence in positions of authority of "men of your extraordinary shortcomings."

RESUME DETROIT BANK INQUIRY; REPLY TO PRIEST

Stair Asserts Coughlin Ignored Facts.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—The special grand jury investigating Detroit's bank holiday crisis resumed its inquiry today before Judge Harry B. Keidan, with Ralph Stone, chairman of the board of the Detroit Trust company on the stand.

Mr. Stone denied there had been any intent to deceive depositors in the fact that his institution carried as a cash asset an item of $6,000,000 more than the actual cash on hand. Neither was there any "check kiting" as charged by Senator James Couzens, he asserted.

Stair Explains His Position.

E. D. Stair, former president of the Detroit Bankers company and publisher of the Detroit Free Press, in his testimony before the jury, said that at no time prior to the bank holiday was there any mention by officers of the First National bank, Detroit, or by agents of the controller of the currency, that the First National was insolvent.

Stair said that when he assumed the presidency of the Detroit Bankers company was purely a holding concern.

"Much against my will," Stair testified, "I became president with the distinct understanding I would not accept any salary. All the salaried officers disappeared except the controller and the auditors of the company.

"I had no authority over the board of officials or of the various units. I simply presided at meetings."

Answers Priest's Charges.

Stair, who was the chief object of attack by the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, when the latter was on the stand, testified that those charges against him were "a pack of lies."

"I don't want to bandy words with a man so devoid of truth and honor as Father Coughlin," he said. "He could have obtained the facts, but he didn't choose to. What he said about me was just a pack of lies."

Another statement by Stair was that John Ballantyne, head of the new Manufacturers National bank, in which the Fords are financially interested, had not resigned from the presidency of the Detroit Bankers company but had been asked to resign.

"There has been testimony here that Mr. Ballantyne resigned because of the rotten condition of the First National bank. Is that correct?" Judge Keidan asked.

Why Ballantyne Resigned.

"John Ballantyne resigned because he was asked to," Stair stated. "That 'rotten condition' rumor was one of the lies that has been testified to in this open forum."

This statement brought forth the announcement from Prosecutor Toy that Ballantyne will be called as a witness to tell whether he resigned voluntarily or by request.

Tonight Mr. Stair made public a statement in which he said:

"In my blunt reply to Judge Keidan, I did the dean of Detroit bankers, John Ballantyne, an injustice. Instead of saying he was asked to resign, I should have said he was out of harmony with the governing committee, and resigned when differences could not, or were not, adjusted. There was no such reason as stated by a previous witness."

VISCOUNT GREY, BRITISH LEADER IN THE WAR, DIES

Entered Conflict to Protect Belgium.

good will and because in Germany there was a will to war and not a will to peace."

Viscount Grey was born on April 25, 1862. He was the son of Capt. George Grey, from whose father he inherited a baronetcy. At the age of 23 he became a Liberal member of the house of commons and continued there until 1916, when he received his viscountcy. Thereafter he became a leader of the Liberal party in the house of lords and continued in that capacity until 1924.

He was named undersecretary of foreign affairs in 1892 and served in that post for three years. He received the foreign affairs portfolio in 1905 and was not replaced until 1916. In 1912 he was made a knight of the garter, a rare distinction for a commoner.

Long known as a friend of the United States, he was sent to Washington as British ambassador in October, 1919, but returned to Britain after a service of only four months. It was at this time that his eyesight was impaired. It was feared he was going permanently blind and he learned to read Braille. His eyes later improved but he was never able to return actively to politics.

Noted as Fly Fisher.

Viscount Grey was termed the "silent pilot of British diplomacy." And he was also referred to as one of the greatest living authorities on fly-casting. He wrote one book during his long public career and its title was "Fly Fishing."

Viscount Grey wrote a number of public letters following the war, however, which had political importance. In one of these he defended the right of the United States senate to make reservations in the matter of joining the league of nations, notwithstanding the fact that he was a strong advocate of the organization. In another letter he pleaded for more votes for the United States in the league in order to get that nation to enter.

Viscount Grey was at odds with former Premier Lloyd George over Liberal party policies for several years. He was the leader in forcing Lloyd George's expulsion from the party. In 1927, however, Lloyd George got back in the fold and caused the viscount to withdraw and form a rebel "Liberal council."

Foe of Russia.

Viscount Grey favored Russian membership in the league but in 1927 he urged Britain to refuse to recognize the soviet government because of its avowed intention to bring about a world revolution. In recent years he has been almost entirely beyond the public eye.

Viscount Grey married his first wife, Dorothy Widdrington, in 1885. She died in 1906, childless. He was married a second time in 1922 to Lady Glenconner. His second wife died in 1928 also childless. There is no heir to the viscountcy.

DAVIS EXPLAINS U. S. ARMS POLICY TO GREAT BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Optimistic that fears of war will prove a greater stimulant to disarmament than fears of insecurity will act as a motive for high armament expenditures, Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, began a series of European conferences today before the resumption of the disarmament conference at Geneva next month.

Davis drove to the foreign office this morning with Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, where he had a long conversation with Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary.

Davis, it is reliably reported, was busy explaining that the United States had not adopted any specific plan but has approved the suggestion only in principle.

NAZIS PROTEST SUPPRESSION BY LEAGUE IN SAAR

Charge Versailles Treaty Is Being Violated.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAARBRUCKEN, Saar Territory, Sept. 6.—Editors of Nazi papers in the Saar today protested to the league of nations against numerous suspensions of their papers by the league's Saar government commission. They charged the latter with acting as an enemy of National Socialism.

The protesters, who are affiliated with the Federation of German Editors, charged that the government commission does not respect the Versailles treaty ,which assures the population of the Saar full liberty of decision concerning its ultimate political status. This refers to the campaign carried on in the Nazi press for the return of the Saar to Germany in the plebiscite of 1935.

Cite Left Wing Propaganda.

The protest concludes with the observation that the juridic situation of the Saar government is different from that of Germany, which is obliged to throttle the opposition in order to assure its own existence.

Swedes Launch German Boycott.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 6.—A boycott of German goods was urged upon all consumers in Sweden in an official proclamation issued by the Swedish Federation of Trade Unions today. The unions have a membership of 650,000, which is a majority of Swedish workmen. The declaration was along the line of resolutions passed by the International Federation of Trade unions at Brussels recently.

Newspaper is Suppressed.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—This morning's edition of the newspaper Tageblatt was confiscated by the police on the ground that its report of yesterday's Protestant church synod was "objectionable." Tageblatt's account of the meeting recorded some of the protests raised by the non-political Evangelical wing to the domineering tactics of the German Christian majority and its introducing the "race issue" into the church.

Deprive Reds of Food.

HAMBURG, Sept. 6.—The chief of police today ordered 80 communist officials, confined at the Wittmore concentration camp, deprived of the midday meal and any liberty for three days. They are being penalized because a few nights ago, it is stated, a shot fired from the dark upon a marching column of brown shirts hit one in the thigh. No clue could be found of the marksman.

Danzig Nationalists Go Nazi.

FREE CITY OF DANZIG, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Seeing "no further possibility of fruitful political activity," Ernst Ziehm, former president of the Danzig senate, today announced the dissolution of the German Nationalist party in the free city, of which he was chairman. In a letter to the senate he appealed to party members to coöperate actively with the Nazi government.

[Danzig Nazis gained control of the government at an election last May. Danzig is former German territory. Its reunion with Germany is one of the long time objectives of the German Nazis.]

ORTHODOX JEWS BOYCOTT "ALL THINGS GERMAN"

Rabbis Vote "Charem" for Hitler Regime.

New York, Sept. 6.—[Special.]—All Orthodox Jews in the United States and Canada are required to begin an immediate boycott of all things German as a result of passage of a "charem" today at the 16th annual convention of the assembly of Hebrew Orthodox Rabbis at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Until the withdrawal or "repentance" of the Hitler régime they may handle nothing originating in Germany, either for use or for profit. The "charem" was adopted without an excommunication clause which had been proposed, and which Samuel Untermyer, noted lawyer, opposed. Mr. Untermyer addressed the convention and told the rabbis that a boycott was the only weapon with which Jewry could combat Hitlerism.

Warns to Avoid Religious Issue.

At the same time he warned them against the dangers of passing a resolution for a "charem" that would result in the excommunication of all Jews who purchased German goods.

"Don't, I beg of you, take such drastic steps," Mr. Untermyer said. "I think it would be injurious to our cause to drag the religious question into this situation. It is purely a racial question."

"Might Do Harm."

He said that if it were their purpose to translate it into a religious transaction they were likely to alienate some of the support being given the Jews by non-Jews, and that the resolution should state that the action was being taken on racial and not religious grounds.

Following Mr. Untermyer's warning and his expressed opposition, the two-score or more rabbis from various sections of the country went into a heated discussion with many declaring in favor of modifying the "charem," stating it would be a boycott and not a weapon for excommunication.

FATHER HIT BY SON IN FAMILY QUARREL DIES

Frank Hall, 40 years old, died yesterday in the Roseland Community hospital of a skull fracture inflicted on Sunday by his son, Raymond, 16 years old, after a quarrel in their home at 11133 Vernon avenue. Raymond used his Boy Scout hatchet as a weapon.

The boy had been released to the custody of his mother, but was taken in custody last evening for the inquest today. Capt. Michael Grady of the Kensington police learned that Hall, a powerful man, appeared at his home early Sunday and demanded money from his wife, Sophie.

He locked Raymond up in the bathroom and began to beat his wife and their daughter, Stephanine, 18 years old, they charged. Raymond broke out of the bathroom. His father attacked him with a beer bottle, his mother told police, whereupon the boy knocked his father unconscious with the blunt end of the hatchet.

Precautions are being taken for the safety of the professor, who is staying with his wife near Blankenberghe, Belgium, the paper said. ## BRITISH FORESTS BURN IN DROUGHT; CALL OUT TROOPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 6.—Troops, firemen, and hosts of volunteers were fighting heath and forest fires in two sections of Great Britain today. Many dwellings were threatened and much damage has already been done to valuable timberland. The fires are a result of the protracted drought.

During the last 24 hours a fire has been raging outside Camberley, near the Aldershot military camp. Troops turned out in gas masks early this morning and fought the flames until daybreak.

They were relieved early today by fresh details, who have been operating under orders conveyed by dispatch riders on motorcycles. About 2,000 officers and men are involved.

The most serious outbreak occurred this afternoon in a new forest in southwestern Hampshire. The flames spread for miles along the roadside. Residences near the forest are in extreme danger.

Will "Wish-Thinking" Get Me Anywhere?

Yes—if along with your ability to wish for better things you have the capacity to make your dreams come true.

To get anywhere, you need vision and determination, of course.

But, also, you need a well-conceived plan for reaching your objective, and the capacity to "follow through" on your plan.

The type of training offered in the evening classes of a modern university will help you, not only to formulate your life plan intelligently, but also to carry it out effectively.

Northwestern University School of Commerce maintains evening courses on the downtown McKinlock Campus for those employed during the day. These courses have helped many to achieve their ambitions, to reach their goals.

A card to the Educational Adviser, 339 East Chicago Avenue, or a telephone call to Superior 4500, will bring you bulletins describing the courses available.

You, too, can reinforce your "wish-thinking". Decide now to devote one or more evenings a week this fall to these courses.

U. S., Polish Aeronauts Unreported.

If the two missing balloons, carrying four men, which took off Saturday evening from the Curtiss-Wright airport at Glenview in the 21st annual James Gordon Bennett races, are still unreported today, an extensive search for them will be started. Military and coast guard aid would be sought.

This was announced last night, more than 96 hours after the race had started, by Cliff Henderson, managing director of the International Air races in connection with which the Bennett contest was held.

The missing aeronauts are the Americans, Ward T. Van Orman, pilot, and Frank A. Trotter, in the Goodyear IX., and the Poles, Capt. Franczizek Hynek, pilot, and Lieut. Zbigniew Burzynski, in the Sp-ad. All are veterans. Van Orman is a former Bennett trophy winner.

Officials Not Greatly Alarmed.

Race officials are not unduly alarmed over the failure to hear from the balloons, pointing out that they may have landed in wild, uninhabited country, probably in Canada, and may be unable to communicate with the outside world. On the other hand, the course of the balloons, the result of a southwest wind, took them not only over stretches of wilderness, but over lake regions. The water peril originally was considered worst.

Mr. Henderson pointed out that searches for missing balloons do not customarily follow until 80 hours from the start of the race. By the time a search can be started today, if one is started, nearly 110 hours will have elapsed.

Old Record 49 Hours.

The old record for time in the air by any Bennett race balloon was 49 hours. This record was broken on Monday night in the present contest by Lieut. Commander Thomas G. W. Settle of the United States navy, in a navy balloon. He and his assistant, Lieut. Charles W. Kendall, landed at Hotchkiss Grove, Conn., 51 hours and 59 minutes after their takeoff. It is possible, however, that even this record was broken by either the American Goodyear or the Polish Sp-ad.

Settle's distance from Glenview to Hotchkiss Grove was between 750 and 800 miles. He is conceded a good chance of being declared winner. Everything depends, of course, on the two missing balloons. Settle won last year's Bennett race in Switzerland with a 921 mile drift.

Six balloons took off in the race. The Belgian, German, and French bags descended in upper Michigan on Sunday. Settle followed on Monday, leaving the two balloons still unreported.

BANDITS HOLD UP HOTEL.

GRANTED DIVORCE

MRS. MAE SMITH.

Daniel M. Smith abandoned a printing business to spend his time playing bridge for money, but couldn't win enough to support his wife, Mrs. Mae A. Smith, 26 years old, 1725 East 67th street. She so testified yesterday in obtaining a divorce before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Superior court. Smith lives at 932 North Lockwood avenue. Her bill, filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole, also charged him with drunkenness. She asked no alimony, but Judge Sabath awarded her the family furniture, including two bridge tables and two dozen packs of cards.

INSULL HEARING FACES DELAY OF ANOTHER WEEK

Papers Sent Out of Athens to Be Photographed.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 6.—Forest Harness, special representative of the United States attorney general's office, who is conducting the American government's attempt to secure the extradition of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, to stand trial on charges of fraudulent bankruptcy, left Athens tonight for Saloniki. He was accompanied by Gerhardt Gade, secretary of the American legation.

Harness and Gade took with them the bulky documents concerning the Insull case. They will have photostatic copies of these documents made in Saloniki, where the only photostat machine in Greece exists.

Insull Seeks Copies.

Harness and Gade are expected to be absent until next week, making it improbable that the papers will be filed with the Greek government before the end of next week.

Meanwhile Insull and his lawyers are straining every nerve to get copies of the indictment against him, on the basis of which he was recently arrested and confined in a hospital pending the extradition hearing. Insull has just learned that this indictment was made public in the United States on Aug. 25. He has ordered it rushed to Athens for his attorneys here and it is understood he may have it toward the end of the week. He is hiring an airplane to bring it from Paris.

Insull, it is understood, thinks his defense will be harder this time because of the secrecy with which this second case against him is being conducted. The first attempt, by the state of Illinois on charges of larceny and embezzlement, failed. Insull said today that he expects his lawyers to ask a long adjournment when the first hearing is called.

Insull Annoyed at Detainment.

"We will certainly have to send to Chicago to get documents for my defense," he said.

Insull appeared annoyed at his detainment tonight.

"It was not necessary to arrest me until the papers were actually filed," he complained. "Why do they want me to spend all this time under guard?"

Insull's pretty friend and intermediary, Mme. Helen Kouryoumdjoglou, had a long conversation with him at the hospital tonight.

Bank Robber Kills Farmer, Shoots Himself; Is Caught

Byron, Minn., Sept. 6.—(AP)—A bandit today held up the Byron State bank, shot and killed Charles Gronvold, 58, a farmer near here, was captured after he had wounded himself when pursued by state crime bureau agents as he fled. The bandit, who ran his car into a ditch, fired a shot through his ear as the agents' automobile neared him.

POLAND HONORS U. S. ENVOY IN CASTLE OF KINGS

Cudahy Hands Credentials to President Moscicki.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Sept. 6.—With lavender and white pennants flying, two squadrons of Poland's crack cavalry regiment today escorted John Cudahy of Milwaukee, new American ambassador to Poland, from the Hotel Europeski to the ancient castle of Polish kings, where he presented his credentials to the Polish president, Prof. Ignace Moscicki.

The ceremony, which was scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because the regiment, which had just returned from maneuvers, was unable to polish its equipment and groom its horses to the necessary brilliancy in time.

Receives Special Attention.

Mr. Cudahy received an extraordinary welcome. Following the usual exchange of complimentary addresses, President Moscicki and Foreign Minister Josef Beck invited the new ambassador into a private reception room, where they conversed for an hour. The president's aid said such private conversations usually last but ten minutes.

The little group of American diplomatic attachés, headed by the tall, slender ambassador, sharply contrasted with the gaily uniformed Poles, who sported decorations from Europe's 20 odd countries. Because of the absence of decorations the Americans, clad in full dress, were outstanding at this historic meeting in the hall of nobles of Poland's fourth president and America's third ambassador. Portraits of former kings of Poland hang on the walls of the hall.

After announcing that he was the bearer of a message of good will and cordial personal greetings from President Roosevelt to President Moscicki and the Polish nation, and stressing the amicable relations between the United States and Poland, Mr. Cudahy said he was much impressed upon his arrival at Poland's new port of Gdynia, which gives the nation unrestricted access to the sea.

Carries Greeting from House.

The ambassador also said he conveyed the good wishes of his friend, Col. Edward M. House, intimate of the late President Wilson. Mr. Cudahy said Col. House had asked him to express his [House's] esteem and affection for the Polish people. He said that through the erection of a monument for Col. House in Warsaw, the Poles also had honored the United States.

After asking Mr. Cudahy to convey thanks to President Roosevelt, Moscicki stressed the fact that the ambassador arrived in Poland via the sea, which separates but yet unites Poland and America, and that his landing at Gdynia proved the direct and intimate connections between the two countries.

The ceremony was concluded with a salute by an entire battalion of the Warsaw artillery regiment in the castle courtyard.

OFFICIAL LISTS WAYS TO REDUCE COUNTY TAX LOAD

The following proposals were made at the second session yesterday of the national convention of state auditors, controllers and treasurers in the Congress hotel, for the reduction of governmental costs:

1. Centralize under state control all county financing, including borrowing, bond issues, and operations of all sinking funds.

2. Place state auditors as supervisors over county budgeting.

3. Concentrate county purchasing under state officials.

4. Eliminate through mergers the overlaping and outworn divisions of governmtnt.

These steps were advocated by Charles A. Waters, state treasurer of Pennsylvania, who qualified them in his address with a warning that a wide measure of home rule be vouchsafed to the minor governmental units.

His own state, Mr. Waters said, has been "sitting as a judge" over all minor governmental units, excepting the largest cities, in the matter of the increase of bonded indebtedness since 1927. Under the terms of the act no municipality may increase its indebtedness except by notes issued in anticipation of revenue without submitting its proposal to the department of internal affairs for inspection and approval.

Sinking funds are made subject to state inspection, and the assessed valuation of the municipality, together with complete and accurate copies of all proceedings for incurring debt, must be certified to the state.

RELIEVE HAY FEVER NEW SHORT-CUT WAY

Specialist* Neutralizes Pollen Poison Without Injections . . . Gets Amazing Results

Verifies Findings by Tests in Famous Medical University

AT last it seems that the long war on pollen poisoning is finally and decisively won!

And by a simple, yet revolutionary discovery that cuts away the long tedious process of pollen testing and injection, and acts directly on the one common histamine-like poison in the blood of hay fever victims, which science now points to as the new-found basic, underlying cause of all allergic suffering.

A Complete Right About Face

"It is the histamine poisoning caused by pollens—not the pollens themselves—which is the underlying cause of hay fever suffering," reasoned the doctor who discovered Histeen.

Amazing New Facts

This specialist thoroughly believed in the theory newly advanced by medical science that all allergic diseases (hay fever, hives, etc.), result directly from a poisonous histamine-like substance found in the blood in excess amounts. Histamine is a poisonous end-product of protein—and all pollens are protein. Regardless of what pollens the patient was sensitive to, science has found that the histamine-like substance was always present.

Finds a Quick Neutralizer

After two and a half years of research, the doctor developed a compound which acts with amazing directness to counteract histamine poisoning. Unparalleled relief was obtained in scores of hay fever and other allergic cases. Tests were conducted in the laboratories of a famous medical university to verify his discovery.

Already Histeen is bringing marvelous relief to hay fever sufferers who never hoped to have such freedom. Never before has there been such evidence that the final answer to hay fever suffering has been found . . . The relief that has been demonstrated in hay fever and related allergic cases is astounding—not only prompt, but thorough. So rapid in some cases that relief appeared in the first few minutes; so thorough that all apparent symptoms had disappeared.

Convenient Tablet Form

Now, after two and one-half years of testing, Histeen is in your drug store. It is in convenient tablet form, taken internally, and is complete in itself without the use of sprays, gargles, salves or any other assistance. There is approximately a week's supply in each bottle. Get it today—just ask your druggist for Histeen. $1.00 a bottle.

NOTE: Hives, rose fever and urticaria are all "allergic" diseases, like hay fever, and also are accompanied by excess histamine. Consequently, Histeen, which combats histamine, is as effective in these diseases as in hay fever.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN THE BUILDING TRADES.

Building trades workers are leading all others on the relief rolls in Cook county. More than one-third of those who are being supported with public funds have regular occupations which are identified with construction work.

The fact is that unemployment in the capital goods industries is a necessary consequence of the tactics which are being employed in attempting to overcome the depression. Stress has been placed upon getting consumers to purchase more, forgetting those who are unable to buy because there is no stimulation, but a positive discouragement, to the investment of capital in enterprises which will pay out only over a long period of time.

The weekly Annalist points out that there are at least three essentials to the attainment of larger purchase of producers' durable goods. "The first is a return to the gold standard, because investors will not produce the necessary capital under a depreciated currency. The second is the ability of the public to save and invest in long term securities, which it cannot do while it is spending excessively on consumers' goods. The third is a capital market, which has been made difficult to reëstablish by the truth-in-securities act."

Confronted with these drawbacks, the situation has been relieved elsewhere in the United States by large grants from Secretary Ickes' three billion dollar fund. But none of the easy money has come this way, and while in trade and in light manufacturing lines Chicago is leading the country, we have very large numbers of unemployed building trades workers, machinists, foundrymen, electricians, etc.

PROBLEM IN CONDUCT.

The court martial which found Corporal Robert Osman guilty of attempting to communicate military secrets has created a neat problem in conduct for the communists. The court sentenced Osman to two years' imprisonment and fined him $10,000. If he can't pay the fine he will have to serve it out over a period of 18 years.

Osman, who was stationed in the Canal Zone, was charged with having received money from communists in New York and with having sent secret documents to them. If, at the end of his two year sentence, the fine is paid from the communist treasury, the fact will amount to an admission that the communists are spying on the American army; if the fine is not paid, the communists will have advertised to the world their willingness to let down one of their own people who has already sacrificed much in their behalf.

A verdict better calculated to embarrass the soviet organization could not have been reached.

THE BUSY PROPAGANDISTS.

The propagandists for the St. Lawrence treaty, when asked what the seaway is to be used for, invariably start their reply with the transport of wheat. They still repeat the old story that the farmers of the northwest will get something like 10 cents a bushel more for their wheat because the cost of shipping it to Liverpool will have been decreased by that amount when the seaway is opened.

This saving of ten cents a bushel has been talked about ever since the war, with its abnormally high transportation costs, came to an end. It is time the propagandists learned the facts of today. This year the cost of moving a bushel of wheat from the head of the lakes to Montreal is 2½ cents. It would be instructive to know how 10 cents a bushel is to be saved under the circumstances.

It would also be instructive to know how the saving, however large or small, is going to benefit American farmers in view of the fact that the United States exports almost no wheat and will export less if Mr. Wallace's plan to reduce acreage succeeds. Mr. Wallace ought to send a round robin to the other branches of the government, including congress, to acquaint them with his proposal. He is paying the farmers a bounty to induce them not to grow an exportable surplus. Therefore the state department has negotiated a treaty with Canada to spend several hundred million dollars on a seaway which is intended primarily to benefit American wheat farmers in the export markets. And therefore, too, the senate is being pressed to ratify the treaty.

Another favorite theme of the St. Lawrence propagandists is the value of the seaway in exporting other products, such as lard. But here again Mr. Wallace is taking all the sense out of their argument by doing all in his power to restrict the production of lard. American farmers are being urged not to send fat hogs to market because the policy of the European importing nations is to exclude as much American lard as possible. Lard is another commodity which the St. Lawrence seaway will not carry.

No one who has studied the economic aspects of the seaway has ever ventured to suggest that without substantial savings in the cost of transporting large quantities of wheat and lard the route can be worth what it will cost to build. With tariff walls being raised against American products in most of the countries of the world, the export of all kinds of goods must be expected to decline far below the estimates made years ago when the commercial possibilities of the St. Lawrence route were surveyed.

THE TRIUMPH OF TYRANNY.

Any one who has followed the proceedings of the Second Internationale, meeting at Paris, must have been impressed with the superficial validity of much of the Fascist and communist criticism of this organization of moderate socialists. The organization could not be more futile if it aimed at futility. The members are supposed to believe in the economic mastery of the state, but they do not believe in that doctrine as firmly as do the Fascists. The members are supposed to favor the destruction of the institution of private property, but when in power they have not carried their doctrine into action as have the communists.

As a consequence the Second Internationale has developed an inferiority complex which it does not wholly deserve. Its leaders for the most part are job holders or would-be job holders in trade unions and governments, and as such are reasonably practical men. They have not put their doctrines of absolutism and confiscation into effect because in the bottom of their hearts they know the doctrines are nutty. Absolutism makes of the citizen a slave, and therefore tends to destroy all his mental vigor and independence. Confiscation results in lowered economic productivity, and therefore a universal lowering of the standard of living.

The Fascists and communists acquired most of their doctrines at the feet of the men of the Second Internationale, but, unlike their teachers, swallowed the dogmas hook, line, and sinker. The degradation of Russia, Italy, and Germany has been the consequence. Moderate socialism has been swept aside in each of these countries because it has been unable to denounce its own doctrines. A moderate socialist, who all his life had been preaching the aggrandizement of the state, was not competent to oppose a Mussolini or a Hitler, and no one who had preached the sin of private property could stand against Lenin, who proposed to abolish it.

It has been the misfortune of Europe and the world that east of France there has been no party about whose banner believers in liberty could rally. The result has been a pushover for the tyrants. The choice had to be made between Fascism and communism, and it is natural that Fascism has won out in the more enlightened countries. Fascism is no less degrading and enslaving, but it promises on the whole a more orderly government, and above all it promises less damage to the economic organization, and therefore less privation and misery. With no party to defend the individual, men had to choose between slaveries, and quite naturally they preferred the slavery of Virginia to slavery down the river.

CUBAN QUESTIONS.

The Platt amendment may not be applicable to the new régime in Cuba. That will depend upon future events. But there is another question of principle or policy raised. When Gen. Huerta seized the government of Mexico in 1914 President Wilson refused to recognize him on the ground that no régime established by military force would be recognized by the United States and Huerta as a result of our pressure resigned. Prof. Hyde in his standard work on international law remarks that "at the present time the United States is believed to be reluctant to recognize as a de jure government one which has attained ascendancy by force and in defiance of a local constitution, in the absence of convincing proof that the change is supported by popular approval."

In 1923 five of the isthmian republics adopted the doctrine in a treaty, but it has just been reported from San Salvador that the present government of Gen. Martinez declared the treaty invalid. Gen. Martinez's action is explained by the fact that his administration was established by a miltary coup d'état.

Recognition of the new régime at Havana will presumably wait upon the appearance of "convincing proof that the change is supported by popular approval," but that seems likely to be forthcoming if the new régime undertakes a revolutionary distribution of property and other benefits. But in that event the United States will have to consider its rights or duties under the Platt amendment.

RUSSIA'S NEW FAMINE.

[The Times, New York.]

By the mass starvation test our decrepit economic system in the United States can still hold up its head against some of the new experiments elsewhere. It was not pleasant to read of the east side family which subsisted in part on stale fish collected by one of the children in Fulton market. But the death rate in this country is lower than it has ever been before. Last week in New York City it was down to 7.46 per 1,000 inhabitants. In soviet Russia last winter and early spring, said Mr. Duranty yesterday, the death rate was four times the normal rate, which runs from 20 to 25. Russia's workers and peasants have thus been dying at the rate of 80 to 100 per 1,000. In this country the rate is less than 12 per 1,000.

Mr. Duranty's figures show that Russia's latest famine must have taken at least 5,000,000 lives and perhaps twice as many. He says that in the grain producing regions of the Ukraine, North Caucasus, and lower Volga, with a population of 40 million, the normal deaths would be 1,000,000 a year, but "it is conservative to suppose that this was at least trebled in those provinces and considerably increased for the soviet union as a whole." The regions mentioned contain less than one-fourth of the total population of Russia. An excess of 2,000,000 dead there would mean more than 8,000,000 dead for the soviet union as a whole.

The United States has a carryover of 350 million bushels of wheat. Soviet Russia is in desperate need of food. There is a new Russian harvest, to be sure, but it is not yet known how much of the grain in the soviet fields will reach soviet bins. The price of bread in the soviet coöperative stores has just been doubled.

Under the circumstances the United States could do nothing better than present its surplus wheat to the Russian people; not sell it, as Mr. Brookhart wants to do, but bestow it as a free gift. Only the parcel should have a label saying: "From a United States Living Under a Régime of Capitalist Exploitation to a Soviet Union Which Has Succeeded in Abolishing Capitalists and Profits."

That label must be an integral part of the transaction. Of course, the label will not do the Russian people any good because the Moscow censor will not permit them to read it. But it ought to do considerable good here at home if read and digested by people who like to speak about the crimes and failures of our existing economic system.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

WASHINGTON WAS CONGRATULATING itself on the very nice way it handled things in the Cuban revolution a month ago. Now another one breaks loose and Washington admits it is shocked and surprised and hasn't the least idea what caused the new upheaval. Washington should study Latin-American countries more closely. A revolution may be caused:

(1) BY SENOR BANANA accidentally knocking against Señor Coffee. Señor Coffee immediately announces a revolution and his followers fly to arms.

(2) A SOLDIER IN BARRACKS doesn't like the way his eggs are fried for breakfast or the coffee is cold. He sets fire to the barracks and proclaims himself the new president.

(3) IT RAINS all the forenoon and the afternoon is gloomy and dark.

(4) THE LOCAL BASEBALL TEAM is licked, 4 to 19.

(5) SENOR GROUCHO gets mad at the groceryman for overcharging him cinquo centavos for a pound of ham.

(6) THE PRESIDENT of the republic steps on the gown of Señorita de Hotstuffio at the annual ball. Her papa proclaims a revolution.

(7) THE DOG of the Secretary of Interior Affairs bites Señor Hidalgo's little boy. Señor Hidalgo immediately flies a banner proclaiming "Liberty or Death."

SENORA DE LA MONTEZUMA gets mad because her partner in a bridge game, the wife of the Secretary of Foreign Affairs, trumps her ace. At her solicitation Señor Montezuma proclaims the freedom of one and all and death to tyranny.

SENOR DE ARMADILLO has an attack of indigestion. As is the custom in Latin-American countries, he comes out strong for the brotherhood of man and liberty for each and all, and after seven hours of fighting is proclaimed president.

THE PARTING OF THE WAYS.

There's not a sacrament of life or love
But you and I have shared and sanctified.
The web of passion that our bodies wove,
The bitter rue in which our hands were dyed.
The depths we plumbed, the heights to which we strove,
All plead our oneness. Life has not a side,
Nor love a length, which we two did not prove;
We stormed each gate and would not be denied.

But here you fail me. Here my soul draws rein
And girds itself to meet the solitude;
For now I know that when death's sundering pain
Shall smite my body and un-red my blood,
Our loosened spirits may no longer mingle—
Each never was, nor can be, aught but single.

LORNA DOONE.

"SIXTEEN RATTLESNAKES Killed in County Parks Around Chicago."—Headline. And we talk about gratitude. When the 18th amendment was bearing down its heaviest on us we were mighty glad to go out to the tall grass and the uncut timber and hire a rattler to bite us so that we could get a prescription for hard likker. And now that times have changed and likker can be bought without a prescription all over the place, by the drink, quart, or case, and we don't need the poor old rattlesnakes' help any more, what do we do? We turn on 'em and chase 'em around and kill 'em. Ah, how true it is that sharper than a serpent's tooth is vile ingratitude!

AND NOW, in addition to the many millions it has received from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, Los Angeles modestly asks for $32,742,500 more from a benevolent government. Which explains the mysterious freight train we saw going through Chicago yesterday with great, bulky objects carefully tied by heavy wrappings on flat cars and consigned to Loz Onglaize. Either it was the Washington monument in sections or the great golden dome of the capitol.

BAD WEATHER prevented the ascent in Moscow of the new soviet stratosphere balloon "Stratostat." The weather was immediately sentenced to death for conspiring against the progress of the soviet republic and will be shot by a firing squad at daybreak this morning.

SEC. FARLEY promises the repeal of the 18th by Christmas, but with Vermont, a prohibition state, declaring two to one for repeal, making twenty-five states for and none against, might we not ask things be rushed a bit so that we could give the 18th the bum's rush before Thanksgiving? Now, that would be, indeed, something to be thankful for.

BATHOS.

My mind is amort
As you plainly see,
Can only resort
To Tweedle Dee Dee

And Tweedle Dee Dum,
The price of gin
And Bacardi Rum.
The wages of sin

Are upon my head;
I'll spin once more
And fall down dead.
Oh, saints galore,

Why can't I stop
When reason begs;
Must I always mop
Up the very dregs?

GRADING THE INSANE.

IN the Worcester, Mass., state hospital for the insane Drs. Erickson and Hoskins make use of an excellent method of social treatment of their patients. They make a division of the insane into six groups. This grouping is on the basis of the ability of the patient to meet responsibilities and to fit into life. Every patient should want to go home. The ratings are on the willingness to undertake a program with going home as an objective and success in carrying it out.

Grade A is composed of those at home or quite capable of living at home with comfort to themselves and all around them. The requisites for being put into grade A are ability to act like normal people, ability and willingness to work, ability to get along with family and friends.

Grade B is the going home grade, is so advertised all over the institution, and is so accepted by patients and officials. Requisites for admission to this grade are getting well enough to go home, working well, reliability on parole, new interests and ideas, old ideas well controlled or their meaning understood and accepted by the patient, the rebuilding of his mental strength in order that he may stay well.

A patient who has improved enough to be graded B is kept under observation for a while to determine the outlook as to continuance of good self-control. As soon as the physician thinks his improvement is reasonably secure he is transferred to grade A and the recommendation is made that he be offered parole at home.

Grade C is on parole. The requirements are: Working and playing well, getting new ideas and interests, making the best of everything, coöperating well, obeying the rules.

Grade D is the group that is regarded as in the ward, first class. The requisites are: Keeping neat and tidy, working and playing well, learning to take things as they come, beginning to understand the meaning of the old delusions, hallucinations, ideas and mental twists, and to coöperate in everything.

Grade E, second class on the ward: Working and playing poorly, lazy and shiftless, too proud of any ideas as well as too set in them, not very coöperative, careless of clothing.

Grade F, third class on the ward: These patients are mute and resistant. They are either too silent or too talkative or too silent one week and too talkative the next, excitable and disturbed, not coöperative, not working nor playing.

The system of grading and the essentials are advertised among the patients. They are printed on cards and hung where the patients must see them repeatedly. These cards emphasize the fact that all patients in grade B are eligible for promotion to grade A and parole at home.

Periodically the patients are graded and lists of those in each grade are posted on bulletin boards or the walls of the sitting rooms. Especial prominence is given to the list of patients in grade B, the going-home grade. Especial effort is made to interest patients in training themselves so that they may climb from lower grades into higher and in eventually reaching grade B.

GRAVEL.

E. W. J. writes: I am troubled with gravel in my kidneys. Would you kindly give me a remedy? I am on a careful diet, but think I should take some kind of medicine.

Probably you should depend on the diet alone. Have you had this gravel analyzed? Is your diet based on what this analysis showed?

NRA QUESTION BOX

Following are some typical questions occasioned by the national recovery act and their answers, as given by Paul Kunning, secretary of the Chicago Recovery council, the new federation of 138 big Chicago business and civic organizations, which is aiding President Roosevelt's economic rehabilitation movement here. Other questions, as presented by Chicago's business men and consumers, and their answers by Mr. Kunning, will be given daily. The Chicago Recovery council is headed by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

QUESTION—What are the hours and wages for men and women working in a restaurant?

ANSWER—The maximum number of hours for men is 54 per week, for women 48 hours per week. Minimum wages are 28 cents an hour. Overtime is to be paid at the rate of time and one-third. Tips are not to be included as part of the compensation or to be applied against the wages.

QUESTION—Do mechanical draftsmen doing refrigeration designing come under the NRA code?

ANSWER—This industry comes under the national electrical manufacturers code which became effective Aug. 15. The maximum hours of work for employés other than executives, administrative and supervisory employés and traveling salesmen are 40 hours a week with certain exceptions for longer hours in peak demand periods. No employé shall be permitted to work more than an aggregate of 144 hours per year in excess of the limitation prescribed by the 40 hour week. Under this code your employers can work you overtime, but it cannot total more than 144 hours overtime a year.

QUESTION—Has a code been formulated for the parking industry. If so, where and what is the status?

ANSWER—A national code for the parking industry which will cover garages and public parking stations was drawn up at the national convention of the International Garage association at Buffalo some weeks ago. Representatives from every section of the country were present at this meeting and the code has been filed with the NRA in Washington for an early hearing. At present many Chicago garages are working on a temporary modification of the presidential reemployment agreement [the PRA] which permits a 54 hour week. Details of this temporary arrangement and on the national code may be secured from the Chicago Public Parking institute with headquarters at 221 North La Salle street.

TAX SALE.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I own a piece of vacant real estate. I am advised that it was sold for nonpayment of special sewer or street assessments. All of the taxes except 1931 have been paid. It would appear that the special assessments are spread over a five-year period and that one or two of the annual payments [about $10 each] are in arrears. I am not in position to redeem the property but wish to do so as soon as I can. 1. However, I wish to know how long a time I have in which to redeem. 2. What costs are incurred? 3. What procedure and costs are involved in redemption? 4. Do sales for special assessments take precedence over general tax liens against the property? D. M. B.

1. Redemption is permitted within two years of the tax sale. After that a tax deed will issue which will be a more serious cloud on your title, but which can be set aside by court proceedings.

2. If the property is bought in on tax sale, as distinguished from being forfeited, the allowed penalty is 12 per cent each six months.

3. Apply to the county clerk for an estimate on redemption.

4. When the property is sold, the tax buyer is required to pay the taxes, hence the tax sale would supersede the taxes.

PEACE DISTURBER.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A barking police dog wakes us up every night around midnight and as early as five o'clock in the morning. The dog barks continuously all day long. What can be done to make the owner keep him quiet? J. H.

The officer assigned to investigate this complaint interviewed the owner of the dog. Owner was informed that the neighbors had complained about the noise. He stated the only time his dog barked was when some person tried to enter the yard and that was the reason he kept the dog in the yard. When he was warned that the neighbors could procure a warrant for him if the dog continues to annoy them he agreed to take the dog in the house at night. As he had no license for the dog, summons for violation of Sec. 3955 was issued. JAMES P. ALLMAN, Commissioner of Police.

A PERMANENT FAIR.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Your suggestion editorially today that the Fair be made permanent is in line with constructive planning for Chicago and the midwest.

At tremendous cost the Fair grounds were inclosed with a fence of permanent materials that is not unsightly. Conduits for electricity and telephones were laid, roads, walks, landscaping, beach, bathhouses, and sewage disposal provided, together with transportation by land and water to the gates.

It is now easy and inexpensive for the public to visit the Field museum and Soldiers' field, Planetarium, etc., as well as the Fair grounds proper.

As now set up we have a beautiful unit of both classic and modern architecture laid out upon the shore of our ever lovely Lake Michigan.

It provides facilities for education, entertainment, and amusement to be found nowhere else in America today.

If dismantled as planned, it would shortly after Nov. 1 be reduced to an eyesore and junkyard for a long time to come and the net value of the materials salvaged would be comparatively negligible.

Let the same brains that planned it originally now survey it with the permanent thought in mind and only eliminate such construction as fails to contribute to a desirable and workable whole. Many exhibitors would find enough advertising value of a permanent nature to justify them in allowing such buildings and exhibits as would be selected by the planning body to remain for revamping into the general scheme.

Paid admissions to the grounds before opening date give one indication of possible revenue to help support the idea.

Outside of certain units to be heated for winter use, no great upkeep expense need be incurred until next season, when it would be reopened as a permanent institution.

Coney Island and Atlantic City have drawn millions annually. We now have right here a setup unequaled anywhere, with ample adjacent hotels to add comfort to the entrancing picture.

It is a great thought and I trust you will find such support as is necessary to put it over. R. S. BASSETT.

A GOOD IDEA.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—"Make the Fair Permanent" is a good idea. Within the last week the same idea occurred to the writer and doubtless to many others at some time or other. THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated on giving publicity and support to something which otherwise might never have any fruitage.

With THE TRIBUNE originating and supporting the idea, the possibilities of a permanent Fair will be obvious to everybody. No other city has such a lake front, therefore no other city should be jealous. Besides, not alone Chicago would be behind the project, but a greater part of the country, if not all, would look with favor on the idea.

A READER.

100 PER CENT.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—"Make the Fair Permanent." Yes, let's do it. Chicago should never allow this great university and recreation center to be discontinued. Your admirable editorial in today's TRIBUNE expresses the thoughts and hopes of most of the thinking people with whom I come in contact. People on their own initiative are asking why the essential features of this great Exposition cannot be retained and made permanent.

I am, indeed, delighted with your editorial. It is my opinion that not only Chicago, but the country as a whole, will enthusiastically approve your suggestion. Personally, I think it would be unwise to destroy the foundation already laid. I am 100 per cent for making it a permanent institution. HAMILTON C. BROWN.

PROPOSES WORLD "BRAIN TRUST" TO FIGHT BAD TIMES

Scientist Has Scheme for Planned Economy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEICESTER, England, Sept. 6.—Science, as an innocent creator of part of the modern confusion, should be entrusted with the task of marshaling the world's intelligence into a storehouse of prophetic wisdom which could anticipate future upheavels and prepare the universe for their coming.

This vision of a planned world was propounded at the annual gathering of the British Association for the Advancement of Science here tonight by Sir Frederick G. Hopkins in his presidential address.

Calls Plan Reasonable.

Sir Frederick said the scheme was reasonable because statesmen and politicians who are concerned with immediate problems have neither the time nor capacity to deal with the tremendous life forces loosed in scientists' laboratories.

"I believe, perhaps foolishly," Sir Frederick said, "that given time I might convince you that the functions of such a store house, in such a day as ours, might well be real. Here I must leave them to your fancy, well aware that in the minds of many I may by this bare suggestion lose all reputation as a realist."

Sir Frederick denied that science in itself is responsible for the paradox of poverty in the midst of plenty.

"I see more present danger in the case of 'money versus man' than danger present or future in that of the 'machine versus man,'" he said.

He added that machines will continue to replace man power.

Warns of Vitamins.

Sir Frederick spoke as the first biochemist who ever occupied the presidential chair in the academy. He said that life is still an incalculable mystery, but he delivered a strong defense of biochemistry as an essential element of philosophy and the understanding of metabolism. He discussed hormones and the present understanding of vitamins.

One of Sir Frederick's observations tends to link the overabundance of vitamin D with cancer producing substances.

"It is desirable, now that vitamin concentrates on the market are much advertised, to remember that excesses of vitamin may be harmful," he said. "In the case of that labeled 'D,' at least, there is definite evidence of this."

LABOR PICKETS GET JURY TRIALS.

HUSBAND A RED, WIFE CHARGES; ASKS SEPARATION

The communist theories of her husband, Israel, an organizer for the party, wrecked their marriage, Mrs. Reva Weiner, 23 years old, 1253 Independence boulevard, charged yesterday in a bill for separate maintenance filed in the Superior court by Attorney Norman Becker. He spent four nights a week attending meetings, and all of his time at home reading communist literature, she charged. Several times he embarrassed her, she said, by taking part in demonstrations, from one of which he came home with a black eye. Her bill charges that when she suggested a separation, he told his theories would not permit him to pay alimony or support their child. He demanded that she support herself and that she place their daughter, Carmel Joy, 4 years old, in a charitable institution, the bill stated

BADGER G. O. P. SUPPORTS DRIVE FOR PROSPERITY

Holds Up Start of 1934 Political Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 6.—Republicans in Wisconsin have decided to wait a while and see what happens rather than begin now to stir up any activities for the 1934 elections.

There have been suggestions from restless Republicans in some parts of the state that the party soon should be out strengthening itself for the 1934 election to oppose Robert M. La Follette, whose term expires March 4, 1935, and to begin building up a candidate for governor.

Members of the state executive committee did not agree with this sentiment, however, and after informal discussions with them, State Chairman George L. Gilkey today notified each county chairman that there will be no general meeting of Republicans at present.

Must Support Task.

The return of prosperity is a job on the Democrats' hands, he declared, which justifies the generous support of all citizens, regardless of party.

His letter, which was mailed tonight, said:

"Influenced by the unseemly activity of the Democratic opposition in attempting to consolidate their position at this time, some of our Republican friends have suggested that we should have a statewide meeting in the near future.

"After canvassing the members of the state executive committee and others I find that with few exceptions, the majority feel that any particular activity on our part at this time might be misconstrued as an attempt to hamper the administration in its efforts to bring about a return to prosperity.

Requires Coöperation.

"The present administration has embarked upon a program which, if it is to succeed, will require the coöperation of all, regardless of party affiliation. The general opinion I find is that we should devote our energies to a speeding up of the return of prosperity, rather than dissipate our efforts on the more selfish attempt to improve our political position.

"Therefore, unless there develops a more insistent demand, there will be no general meeting at this time."

HANGS SELF IN SON'S HOME.

John Ganser, 85 years old, 1448 Olive avenue, hanged himself yesterday in the home of his son, John Jr., with whom he had lived since he came here from Austria two years ago.

NUMBER OF FAMILIES ON RELIEF ROLL OFF 267,607 DURING JULY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Unemployment statistics for June and July, published today by the federal emergency relief administration, show that in 39 states for which figures are of record the number of families receiving unemployment relief in July were 267,607 less than in June.

For all the states, except Nebraska and Vermont, the total number of families receiving unemployment relief from federal, state and other funds was 3,773,216 in June while in July, not including California, Idaho, Illinois, Maine, New Hampshire, Nebraska, New Mexico, Vermont, and Virginia, the number of families on relief rolls totaled 2,985,156.

Harry L. Hopkins, director of the relief administration, said that the figures disclosed the fact that a monthly relief allowance of less than $10 is inadequate and that in many localities relief is being doled out on a starvation basis. The statistics, he declared, make a complete picture from top to bottom of the inadequacy of relief in many sections of the nation.

DAIRYMEN FILE APPEAL IN MILK PRICE RULING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The appeal of dairymen seeking to enjoin Secretary of Agriculture Wallace from regulating the price of milk in Chicago was perfected in the District of Columbia Supreme court today with the filing of an assignment of errors by Nugent Dodds and Neil Burkinshaw, attorneys for the milk dealers.

Errors alleged were failure of the court to hold the agricultural adjustment act unconstitutional and rule that regulation of prices in the Chicago milk shed were unreasonable, discriminatory, confiscatory, and void.

Appellants in the case were the Economy Dairy company and Milton R. Beck. A ruling on the appeal probably will not be made for several months.

VAN NUYS VISITS CAPITAL TO PUSH WORKS AID PLEA

Senator Wants Funds for Indiana Projects.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Reports that the central west has received only a meager share of the public works funds thus far allotted brought Senator Frederick Van Nuys [Dem., Ind.] to Washington to inquire into the situation and take steps to obtain more money for his state.

"One of the main reasons for returning to Washington at this time," the senator said today, "is to investigate and further the public works program in Indiana.

"I have a score of propositions presented by different municipalities in Indiana asking for federal aid under the industrial recovery act. The chairman of the state advisory board and the state engineer will come to Washington this week for a conference concerning such applications."

The senator declared that thus far a $30,000 commitment is all he has been able to secure from the public works administration, although a large number of Indiana cities are seeking funds for street repair work and similar projects.

"So far," Senator Van Nuys stated, "the only definite commitment I have been able to obtain is an initial allowance of $30,000 for the proposed fish hatcheries at Lake Manitou. Work will be instituted on this project at once."

"Under Indiana law, the money for street improvements would have to be raised through assessment against the property owners. I know of no statute authorizing the issuance of bonds by the cities for this purpose."

KELLY TO ACCOMPANY GROUP TO WASHINGTON TO MAKE RELIEF PLEA

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he planned to accompany a delegation to Washington tomorrow to ask the federal relief administration for additional relief funds for Illinois. Gov. Horner is also expected to be in the delegation.

The group will tell the federal authorities that Illinois will be forced to close its relief station on Sept. 15 unless the funds can be obtained. The Illinois emergency relief commission is confronted with a deficit of $3,400,000 for this month and a $9,000,000 deficit for the remainder of the year.

The others who are expected to go to Washington are President Emmett Whealan of the county board, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, State Senator James J. Barbour, David E. Shanahan, former speaker of the state house of representatives; Representative Elmer Schnackenberg and Victor Olander, vice president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor.

19 MEN SLAIN IN JUNGLE BATTLE IN PHILIPPINES

MANILA, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Nineteen men were killed in a battle between the Philippine constabulary and a band of outlaw Moros on the jungle covered island of Jolo, a dispatch to constabulary headquarters here today said.

The report said a constabulary patrol led by Lieut. Juliof Barbajeran encountered a band of outlaws headed by Mahamud Kawasan in the forest two miles from Camp Seit.

In the fighting that followed, the message reported, both Lieut. Barbajeran and Kawasan were slain. Six enlisted men and eleven Mohammedan warriors were also killed. Two constabulary lieutenants and five men were wounded.

Jolo, inhabited by the fierce Moro tribesmen, has been the scene of frequent clashes between the insular police and outlaws.

PROTEST PLAN TO TAX IMPORT OF NEWSPRINT

Publishers Cite Millions of Added Costs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Charges that newsprint manufacturers are attempting to use the NRA as a lever to force imposition of a tariff duty on imported newsprint were made today by officers of the American Newspaper Publishers' association as the national recovery administration opened formal hearings on the proposed code for the newsprint industry.

The clash between the men who make newsprint and the men who make newspapers had for its principal issue a clause of the proposed code under which newsprint now brought into this country duty free would be subject to an import tax of approximately $5 a ton.

Publishers' Lawyer Protests.

The publishers, through Elisha Hanson, Washington attorney, contended that imposition of such a duty on imports of newsprint would increase the cost of producing the nation's newspapers by anywhere from 15 to 45 million dollars a year.

In return for that tremendous increase in publishing costs the publishers' lawyer pointed out, the newsprint industry in this country would have to increase its production costs by only $280,000 a year. Only 6,500 men are employed in the domestic newsprint plants, it was stated, and imposition of the code as now proposed would increase employment in the industry by only 10 per cent, or by 650 persons.

Cites Increased Costs.

Echoing the protest which Mr. Hanson made for the association of publishers, Louis G. Caldwell, representing THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and the New York Daily News, asserted that imposition of the suggested import tax on foreign newsprint would increase the cost of production of THE TRIBUNE and the News by one million dollars a year.

Both THE TRIBUNE and the News, he pointed out, produce their own newsprint in Canadian plants owned by them. Their newsprint, he told Deputy Administrator W. W. Pickard, is specially processed for better picture reproduction. Similar plants are owned by other papers, Mr. Caldwell stated, arguing that the results to these papers of an import tax on their own product would be "disastrous."

Newsprint, it was pointed out, represents half the cost of putting out a newspaper. At present approximately 64 per cent of the paper used in this country is imported, as the capacity of domestic newsprint plants can produce only 36 per cent of the required amount annually.

Treasury Fixes Standard.

The issue at today's hearing revolved almost entirely around the definition of "standard newsprint paper" under the 1922 and 1930 tariff acts. Regulations issued by the treasury, it was stated, have established "standard newsprint paper" as paper used for printing newspapers. The domestic newsprint manufacturers in their code propose that a more rigid definition be observed, under which most, if not all, of the newsprint now imported free would be subjected to a duty of one-quarter cent a pound.

Marcel Journet, Famous Operatic Baritone, Dies

VITTEL, France, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Marcel Journet, 65, world famous operatic baritone, died here tonight. Journet was widely known in musical circles both in Europe and in America. Born in Nice in 1868, he first embarked on a commercial career, but gave it up for music. His vocal teacher was the well known Italian, Seghattini. He made his debut in 1891.

BISHOP BROWN ASKS A CHANCE FOR COMMUNISM

The convention of the world fellowship of faiths at the Morrison hotel last night cheered Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion, O., as the former Episcopal prelate attacked capitalism and pleaded that communism be given a chance to show what it could do for the country.

Bishop Brown was deposed as a bishop in the Protestant Episcopal church eight years ago for heresy. Following this he was consecrated as a bishop in the Old Catholic church. Bishop Brown, who is 78 years old, told the 150 persons attending the meeting that he hoped to be restored as an Episcopal bishop and "spend his declining years in the Episcopal house of bishops."

The assembled representatives of many faiths frequently applauded the bishop as he condemned government efforts to curtail agricultural and industrial production in the interests of recovery. Bishop Brown declared such methods to be immoral in view of famine conditions to be found in some parts of the world.

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, head of the Methodist board of temperance, public morals and prohibition, at Washington, D. C., was scheduled to speak at last night's session, but at a late hour he had not arrived.

Bishop Callistos, of San Francisco, prelate for the Greek Orthodox church in the western states, spoke on the problems of youth. He said many young people have been lost to the church in recent years "because in such a transitional period, reinterpretation of moral and spiritual values becomes exceedingly difficult." When this reinterpretation failed to keep pace with industrial progress, youth drifted away from the church, he said.

Good Morning!

Yes, thank you—a LOVELY vacation!

Glorious, pine scented days in the Black Hills. . . . Still nights, with the stars twinkling so seemingly close in the clear atmosphere that you felt you could raise an arm and dabble a hand in them. . . . Roaring logs in the big fireplace of a quaint little old hotel on the banks of a lake guarded by huge sentinel rocks larded with spruce, pine, and birch woods, and, of an evening around that fire, old timers' stories of Calamity Jane and Wild Bill Hickok—and the dog that made friends with a skunk. . . . Deer, unafraid, coming down to the water to drink, at dawn and dusk, and, when you rode horseback along the forest trails—squirrels scolding you intimately, chipmunks scampering across your path, just daring you to lay a hand on 'em, and, now and then, a strange bird call. Though there are mighty few birds in the Black Hills, and that's a fact. Speaking of facts, did you know—I didn't!—that the Hills are the highest mountains this side of the Rockies?

Enters, presto and pronto, "Paddy, the Next Best Thing."

The film strikes this pilgrim and stranger as being one that should go well with the home folk. It's a sweet little romance staged in ould Ireland—a musical comedy of sorts, with only a wee bit of music.

As the ads tell you, Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter are co-starred in his number for the first time since they played together in "Daddy Long Legs." And now Fox's favorite ingénue is a little Miss Fix-it of an Irish maid—the daughter of a lovable and impecunious Major Adair. In her endeavor to do the right thing by her sister Eileen—who gets plenty mad at her in consequence—Paddy cooks a goose for herself to a nice, even brown. There are indications that the bird will be tough, but it turns out to be a most palatable fowl after all.

You either like Janet Gaynor or you don't. Personally, I always find her winsome. Plenty of others did, too, at the show I attended, and fond laughter attended on her predicaments.

Warner Baxter, handsome and sincere, is all the most romantic soul could desire as the rich Ceylon planter whose wealth is the cause of all the to do, and Walter Connolly, Margaret Lindsay, Joseph M. Kerrigan, and Roger Imhof give nice performances. Especially effective is Mr. Connolly's portrait of the debt-ridden father, and his game farewell to earth and all he holds dearest is the picture's most touching scene.

The photoplay has been ably directed and charmingly photographed. It's as clean as a whistle. A clean whistle.

Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LLANDUDNO, Wales, Sept. 6.—David Lloyd George, amid a colorful crowd of holidaymakers, today unveiled a memorial to Dr. Charles L. Dodgson, who, as Lewis Carroll, wrote "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking Glass." The memorial is the work of E. W. Forrester, a local sculptor. It depicts a white rabbit with a watch in its "hand." The tablet records that in this region, during happy rambles with Dean Liddell's little daughter, Alice, Dr. Dodgson was inspired to write "Alice in Wonderland."

Mrs. Alice Hargreaves, the original Alice, wrote:

"I feel real regret that I cannot be with you all at the unveiling of the memorial to that wonderful friend of my childhood, Lewis Carroll, but increasing age makes physical adventures in 'Wonderland' more and more difficult, though my mental adventure will never close as long as there are people like all of you at Llandudno to honor that teacher who, by his logical nonsense, has added to the pleasure of thousands."

Famed Persian Art Treasures Shown in City

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"It is your own fellow townsman, Dr. James H. Breasted, who has given to the world a new and comprehensive appreciation of Persian art. Through his excavations of the ancient city of Perseoplis and its palaces of Darius and Xerxes, the treasures of this people have taken on real meaning for you in America."

It was Dr. Ali-Kuli Khan, the swarthy, gray haired gentleman who was once the chief diplomatic representative of Persia to the United States, former head of the Persian embassy at Constantinople, and once grand master of the court of his imperial highness the crown prince of Persia, speaking in the Lord Nelson room of the Drake hotel. His background was the dazzling array of time mellowed carpets and brocades, tiles and potteries, mosaics and manuscripts that he has brought to the city to exhibit during the remaining two months of A Century of Progress.

The beauty of the collection is beyond description. Its dollars and cents value is literally fabulous. In historic interest it is a veritable mine for the student or the art connoisseur.

Originally it was the intention of Persian authorities to install the exhibit, which represents the private collections of a least a dozen wealthy Persians, at the World's Fair. When the government of Persia decided, however, not to erect a building in the Exposition grounds, Dr. Khan was selected to assemble the exhibit and bring it to this country.

Invitations have been issued to several hundred Chicagoans to visit it during the next two months. They have also been invited to hear Dr. Khan, an authority on Persian culture, give a series of fifteen lectures during the next few weeks.

Most valuable, perhaps, of all the treasures is the manuscript of the five books of Jami, the great classical mystic poet of Persia. Until the opening of the exhibit, Dr. Khan reported that only seventeen persons in America had laid eyes on the valuable document. It is written in exquisite nastalik script and has ten full page illustrations in miniature and ve illuminated chapter headings, all by a brush of Behzad, the Raphael of the east. The 16th century date and the signature are wrought into the illustration placing the authenticity of the work beyond question.

A survey of the manuscript shows easily why it should have been the treasure of many kings. Finally it was conferred as a gift upon one of the most ancient families of Persia, which has now sent it to Chicago for western appreciation.

There is a mirror box done in a lacquer of the 17th century. It was the property of Shah Abbas, the great king who ruled Persia for 43 years and was known as the Medici of eastern art. Under his reign many of the most gorgeous rugs of all time were designed.

One of the rugs in the collection that will draw a major share of attention is known as the international carpet. It has not a heritage of years, but it is finely woven upon a green ground which in itself gives it value since green is the sacred color of Persia. The design is made of the animals and birds representative of the various nations of the world, the lion, for instance.

Mary Hastings Bradley will appreciate the stunning cloths of gold Dr. Khan has brought to Chicago, for she has a notable collection of her own that she gathered on her African expeditions. In the Persian exhibit the gold cloths hang next to a group of 16th and 17th century miniatures, several of which were done by the famous Behzad. Of especial interest is that by the courtier Reza-Abbasi in the 17th century. There was a competition among all of the attachés at the court to paint the portrait of the cup bearer. It was this miniature by Reza-Abbasi that was judged the winner.

Start New Season of 25 Cents to $1 Opera in New York

New York, Sept. 6.—(AP)—"Aïda" and "Carmen," "Faust" and "Pagliacci," "Trovatore" and "Traviata"—at two-bits to a dollar.

With these programs and prices, Alfredo Salmaggi answers the long standing question about grand opera being profitable in America at popular prices?

Ten weeks with a house of approximately 35,000 paid admissions a week; the critics came skeptical, and remained to praise.

"Aïda," that favorite first-nighter, opens the fall and winter season. The season will extend through to Dec. 16—ten days before the opening of the Metropolitan.

Miss Marjorie Sawyer Goodman Selects Oct. 5 for Wedding Day

Will Become Bride of Charles S. Dewey Jr. at Brilliant Event; Announce Attendants.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THURSDAY, the fifth of October, will be a very important day socially in Chicago, for on that day Miss Marjorie Sawyer Goodman is to become the bride of Charles S. Dewey Jr. That it will be one of the most brilliant weddings of the season—in fact, of many seasons—is assured not only because of the prominence of the two families but because of the charm and popularity of the young couple and the size of their wedding party.

The bride will be attended by her schoolgirl sister, Kay Sawyer Goodman, as maid of honor and by young Mr. Dewey's sister, Miss Louise Dewey; Miss Goodman's cousin, Miss Ethel Johnston; Miss Jean Schweppe, Miss Mary Reed, Miss Mary Senior, Miss Jean Wilhelm, all of Chicago; Miss Rose Whitman and Miss Carol Crocker of Boston, and Miss Anne Clark of Princeton as bridesmaids. Miss Goodman, Miss Dewey, Miss Schweppe, and her cousin, Miss Reed, and Miss Senior all made their debuts last season and Miss Wilhelm is to be a bud this year.

A. Peter Dewey will serve his brother as best man and ushering will be Frederick M. Alger Jr. of Detroit [the bridegroom's brother-in-law], A. Watson Armour III., Dustin Grannis, Edward Smith, Daggett Harvey, Carrington Clark, W. Edwin Stanley Jr., Durand Smith, Gordon Kelley, all of Chicago, and one or two others from out of town.

Miss Goodman said yesterday the place and hour of the wedding were not definite yet, but that it is to be a church ceremony, with a reception following, probably at the town apartment of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Hopkins, on State parkway. Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins are just at home from a North Cape trip, and Mr. Dewey's parents and sister and brother sail today from France for home after a summer in their villa in Normandy.

Miss Senior is leaving on the 12th of this month to enter Vassar, but she will return to Chicago for the Goodman-Dewey wedding. Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Senior, will go east at the same time to spend an indefinite time in New York. Their son, John Jr., lands in New York on the 15th from a summer spent in Germany and will go directly to the Brooks school in North Andover. Mr. and Mrs. Senior and Miss Senior moved back to their Lake Shore drive apartment from Lake Forest on Tuesday.

First Debutante Will Bow Today.

First of the 1933 debutantes to be presented to society is Miss Roslyn McLennan Paine, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garritt Smith, are giving her a tea this afternoon from 4 until 7 o'clock at their home on Greenwood boulevard in Evanston.

After the guests have greeted the debutante, who is an attractive young lady with very dark hair and eyes, and her parents and grandmother, Mrs. Kenneth McLennan, they probably will drift out of the house into the lovely gardens behind it, providing the weather is fair, to enjoy their tea and cakes.

Assisting Miss Paine will be Miss Allene Withers, Miss Nancy Harris, Miss Varginia Thatcher, Miss Patty Calkins, Miss Mary Louise Morris, Miss Helen Johnson, Miss Dorothy Davis, and Miss Cornelia Fabian. Miss Jean O'Brien also was to have assisted Miss Paine, but she will be unable to do so because of illness.

The Smiths are having the assistants and their beaux and several of their own friends for cocktails in their home after the reception, and the whole party is going on to the Glenview club for dinner and dancing. Miss Davis is giving the dinner for the young crowd at the club, and Mrs. Robert W. Upham will be hostess to Mr. and Mrs. Smith and their friends.

Marie Gardner Debut Sept. 16.

Eighteen friends and sister debutantes will attend Miss Marie Louise Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Gardner of Winnetka, when she is presented to society the afternoon of Sept. 16 at a tea dance at the Indian Hill club.

Early yesterday morning Miss Anne Palmer, who also is to assist Miss Barbara Hobart the afternoon of the 15th, arrived from West Falmouth, Mass., to be the house guest of Miss Gardner for the next fortnight. Coming later from the east to be another assistant at Miss Gardner's debut party is Miss Dora Oakley of Greenwich, Conn.

The other young women whom Miss Gardner has invited to contribute to the gayety of the occasion are Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., Miss Susan Badgerow, Miss Josephine Templeton, Miss Nancy Morse, Miss Patsy Keith, Miss Patricia Calkins, Miss Allene Withers, Miss Nancy Thomas and her sister, Miss Marian Thomas, Miss Barbara Hobart, Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Barbara Bastien, Miss Barbara Shaffer, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Harriet Fentress, and Miss Peggy Hixon.

After the tea dance Mr. and Mrs. Gardner are planning to have all of their daughter's assistants and their beaux for supper at their home at 844 Bryant avenue. Then the party will return to the Indian Hill club for the club's last dance this season.

Miss Gardner is hoping that her good friend, Miss Jean O'Brien, who also is to bow to society the afternoon of the 16th, will be able to join her

Wanted: Good Radio Programs for Children

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

This summer I have heard many parents anxiously discussing radio as it affects their children.

Scarsdale [N. Y.] parents, having vanquished the hot dog stands which were affecting the digestions of their young children, besides many other things they consider are not for their welfare, are doing some really constructive thinking on the subject of radio.

A committee of the parent-teachers' association has made a survey of the children's programs offered between 4:4 and 8 p. m. It has adjudged them and will try to protect children from those considered unsuitable. This action was taken after parents reported that the children after listening to some of the children's programs had hysterics, nightmares, and other bad nervous reactions.

The committee found:

5 of the 42 programs excellent.
2 of the 42 programs very good.
6 of the 42 programs good.
11 of the 42 programs poor.
8 of the 42 programs very poor.
10 of the 42 programs fair.

And some of those listed as "very poor" were found most popular with the children.

It is interesting to note that these parents are not blindly prejudiced—they have no objection to the children listening to an exciting story. But they are fearful of the effect on them if this excitement is continued day after day. And because many of the programs are continued, the matter is harder to control.

It is said that good children's "scripts" are hard to get. Let us hope that the writers of children's stories, or story telling teachers or other competent people will solve this problem, working with the broadcasting stations which express themselves as being anxious to coöperate with parents.

BLOOD MONEY

By IRVIN S. COBB.

SYNOPSIS.

Uncas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, is an old friend of Redd's. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lived with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a debauchee. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer. Bray finds, spread out on Cresap's desk, a glove with disembodying fingers. As it is measured, the old man stands. Cresap disapproved of Florence's moneyless sweetheart, Gregory Thorpe, who had arrived the day before Cresap died, having driven east from his home in Ohio in response to an urgent wire from Florence. Thorpe can't be reached at the local hotel where he registered as George Thomas. Florence is on the verge of prostration. Thorpe's car is seen near Peekskill. Redd has seen Sabino prowling around his home.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

AN ORIENTAL ANGLE.

"Well," continued Bray, "this dispatch came in too late for the morning papers this morning so his shop shot it down to him. It's from their correspondent in San Francisco. It says their correspondent out there has dug up an elderly female party that's the widow of a party that once upon a time thirty-five years ago or more was American consul at Shanghai. And she claims to be able to recall when Uncas Cresap was living in Shanghai. By her telling, his private life didn't smell any better then than it had after he returned to his native clime. Because she says he was living out of wedlock with a Chink woman, what you'd call his commonlaw wife, I take it. And in due season, by this here consort of his, he had a child, she says, a boy child who if still alive must be by now a man full grown. And the widow lady in Frisco she goes on to say that according to the best of her recollections and belief, when the said boy was going on 10 or maybe 11 years old, Cresap up and deserted the pair of them—mother and son both—and was seen no more in those parts. But she—and here's the most interesting part—but she says 'twas common gossip in the white settlement at the time that his main reason for dusting out so suddenlike and leaving behind him no address for forwarding his mail, was because through some funny dealings or other he'd got himself in very, very bad with one of those Chink highbinders outfits and was walking in dread lest a bunch of the members dropped around some night in the dark of the moon to give him the works."

"What's more, it would seem that only last week there was a certain, youngish party going by the name of Tom Kee who stayed for two days very quietly here in Bridgeton at a rooming house upstairs over a garage on the street leading down to the depot. And he must've been either a Chink or a halfbreed, for while they do say he spoke good English, he had eyes set in his head on the bias and a complexion that was about the shade of fresh apple vinegar.

"Doing some early morning snooping on his own account, the U. P. lad had found out about this party before he came to me awhile ago. He claims the old dame that runs this rooming house thinks now that this here mysterious lodger of hers did bear a slight suggestion of a family resemblance to Uncas Cresap. I'll bet though she didn't begin to think that until he'd planted the notion in her head. And she is under the impression—or at least so she says now—that whenever he went for a walk he went in the direction of the Cresap place. As if she'd know what his direction was once he'd turned the corner?

"Even so, it's got those reporters all steamed up. And of course they'll be taking credit to themselves for finding out this here Tom Kee was here before we found it out. And of course they'll be bearing down hard on the supposition that maybe 'twas none other than Uncas Cresap's illegitimate offspring coming after all these years to destroy him for having abandoned him and his mother that long time ago. And if not that, their second string theory will be that he was the chosen agent of the Shanghai highbinder bunch, waiting all these years to get even with him for his having double crossed them. And then dragging in the idea that maybe all this while old Wong Gee, instead of being the faithful follower of Uncas Cresap that he let on to be, was really in cahoots with that Chink secret society overseas and spying on him by day and by night?

"What's more, they'll have this to go on: 'Twas with a lick of something in the nature of a hatchet that Uncas Cresap was killed. And when they were kids probably all those bright lads read dime novels about the Hatchetmen of Old Chinatown. Would it be any good for me to be telling them that if ever there were any hatchetmen working at the trade in New York, which I doubt, they became unstylish twenty odd years ago? It might do some good to tell them that if there was any stray Chink confabbing with Wong Gee last week it must have been that opium smuggling job they was discussing, and nothing else. But, as you yourself know, being in on the secret, I can't very well tell them that on account of having the same as passed my word of honor to our friend, Tony Tontini."

"Well," I said, "you can't blame the boys for exploiting a thing that sounds like a chapter out of a penny dreadful and yet has a more or less shaky foundation of plausibility under it."

"I don't, so blame them," he demurred. "Ain't we all got to make a living? And it is just about a thousand to one shot that the answer to this here whole riddle might go weaving and wandering all the way from Bridgeton, L. I., to Shanghai, China. So that's why I've already asked headquarters to throw out a private grabnet for a sallow complexioned mousy party answering to the name of Tom Kee. I've also asked Commissioner Mulrooney up in town to ask the federal government to ask a coast patrol to take a sashay off Montauk and out Block Island way and see if by any chance there's still a strange tramp with a Jap flag on her cruising about those waters; and if so, whether there's any such gent aboard her, because if there is, I'll be after having some questions to put to him. To be sure, that'll be like a drowning man grabbing at straws, because with the start they have it's a cinch that ship would have pulled out by now, especially if the word reached her that Uncas Cresap was dead and Wong Gee was dead, too, and the beans were spilt so far as getting her contrabands ashore here or hereabouts. . . And here's something else."

From impatience my nerves tautened to fiddle string pitch while leisurely he fumbled first in one pocket and then in another.

"I have it somewheres," he grunted. "Ah, here it is." He brought forth a second sheet of the creased yellow tissue and unreefed it and flattened it out upon his knee.

"This here now," he expounded, "is a copy of a flash from police sources that got here about an hour ago—sent to me from headquarters and marked 'Urgent.' The papers didn't have it then, but no doubt by now they have got it. That green Folker car now, the one with the Ohio license plates—well, it's been located, Gilly. 'Twas located late last night in a garage that's blind for crooks on the outskirts of Ann Arbor, Mich. And they've located the bad boy that tried for to drive it headlong over that like cop up by Peekskill early Wednesday morning. And they have him very nicely cooped up in a cell. But—and here's the rub, Gilly—but his name is not Gregory Thorpe and no more is it George Thomas, and he doesn't correspond to the description we have of Gregory Thorpe, neither. He has a variety of aliases but his real moniker, as attested by his measurements and his marks in the rogues' gallery of more than one city, is Danny Gleason; and the said Danny Gleason belongs to the Purple gang out in Detroit but has lately been footloose from Detroit and on the pad generally."

Lyle Talbott Is Victim of California Player.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—William Wellman, director known for the realism he instills into his pictures, was directing a scene for Warner-First National's "College Coach" at Pasadena Rose bowl in which Lyle Talbott, one of the principals, was supposed to be tackled by a Southern California university football player.

"Tackle him hard; make it real," Talbott yelled. The lad, who was only too glad to have a tackling dummy, with the opening day of the college grid training season less than ten days removed, mowed the actor down.

"Well, that is one scene that nobody will make any retakes on," Talbott grinned today, from his cot in the hospital.

Sammy Stein, the professional heavyweight wrestler, was supposed to have come back from location with the "Patrol" film company, 16 miles from Yuma, today, to wrestle Nick Lutze, one time Notre Dame athlete, in Los Angeles tonight. But Stein couldn't wrestle. He suffered a case of sunstroke under the broiling desert sun yesterday. This is the film about British flyers and Arab horsemen, laid in the Arabian desert, in which Victor McLaglen and Alan Hale head an all male cast.

Universal, which is paying John Barrymore a large salary for one picture, is surrounding him with one of the season's big casts—signing Bebe Daniels for his lead today and using Doris Kenyon, Alice White, Thelma Todd, and Onslow Stevens in other featured roles. William Wyler will direct.

Joan Crawford sprained an ankle doing one of her last dance numbers in "Dancing Lady" at MGM yesterday. She will be away from the camera four or five days more.

Al Rockett, former general manager of First National studio, has signed a two year contract as producer for Fox. He will have charge of "Hoopla," Clara Bow's vehicle which goes into production Tuesday. Incidentally Clara now has her weight below 120.

Paramount has brought Kay Johnson out of an extended idleness to play in "Eight Girls in a Boat." The same studio has signed Ethel Merman, New York's singing footlight notable, to a film and will use her as lead with Bing Crosby in the latter's starring film "We're Not Dressing."

Bill Cagney, Jimmy's brother, gets important rôle with Zasu Pitts and Pert Kelton in "Hearts and Flowers" at Radio.

Grover Jones, movie writer who now is co-directing "Captain Jericho" for Paramount, along with his writing colleague, William S. McNutt, has the fun of working on the same film on which his dad, Bill Jones, one of the original film electricians, looks down on him from the catwalks. There's still a third of those Joneses in the movies—Grover's younger brother, Bill Jr., is a stunt man. But he's not in the "Captain Jericho" company.

Old Bill Jones, by the way, is the scornful technician who, approached by one of the occasional efficiency experts who get into the movie technical side, was asked "What is an ohm." "Its an Englishman's idea of a house," old Bill said, and went on chewing.

Ben Hecht, who once vowed he would honor Hollywood no more with his presence, arrived yesterday, at good salary, to adapt "Two Thieves" to screen shape for MGM. Bob Montgomery and Clark Gable play the two rascals.

Miss Goodman Will Be Bride on October 5

party for supper and dancing. Because of illness Miss O'Brien will not return from Harbor Point to complete the plans for her debut party for at least another week.

Mrs. Gardner arrived in Winnetka this week from a summer spent at Hyannisport on Cape Cod. Miss Gardner preceded her mother home by several days to be here for the first of the debutante luncheons.

Society to Attend Rodeo Tonight.

This will be society night down at Soldiers' field, where the World's Fair rodeo is being staged, for a percentage of the gate receipts are to go to the Red, White, and Blue club and the directors have been working for a week selling the boxes and reserved seats. Mrs. Thomas R. Gowenlock, president, and Mr. Gowenlock will entertain guests with dinner before at the Century club, and some of the other boxholders are Mr. and Mrs. Jay F. Reeve, Mr. and Mrs. William Scudder, Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea, Mrs. Edward W. White, Mrs. Temple McFayden, Mrs. Charles K. Torsant, the Kenneth Carpenters, and the Ernest Byfields.

Mrs. Sterling Morton and her daughter, Miss Suzette Morton, are entertaining at dinner tonight at the house in Lake Forest they are occupying, for their young cousin, Miss Lucy Harrison, who is to be one of the season's debutantes. After dinner the party will go to the Onwentsia for dancing. Miss Harrison is the eldest daughter of the junior Carter H. Harrisons.

Mrs. Horace Gray and her two sons, Horace Jr. and Arthur Meeker Gray, are arriving tomorrow from their home in California for a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker. After seeing the Fair Mrs. Gray and Horace Jr. will go east, where he is to enter the Milton academy for his last year in preparatory school before entering Harvard. Young Arthur and his mother will return west in time for him to enter his school in Santa Barbara.

Arthur Meeker Jr., who has been summering in Switzerland, probably will meet his brother-in-law and sister, the Ambrose C. Cramers, in Paris after they have finished their Swedish visit, and they will come home together, arriving about the middle of October.

Mrs. Byron Harvey Goes to Southwest.

Mrs. Byron S. Harvey left yesterday to join Mr. Harvey at the Arthur Cates' residence near Santa Fé, N. M. The J. Stewart Harveys are inviting some of "Shep" Vogelsang's friends to drop in at their apartment on North Dearborn street next Wednesday for a cocktail party for Mr. Vogelsang, who is leaving soon for China.

The John J. Bryants, who have been at the Saranac inn in the Adirondack mountains, arrived at home yesterday afternoon in Wheaton with their daughter, Anne Jay.

Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. and her two daughters, Miss Carolyn Erminger and Miss Bertha Erminger, arrived at home last night from a three weeks' sojourn in Banff and Lake Louise.

Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins have returned from a ten day visit in the east.

Mrs. John L. Cochran and her children have returned from a visit with Mr. Cochran's mother, Mrs. Elicott Evans, in Mackinac. Mrs. Cochran and the youngsters are not going out west to a ranch as they had planned to do in a few days because one of the children is quite ill. Mr. and Mrs. Evans will be passing through town on their way back to California around the end of the month.

While the James Ward Thornes are vacationing abroad, their good friend, Irene Rich, is occupying their Lake Shore drive apartment. The Thornes are seeing Mrs. Rich's daughter, Miss Frances Rich, while abroad. Miss Rich has just gone over with the sculptress, Malvina Hoffman, to study this winter under her direction.

Chicagoans Return from Michigan.

The Chicago colony at Huron Mountain, Mich., must be sadly depleted, for so many of its members have returned home. The Clarke Washburnes have been at home for over a week and the Hempstead Washburnes have been at home even longer than that. The F. Goddard Cheneys returned a short while ago and Mrs. Cheney left yesterday for the east. The Raymond Durhams arrived at home last night, and did the Bruce Thornes, who had been staying over the last week-end with the Laird Bells.

Col. and Mrs. Ira C. Copley are renewing acquaintance with their many Chicago friends this week while they are here from their Coronado (Cal.) home for a visit to the Fair. At a country club dinner the other evening Charles H. Schweppe and his brother, Jake Schweppe, who is here from New York, were their hosts. The Copleys' two sons, James and William, will travel on east from here to resume their studies at Andover.

This evening from eight o'clock on the home of the Ross J. Beattys in Highland Park will be the scene of a good deal of quiet activity, for Mrs. Beatty has invited about one hundred guests to a musical. John Duncan, the English harpist, will play several selections. He is visiting here at the present time and Mrs. Beatty is anxious to have her friends both hear him and meet him.

Social activity at the Fair the end of this week will center around the visit in Chicago of New York's governor, Herbert H. Lehman, and Mrs. Lehman. Gov. Lehman is coming west for his first visit to A Century of Progress and the Exposition's celebration of New York day.

Invitations have been issued by Illinois' bachelor governor and the state's hostess committee for a reception for Gov. and Mrs. Lehman and the members of the New York state commission at 11:30 tomorrow morning at the Illinois Host house. Receiving will be Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Paul Steinbrecher, and Mrs. Herbert L. Stern.

THE STAGE

"Dixie to Harlem," a Negro musical comedy, is now in rehearsal at the Illinois theater. Its première will take place next week, probably on Wednesday night.

"Ethiopia," the Negro musical show which was staged at the Garrick theater last Monday night, expired the next day. This is the only theatrical production of the last twenty years in Chicago that closed with only one performance on its record. Second place is held by "Peggy, Be Careful," which died at the Blackstone theater a few weeks ago after giving three performances.

Thoda Cocroft, new Chicago manager for the Theater Guild-Dramatic league season of plays, reports that 2,000 applications for season tickets have already been received. This organization will begin its program in October with Ina Claire in S. N. Behrman's comedy, "Biography," a production by the Theater Guild. C. C.

False Teeth Now Come in Varied Shades

Dentists Can Even Match Smoke Stains.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

At the big dental congress held in Chicago recently I was told that there are more than 20,000 different combinations of colors used in matching teeth. That almost any natural color of tooth can now be matched perfectly by a color mixing process like the one by which an artist arrives at a color wanted.

If teeth are tobacco stained and a false tooth or bridge has to be worn the stained shade even is worked into the false tooth so that it will look like its neighbors and not like a pure white stranger in the midst.

And speaking of smoke stain and teeth, I learned that where the enamel is dense and strong there will be no stain. But where the enamel is not dense the smoke stain penetrates, and this stain is next ot impossible to remove. This explains why some people you know who smoke incessantly have teeth obviously not the least bit affected, and others who may smoke less have stained teeth.

The myth about smoking being good for the teeth was completely routed by my informant. Smoking has neither teeth preservative power nor has it any bad effect on the teeth other than the staining just named.

One urgent plea made by the dental profession has to do with the visits of children to the dentists. It has been estimated that two hours and a half a year given over by the youngsters to dental observation will see them through well. Of course, other attentions, as brushing gums and teeth and certain diet observations, must be followed. But the plea is to put the children in the dentist's hands early and consistently so that they may arrive at maturity with good, sound teeth and the physical advantages that go with a healthy mouth.

If the financial condition is such that all of the family cannot enjoy this dental supervision, the dentists say: "Give the child a break, anyway, even if the older ones' teeth have to be neglected."

Mussolini's dentist, who incidentally reports Mussolini as having almost perfect teeth, told of Americans in Italy complaining of how the hard bread unloosens bridges or breaks a tooth. His retort is that it is not Italy's hard foods, but American's soft teeth that are at fault. Italian bread is made of all whole grains, and the peasantry use honey instead of sugar, and they consume a great deal of fruit, which may explain the high average of good sound teeth among these people.

Evening Hats Are High Style in Paris Just Now

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Around the town of Paris, at Maxim's and the Café de Paris and under the trees at the Ambassadeurs the fabulous creatures who make style a fine art are wearing evening hats. This mode is a modernization of the 1900 habit of wearing plume-laden cart wheels after dark.

The 1933 evening hat is usually small, but it often has a good quota of feathers for trimming. Marie Christiane, who is a Spanish marquise, has made a style of the transparent brimmed hat for evening. Her pet model is shown at the top of the sketches today, and it is about the most flattering frame any face could have. So girlish and romantic—this wide, brimmed hat made entirely of palest pink tulle, with a soft, crush crown and several gathered brims of starched tulle.

You see the shadow of the hair through the hat. A velvet ribbon is twisted into a rope around the crown and tied in a bow at the back.

In the center is something sophisticated and smart in the way of evening toques. Maria Guy makes this hat of heavy crêpe satin in pastel colors and in black, and gives it the forward droop of the new berets by pushing a big draped loop to the front over the right eye.

At the bottom is an evening toque, the like of which is seen most frequently in smart places in Paris. Mado has made this toque of black lace. It is a skull cap, pushed forward on the forehead, and pulled up into a wing at the top and left side. A swirl of tortoise shell colored aigrettes trims the front.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

KELLEY BLOWS UP.

"Well, Kelley," Prof. Fordney said dropping into a chair at headquarters, "that narcotic ring seems to have gotten your goat. Cheer up, old fellow, I have some news for you, and as you're good at problems you should be feeling better in a few moments.

"There was a federal under-cover man, unknown to either of us, working with the mob. He's chiefly responsible for breaking the case. The gang is composed of five people, including the under-cover man: 'Bugs' Wilson, Mike Finnerty, John Frachetti, 'Tough-Louie' Kern, and Bill Logan."

"Now," Fordney continued, "the under-cover man had for some time been unsuspected, but the other day the gang leader became leary of him and told Wilson so. These two were as good pals as you can find among criminals.

"Several weeks before the leader's sweetheart, a blonde, told Logan that she knew that Finnerty and the leader had a fight over Kern's girl.

"Frachetti suggested to the leader and the federal agent [who, of course, he did not know at the time was connected with the police] that the gang separate for a while as he, Frachetti, thought they were being seen together too much. Kern, who has a violent temper, broke Frachetti's jaw when the latter insisted. . . ."

"What the hell are you talking about?" roared Kelley jumping from his chair. "All that nonsense. . . ."

"Don't get excited, Ed," the professor smilingly replied. "I was just telling you who the gang leader is. You should know now."

DO YOU KNOW WHO THE GANG LEADER WAS?

BY MARY MEADE.

Once upon a time, when you were convalescing from the croup or recovering from some sort of youthful stomach ruction, you probably had presented to you a very bland, quivery something called junket. Since then, having outgrown croup and inner upsets, you may not have seen much of it. And such being, perhaps you haven't discovered that nowadays it is coming out of its convalescent atmosphere and turning up in a whole galaxy of delicious desserts for very healthy people.

You probably remember it as starting out with small flat tablets. Today we may use either these tablets or ready mixed and flavored junket preparations coming to us in packages which we buy, much as we do flavored gelatins. Both of these forms of junket, as you know, contain a substance known as rennet, which boasts the interesting ability of coagulating protein in milk, giving a tender, quivery jelly, valuable especially for its food content and ease of digestion.

So to give the flavored coagulators a boost let's indulge in the following quartet of cool, creamy desserts:

LEMON JUNKET WITH APPLE WHIP.

1 package powder for lemon junket
2 cups milk
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup thick, sweetened apple sauce
1 egg white, beaten stiff

Prepare the lemon junket with the milk, according to directions on the package. Turn into sherbet glasses and chill in the refrigerator. When ready to serve beat the egg white until stiff, add the apple sauce and sugar, beat again, and pile this fluffy mixture atop each glass of junket. Children shout for it!

The next is a speedster of the first water:

RASPBERRY FIG SURPRISE.

1 package powder for raspberry junket
2 cups milk, lukewarm
4 fig filled cookies

Simply crumble the fig filled cookies into small pieces and drop them into the bottom of dessert dishes. Then dissolve junket powder in the lukewarm milk and pour immediately over the crumbs. Let stand at room temperature ten minutes without disturbing, then chill in the refrigerator and serve.

ORANGE JUNKET CHARLOTTE.

1 package powder for orange junket
2 cups milk
Small lady fingers
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
4 tablespoons sugar
Raspberry jam

Line the sides of dessert glasses with lady fingers. Dissolve the powder for orange junket in the lukewarm milk, stir, and turn into dessert glasses. Let stand till firm in a warm room, then chill in the refrigerator. To serve, top with the beaten egg white folded with the sugar. Top it all off with a gay dash of raspberry jam couched knowingly on top of the meringue.

But perhaps you have some junket tablets tucked away somewhere—ones that you're not quite sure what to do with. Then this is the trick for plain pudding to be served all a-flutter with whipped cream, or tempting beneath a pile of sliced fresh fruit:

JUNKET CREAM.

2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon lemon or vanilla extract
1 junket tablet
1 tablespoon lukewarm water

Add the salt, sugar, and flavoring to the milk which has been heated till lukewarm. Stir in the junket tablet which has been dissolved in one tablespoon lukewarm water. Turn out at once into sherbet dishes and let stand at room temperature until firm. Then chill and serve with cream, plain or whipped, or with fresh fruit.

Wreathed Quilt Made Debut in Cleveland's Term

President's Wreath.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Because this pattern first made its appearance during the presidency of Grover Cleveland, most quilt historians claim the honor for him, even though the name "President's Wreath" fails to make any such designation. These conventional flowers are usually pieced of a rose and pink combination of materials and arranged at intervals on a green wreath.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

Wool Pajamas for Lounging Win Shoppers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

They are doing very different things with new lingerie . . . you can keep warm and cozy in old fashioned wool albatross fashioned in decorative high fashioned lounging pajamas . . . they are pictorial enough to lounge in and snug enough to brave the howling breezes on a sleeping porch.

One particularly effective suit is made of sheer white wool albatross. The jacket to the pajamas is trimmed with coral pink frogs . . . the separate robe is long and tailored inpeccably with a masculine roll over long collar, pockets and the same cheerful red frogs fasten the front sections.

If you can't enjoy this stunning new sheer wool, you can find some delectable new satin affairs, made Russian style, with rows of buttons, wide loose sleeves and a high collar or neckline. Look for a gold and blue combination that is military enough to suit any one outside the army.

Then there are some turquoise blue numbers that are good. They present a stunning contrast achieved with a short jacket of vermilion. Or you can choose trousers of Chinese red and top them with a blue blouse and jacket.

There are new flannel robes fashioned like a cossack overcoat . . . with wide straight line sleeves and trimmed with white military braid . . . these are most attractive in powder blue trimmed with white, in deep maroon trimmed with white, and navy also edged with the same white braid.

If you are trousseau hunting, you'll fall for the new frilled chiffon nightgowns, made as exquisitely as any new evening gown . . . one spectacular affair has cascading ruffles running perpendicularly from the trailing hemline to well above the knees. A deep lace yoke is matched to a separate jacket for a breakfast in bed ensemble.

Don't Mope if Another Steals Your Best Beau

Have Spunk to Seek Out Handsomer Swains.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is very fond of a young man. People say he is very fond of her. She wrote him and he answered. She wrote again, and he wrote back, but in a postscript added that he had got engaged, hoped this wouldn't make any difference, and that she'd keep on writing just the same.

Of course, that would just make the girl think she's suffering a broken heart, now that some other girl has him cinched. It's the way of us wimmin. Some of us, anyway. We never knew how much we cared until we lost. That's our song when some other woman undermines our pride by snitching a man right out from under us.

"Lorie," the girl under discussion, wonders if she should keep on writing, now that the gentleman has shown his hand. Not that there would be a darned bit of harm in continuing the correspondence, say we—but what for? Just to keep the motions all stirred up? To prolong the so-called pain?

The girl on the job has all the breaks on her side, so, say we, turn the whole job of entertainment over to her, and you, "Lorie," start another little correspondence school of your own. No use catering to the young man's vanity nor injecting your letters into that other little affair. When a man confides, even in a postscript, that he is engaged, it must be accepted that you're only a second, at best. With your wits about you, why be content with less than first place?

We hear so much of this hanging on after a man announces his intended tieup with some one else. It isn't so much that a girl expects to recover the man as that she hates to let go for her pride's sake. She likes to brag about getting letters from him, even though it is known he is engaged. When you really analyze the thing, there isn't much pride in the performance at all. There would be more exhibited if the man were dropped and energy applied to attracting some one else. You can't keep on writing after he marries the other girl.

Anyway, that's not the modern attitude. It doesn't become the up and getting somewhere for herself girl. If some one else scotches your man—let her have him. There are still good fish in the sea. That's the way you want to train your mind, anyway.

A CENTURY of PROGRESS

Have You Visited It?

EUROPE has visited the World's Fair. The Orient has. Australia, Africa, Canada, South America, Mexico—they all have. Every state in our Union has. Fourteen million strong, they have poured into Chicago from the far flung edges of the earth.

Fourteen million voices, the world over, are heralding the name of Chicago. CHICAGO, and A Century of Progress. The greatest project of present day history, perhaps of all history, is right here on our lake front. Don't fail to see it! Sometimes we are so close to GREATNESS that we miss its very strength, its beauty, its gigantic proportions.

You owe it to yourself to go again and again. You owe it to the children to take them. Let them learn it by heart. It is education, it is travel, it is wealth, it is inspiration and guiding genius to Youth. Let it never be said, years hence, "I was a child in Chicago at the time of A Century of Progress, but my parents didn't take me."

The World's Fair belongs to the world. But . . . . we point with pride to certain of our own citizens who had the unfailing courage, the vision, and the faith in Chicago to undertake such a tremendous project. So—

To Rufus C. Dawes and other World's Fair officials, Mayor Kelly and the Commissioners of South Park, we of The Fair Store join with Chicago to say "ALL HAIL!"

The World's Fair is a success. Fourteen million visitors have spent their money here. Our own store, The Fair, has noted a marked increase in sales that we attribute directly to the World's Fair. Other stores, other businesses, are experiencing the same upturn. The Spirit of Chicago is back again!

Only September and October, and the World's Fair is a part of history. (Only 55 days more, to be exact.) The management is anticipating the largest attendance of the season during these two months. So make your plans now. We know you're busy playing host and hostess to the rest of the world . . . but don't delay. Time slips away quickly.

CHICAGO HOSPITALITY.

[The Evening Ledger, Mexico, Mo.]

Chicago is a great city, regardless of the things which may be said against it in certain matters. Its Century of Progress is a magnificent show, but the thing which it is doing today that will remain longest in the minds of its thousands of visitors is the courtesy shown by every one in Chicago to all guests. There is the graciousness of the old south, the wholehearted friendliness of the west, and the civility of a kindliness that impresses you with its sincerity. From the newsboy on the street to the once autocratic hotel clerk an affability radiates which makes you feel they are glad to see you in Chicago and that it is their personal duty to attend to your every request with all dispatch and respect. To the wanderer from the open spaces whose ideas of cities were once gleaned from a hard boiled traffic cop while trying to make a one way street in the wrong direction, this attitude must of itself prove refreshing. The hard boiled method of doing things in cities in the fight for service where the rush crowds make for only the survival of the fittest has been reversed, and every one seems happy and wants to make their guests equally as cheerful. We want to compliment Chicago and its people upon what they have accomplished along these lines. They will profit by it in the years to come as long as memory lingers. We were not held up nor did we see any one put "on the spot," but we imagine if it were done in Chicago today it would be accompanied by an apology and with all the grace so foreign to such an occasion.

WE AMERICANS.

Herewith is an editorial from the Evening Ledger of Mexico, Audrain county, Missouri. It is one of a number of comments to the same effect by editors and writers who have visited Chicago during the Exposition, and THE TRIBUNE is receiving many letters from other visitors who take the trouble to write directly to us of their impression of Chicago's hospitality. The number is, in fact, impressive, and, needless to say, the people of Chicago, and especially those officials of the city and the Exposition who have direct responsibility for the entertainment of our visitors, must be gratified and grateful.

Our visitors are not mistaken in this impression, for there is a sincere desire in the whole community that they may feel, as they are, welcome and at home with us. But so far as courtesy is concerned, they have made it very easy to be courteous. Their own good manners, the spirit in which they receive what we have to offer them and make allowance for inconveniences or shortcomings, their intelligent responsiveness have made their presence in the city not only very agreeable but in a deeper sense significant. It is impossible to move among them at the Fair and in the crowded streets of the city these days without warming to them and being proud of our American people.

We have all been passing through a grievous ordeal and voices of pessimism and even despair have declared the failure of American civilization. They exhort us to transform our institutions and find a better way than the American way. We have not believed them, and least of all when we look into the faces of our American fellows and sense their brave friendliness, their clean strength and alertness, are we disposed to surrender the splendid heritage which has made them and which we share with them, to follow the prophets of defeat and the advocates of revolutionary change.

If we have made our visitors feel they are warmly welcome it is because they well deserve it. If they, as they have graciously told us, are grateful we are doubly grateful, for they give us the most precious of gifts, a renewed faith in ourselves, in our America.

CUBS WIN, 4-3; CHECK BRAVES' RALLY IN 9TH

PIRATES FAIL TO GAIN; DIVIDE WITH NEW YORK

Win Opener in 10th, 6-5, Then Lose, 9-1.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The New York Giants today successfully fought off the challenge of the Pirates for the National league leadership as they gained an even break in a double header to retain their six and one-half game advantage over Pittsburgh.

After seeing their lead reduced to five and one-half games as the result of the Pirates' 6 to 5 ten inning victory in the first game, the Giants came back to hammer out a 9 to 1 decision in the second contest behind the effective seven hit pitching of Hal Schumacher.

22,000 Pack Forbes Field.

The Pirate fans turned out in full force, twenty-two thousand packing Forbes field. The split gave the Pirates two of the three games played, with two more remaining on the schedule, one tomorrow and the final game Friday.

The first game was won by Relief Pitcher Bill Swift after the Pirates had come from behind to tie the score in the eighth on a pair of triples by Pie Traynor and Arky Vaughan and Tommy Thevenow's single. With Vaughan on second in the tenth Swift punched a single to center, scoring the Pirate shortstop with the deciding run.

Fred Fitzsimmons and Steve Swetonic were the starting hurlers, but neither finished. Fitzsimmons passed out of the picture when Traynor and Vaughan hit their eighth inning triples, while Swetonic was taken out in the sixth as the Giants bunched six of their 15 hits for four runs and a 5 to 2 lead. Herman Bell was charged with the defeat while Swift, who relieved Leon Chagnon in the eighth, received credit for the victory.

Giants Open Up Early.

The Pirates never were in the running in the nightcap as the Giants cut loose in the first inning on Ralph Birkofer, who recently defeated them in New York. Before Chagnon could be rushed to the rescue New York had scored two runs and had the bases loaded. Gus Mancuso greeted Chagnon with a double, clearing the bases and sending Schumacher away to a five run lead.

Harris and Swift followed Chagnon to the mound, but only Harris escaped from being scored on.

SENATOR ROOKIE, 39 YEARS OF AGE, BEATS SOX, 3 TO 1

Old Alex McColl Makes a Winning Debut.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—It seems that Alex McColl, 39 year old pitcher of 21 years' experience in the minors, was a sittin' on the Chattanooga bench the other day, it not being his turn to pitch, and up comes Manager Bert Neihoff of the Lookouts and says, "Well, Alex, how would you like to go to the big league?"

So Alex says "Me and Mabel over there has always dreamed about the big show, but I'm too old to be a-kiddin' at this late date, so cut it out, Bert."

But Bert comes back with, "Why, dern your old bald head, I'm a-kiddin' on the square. Washington wants you. They know you'll soon be 40 and that you never even was at a major league spring trainin' camp, and still they want you."

Alex Makes Triumphant Debut.

So Alex and the little woman, Mabel, came up to Washington and this afternoon Alex made his big league debut against the White Sox team of Chicago, beat them 3 to 1, holding them to four singles, the last of which was a scratch in the ninth.

But bald Alex didn't wait 21 years just to pitch a four hit ball game in the majors. He decided to do some hittin' besides. In the second he lined a double off Lefty Miller, erstwhile Washington nemesis, to drive in the first two Washington runs, the ones that were enough to win.

Not taking anything away from Alex, but maybe Manager Fonseca of the Sox fooled the Chattanooga import into thinking he was much younger than 39 when he sent in Red Faber after Miller had been flattened in the second inning. Red being 45, Alex seemed to get the notion that he himself was just a sapling, and after he got the notion he kept getting sprightlier and sprightlier, except in the sixth, when the Sox got half of their hits to account for their run.

Sox Lose 6 Straight.

The licking the Sox got today brought their current losing streak to an even half dozen. There is some fear that the old man idea having worked so well today, managers will be wheeling in all sorts of old boys. Rube Marquard, for instance, is only two years old than Alex admits being, and Rube would have the advantage of a lot of major league experience that Alex never had.

A double play in the first inning prolonged Miller's tenancy an inning. After Myer had fanned, Manush reached first on Appling's error and stopped at third on Cronin's double to left. Harris was hit by a pitched ball, then Schulte grounded into a double killing, Appling to Hayes to Kress.

Sox Fill Bases.

The Sox got the bases full in the third but nothing came of the enterprise. Berry walked and Faber fanned. Swanson then knocked the first hit off McColl, a single to left. Haas forced Swanson, then Dykes walked, filling the bases. Simmons flied to Harris.

The Sox accomplished a run in the sixth and had men on first and third when the light went out. With one down Simmons singled to right. Appling flied to Harris, and Kress walked. Hayes singled to center, Simmons scoring and Kress reaching third. Berry was called out on strikes.

After putting out the fire kindled by Miller in the second, Faber did a swell job of shutout pitching until Sullivan struck out for him in the seventh. Wyatt also held the Senators away from the plate in the last two innings.

*Wally Berger, the Braves' leading batter, takes a healthy cut at one of Bud Tinning's pitches in the first inning of yesterday's game with the Cubs at Wrigley field. ## Yeah, Rain Helps Grass, but Who'll Pay to See It Grow?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—On Labor day it rained.

Yes, on Labor day it rained in sufficient quantities and at just the right time to wash the ball games out of the yards in all the eastern plants. They had been scheming to play some gala double headers on Labor day and that was the p. m., too, on which Belmont Park reopened with an attendance of 5,000 head, instead of, maybe, twice or three times that many.

Belmont Park is a place where they conduct tests to see if one horse can run faster than another or vice versa. Some times they have as many as three or four steeds in a test.

On the Sunday before Labor day it rained, too, in New York, and large bodies of cash customers who otherwise would have infested the ball yards where the Yankees were to have met the Athletics and the Phillies were to have played catch with the Brooklyn daffiness boys decided not to infest those premises.

This Prosperity Business Is Very Confusing.

I do not understand much about commerce and prosperity. Sometimes I read where it says that if the citizens do not spend their money back and forth then the dread specter of poverty and want comes skulking around to strangle the keystone of democratic institutions in his clammy coils.

But if the customers who aim to go out to some ball yard or horse park and ogle the proceedings or to ride on the roller coasters of a holiday afternoon find themselves prevented by rain from doing as they intended, then they keep their money, do they not? And if they keep these funds in their pants instead of spending them away on such a nonessential as an eyeful of sport, they are that much more prosperous themselves, aren't they?

Or maybe they spend equal amounts on the saloons and theaters. I wouldn't have any way of knowing.

I do know, however, that the untimely rains of the holiday week-end in the east prevented at least 200,000 customers from doing as they would have done with their time and money on Sunday and Monday and made countless thousands mourn. Well, perhaps, not countless thousands mourned, but the baseball magnates and the horse park people and Mr. Harry Stevens, the hotdog magnate, mourned enough for countless thousands. They mourned intensively and Mr. Stevens had his three sons, Joe, Hal and Frank and his grandson, Harry Jr., the recent Yale subvarsity guard, to help him feel bad about it.

The big dates of the season were gone. You can get ball games played, usually, when they are postponed for one reason or another, and sometimes it is better to postpone a game and double it up with another on a later date, as a bargain in entertainment. But Sundays and holidays are scarce and you cannot convincingly declare some subsequent Tuesday to be a Sunday postponed from last month or a midweek date in September to be a postponed, rained-out Fourth of July.

The spirit of the citizens is better suited for this gala business on Sundays, and the arrangement which always brings Labor day just after a Sunday is a very good one for the sport business, unless it rains.

Open Air Promoters Can Take It.

Of course the open air show people learn to look out the window at a rainy Sunday or holiday or both in succession without jumping out like table cloth financiers when a boom crashes. They have to learn to take it if they expect to stay in business for any time, because many a time in a career of years a man owning a ball club or a bathhouse concession will be called upon to listen to the gentle patter of the little drops which are so good for the grass and flowers and console himself with the idea that weather, like so many other things, averages up.

The money which wasn't spent on the ball games and the races in this part of the country Sunday and Monday probably never will be spent on ball games and races now. This is money which the boys might have

Sharkey Opens Training for Levinsky Bout

Jack Sharkey, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, opened training yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium for a 10 round bout with King Levinsky of Chicago at White Sox ball park on Sept. 15. After he finished the drill, which included two rounds of boxing, his followers predicted that he would knock out Levinsky.

Begins with Shadow Boxing.

Sharkey appeared at the gymnasium about 2:30 o'clock. He started the workout by shadow boxing and then he went a round on the small bag. While putting on the big gloves for the two round exhibition bout Sharkey displayed some of the temper for which he is noted. Trainer Palazzola apparently did not heed an order and the Boston fighter snarled: "What's the matter, are you getting independent?". And Palazzola jumped to obey.

Sharkey started the boxing drill by jabbing his partner, Chester Matan, in the face with his left, and the latter attempted to counter with a straight left to the same place, but Jack pushed the blow aside and retaliated with hard left hooks to the body and head. He quickly varied his attacked with straight rights to the head when Matan started blocking the lefts.

Lands Hard Body Blow.

At the start of the second round Sharkey came out of his corner weaving from his hips up, similar to the style made famous by Jack Dempsey,

SPARTA SOCCER OPPONENTS ARE STALLED IN CUBA

The revolution in Cuba has upset plans made by the Sparta soccer team to meet the Audux Italiano club of Santiago, Chile, here Saturday and Sunday.

The Chileans had completed a series of games in Cuba and were ready to come to the United States when the uprising broke out. Manager Charley Fenci of Sparta had a long distance conversation with the manager of the South Americans yesterday and the Chilean informed him that they would be unable to get away from Havana in time to get here this week end. The games have been postponed until Sept. 16 and 17.

Sparta will meet the Bricklayers at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue Sunday.

Shucco Knocks Out Griffith in 4th Round

Boston, Mass., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Tony Shucco, Boston heavyweight, tonight scored a surprising four round knockout over Tuffy Griffith of Chicago, in the 10 round feature of the Burke Sporting club's initial boxing show at Mechanics building. Shucco weighed 177 and Griffith 187.

The Boston battler showed unexpected strength when he flailed Griffith for a nine count with a solid right to the jaw after two minutes of battling in the fourth round. Griffith was still groggy when he arose and another right to the jaw dropped him for five. Again he struggled to his feet and Shucco had him draped over the ropes, pounding his head with both hands, when Griffith's handlers signaled their surrender by tossing in a towel.

Shucco is Elusive.

Griffith, slow and loggy, was hardly able to put a glove on the shifty Shucco during the previous battling. The Boston Italian fed him a steady diet of long lefts to the head and frequently ripped hard lefts to the body, reputed to be Griffith's weak spot.

Several times during the first two rounds, Griffith managed to score with his right to Shucco's body, but he was never capable of a sustained attack.

When the fourth started, Griffith appeared to be laboring under the delusion that Shucco's right was merely a defensive weapon and he made no attempt to protect his left side. Shucco ripped home a heavy right through this opening and as Griffith went back on his heels, he repeated the dose with marked success to gain his first important knockout in his home city.

1,500 Spectators Attend.

The show, which opened Boston's indoor season, was a financial failure, drawing fewer than 1,500 spectators and net receipts of $1,038. It served as the Boston debut of Bobby Burke, former Miami promoter.

HARTNETT HITS HOMER; TINNING HANGS UP NO. 12

Bruins Get Even with Frankhouse.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The home influence to which the Cubs invariably display an amazing reaction showed itself again yesterday. The north siders, playing much like champions, which is what they hope to be even after the present race concludes, dusted off the peppery Boston Braves both effectively and speedily. The Braves, who had pennant ambitions until the Giants recently slapped them down in rude fashion, surrendered, 4 to 3, after kicking up a ninth inning fuss in which all their runs scored.

The Cubs lost no time revealing their intentions to the 5,000 in attendance. They undoubtedly had in mind the whitewashing hung on them by Mr. Fred Frankhouse during the recent visit to Boston. Whatever the motive, they didn't permit the ex-Cardinal to come even close to duplicating his trick. They hopped on him for a run in the first inning and put him out of business with two in the second. Subsequently they picked up one more on Rescuer Bob Smith, and this run was of great value in view of happenings in the ninth.

No. 12 for Tinning.

In the first eight innings the Braves had been thoroughly subdued by Bud Tinning. During that time they could nick him for only three singles. A pass and Jurges' first error furnished them with two other chances, but none of these five survivors at first base was able to reach second. Even the ninth might have been scoreless if Jurges hadn't fumbled again. But Tinning halted the disturbance with the tying run on second base, thus recording his 12th victory of the season and the 45th out of 60 for the Cubs on their home lot. It also was the Braves' eighth defeat here in nine starts.

Several players took a hand in making Tinning's pitching effort a success. Babe Herman drove in Ki Cuyler in the first inning and Cuyler drove in the valuable run scored in the eighth. Half of the pair harvested in the second, when Frankhouse retired, blossomed when Gabby Hartnett produced his 14th homer; the other run was the work of Manager Grimm and Jurges.

Frankhouse Starts Wrong.

Frankhouse was up against it as soon as he took up his day's employment. He plunked Hack, the leadoff hitter, with a pitched ball. This mistake was corrected when Billy Herman bounced into a double play started by the perennial Maranville. The double play didn't discourage Cuyler or even Babe Herman. Cuyler sailed a fly close to the line in left and it dropped beyond Lee's reach for a double. The Babe smacked a single into left to score Cuyler. Stephenson popped out.

Hartnett's contribution to the perpetuation of the Cubs' faded pennant hopes came at the start of the second inning. He clubbed his homer into the left field seats, giving him the distinction of two circuit smashes in succession. He made the other in his last appearance against Tex Carleton Sunday. After Hartnett had carried himself around the bases, Grimm hit one to the sawed off end of the left field bleacher and hobbled as far as second. Jurges singled to left and the ailing manager hobbled some more, this time reaching the plate. Frankhouse remained on the job long enough to fan Tinning and then retired in favor of Smith.

Smith Is Puzzle.

For quite a stretch Smith's labors were so successful that the Cubs enjoyed only a limited number of views of first base. Not a man survived in either the third or fourth. This string was broken after the first two had been retired in the fifth. Then Billy Herman singled to center and Cuyler singled past Maranville. Babe Herman ended this affair without profit when he popped to Urbanski. The sixth also was marked by the appearance and disappearance of three Cubs in a row, but in the seventh they did a bit better.

Tinning put the seventh inning run

TERALICE SCORES BY A NOSE WITH RUSH IN STRETCH

Bartelstein Racer Again Fools the Betters.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The old miracle man of the horse tracks, Harry Unna from out on the Pacific slope, slammed his reformed selling plater, Teralice, over again at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon.

Running against a band of eligibles for the Lincoln handicap, which is to be renewed on Saturday, Teralice came from behind and, in a mighty drive near the line of finish, got up to beat Evergold from the Nash Brothers' Shandon Farm stable by a nod.

Royal Blunder from the Audley Farm stable of Virginia was a close-up third. Trailing the three leaders home were Big Brand, Karl Eitel, and Red Roamer, all eligible to the rich Lincoln stake.

The Faithful Betters Collect.

Unna for some reason or another forgot to name Teralice for the Lincoln. Mr. Unna's friends and his boss, Abraham Bartelstein of the west side, won a pretty penny when Teralice went galloping home yesterday.

Evergold, Big Brand, Royal Blunder, and Red Roamer all had their backers, so Teralice paid $11.22 to his loyal supporters. It was a big price on a horse which ran so fast and so gamely.

In the early stages Evergold, Royal Blunder, and Karl Eitel were fighting for the lead. Teralice was just off the dizzy pace, however, and when the field rounded the lower bend and headed into the stretch Jockey Sammy Renick and Teralice were out quite a bit from the rail but in a position to make a real run for the lead.

Teralice lost no time taking up the chase. He passed Red Roamer and Royal Blunder without much trouble. Then he took after Evergold and wore him down in the final dozen strides.

Quite a Snappy Mile.

It was a brilliantly run mile, the quarter having been reeled off in :23, the half in :45 4-5, the three-quarters in 1:11, and the mile in the good time of 1:37.

Teralice is the royally bred son of Terry-Alice Harris, which Sam H. Harris, the theatrical magnate, sent to Chicago for the Arlington season in charge of Trainer Max Hirsch. Teralice refused to run for Mr. Hirsch, so he was finally dropped down into a $1,500 claiming race, out of which he was taken by Bartelstein and turned over to Unna to train.

From the way he came home in the Rally Round purse, the race he won yesterday, he is entitled to match his speed and gameness with the best horses in training.

In the Woodlawn purse, the veteran campaigner, Islam, from the stable of Little Jack Howard, the Kentucky plunger, ran away from his rivals after taking the lead at the head of the stretch and wound up by winning the mile and a sixteenth dash by five lengths with Burning Up, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark of Chicago, second, and Anna Adella, from the stable of Harry Herendeen, also of Chicago, third.

Mad Wind Is a Flop.

Islam was the favorite at a little better than even money, but Mad Wind also had many backers. Mad Wind, which races for A. A. Baroni of Nevada, finished last, North Shadow coming up to be fourth just as the battle ended.

Herendeen put over the longest shot of the day when his lightly regarded Levaal, a son of Lee O. Cotner-Renavaal, turned up as the winner of the fourth race at six furlongs. Fanfern had been the heavily backed favorite in this number, but evidently wasn't in a running mood for she finished out of the money. Pancoast, a Kentucky 3 year old, was second and Captain Ed landed in third place.

VICTORIUM went the first eighth in close quarters, but eased back and taken to outside, moved up fast approaching the turn and, drew into a long lead. Thereafter, CHAUVENET, lucky to keep up when on inside the first half-mile, stood a long drive gamely. FINNIC began fast, but readily gave way to winner and went evenly in stretch.

Winner trained by W. Hurley. Went to post at 3:05½. Off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same. Daily double paid $10.34.

BOY VALET, well up from the start and on outside the final half-mile, responded to strong urging and, wearing down FLICKAMARU, was drawing out in late stages. Latter, lugged along from the start, had speed and, weakening, failed to withstand winner, but was best of others.

LEVAAL, having the most speed, took an easy lead before going a quarter. Increased his advantage on stretch turn and, holding on in his best style, was not menaced, winning with something left. PANCOAST had to race wide throughout, stood pressure gamely the final three-sixteenths and, wearing down FRENCH KNIGHT, outstayed CAPTAIN RED. Latter, a good distance back when entering stretch, raced on inside when making up ground thereafter.

TERALICE, kept well up from the start, saved ground on stretch turn and was forced wide by EVERGOLD in final eighth, but was up in closing strides. Latter, cleverly rated, held on well and bore out after reaching the closing furlong. ROYAL BLUNDER, on inside throughout, also stood driving gamely.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:29. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

ISLAM, sent back in the first turn and allowed to remain out of it until reaching final five-sixteenths, improved his position on outside and, opening up a long lead, won in hand. BURNING UP, well in hand until reaching final three-eighths, held on well while racing very wide thereafter. ANNA ADELIA had speed, was much used racing with MAD WIND, and weakened badly in stretch.

Winner trained by J. McPherson. Went to post at 4:57. At post 1 minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

INDIAN BOY, under fine handling and rushed through on inside on first turn, was rated along in the early pacemaking, gave way to REVERBERATE when entering final eighth, but, holding on well, was up in closing strides. REVERBERATE followed the pace under strong restraint and, after slowly working her way to front, weakened, just failing to last. DARK SEA, steadied for three-quarters, moved up slightly after reaching stretch, but did not menace leaders.

Winner trained by E. L. Snyder. Went to post at 5:23½. At post ¼ minute. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

BEAVER, under strong restraint for seven-eighths, bore over badly after taking a short lead, was repeatedly straightened up in final eighth and, but for the swerving, might have won by a larger margin. ALADDINS DREAM had speed from the start, saved ground throughout, and suffered mild interference from winner while holding on gamely. WHITE LEGS moved up with a saving of ground on lower turn, but could not get to leaders. TREK could not get up.

ATHLETICS BEAT INDIANS, 5 TO 4; FOXX HITS HOMER

Lefty Grove Pitches 20th Victory of Season.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx's 41st homer of the season and Lefty Grove pitching his 20th victory, were largely accountable today for the Athletics' 5 to 4 victory over the Cleveland Indians in the opener of a four game series, the last between the two clubs this year.

Mickey Cochrane also hit a homer, while doubles by Bob Johnson and Pinky Higgins in the fourth and Higgins' single in the sixth accounted for the other runs.

base when he looped a single into left center after Jurges had hoisted to Lee. Hack drew a pass and Billy Herman filed to Thompson. Cuyler lifted a single to right for his third hit of the day, Tinning scoring and Hack scoring third. Babe Herman rolled to Jurges to end the inning.

The first of the series of incidents which put Tinning's prospective victory in jeopardy in the ninth was a single to right center by Mowry, who batted for Smith. Thompson popped to left, scoring Mowry and putting Hargrave on third. The latter scored on Berger's forceout of Jurges.

The threat became serious when Tinney hit the left field wall for a double, Berger going home with the tying run. Then Hartnett gobbled up Berger's pop foul and the show was over.

Ralph Camilli, the Cubs' first baseman-hit, is going to be baseball's champion lightning change artist until somebody beats his record. He'll play with the Sacramento Pacific coast league team next Friday and on Sunday will be in a Cub uniform at Wrigley field. He will leave San Francisco Saturday morning by plane and arrive in Chicago at midnight. The original intention was not to call him up next spring, but William Veeck, club president, changed his mind yesterday on the hunch that the Cubs might not yet get back into the pennant race and that Camilli might be of service in an emergency.

Tinney will be Lon Warneke for the Cubs and Ed [Lefty] Brandt for the Bees today in the second of the scheduled game series.

MELINKOVICH OUT OF EARLY GAMES AT NOTRE DAME

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Physicians today advised Coach Hunk Anderson of the University of Notre Dame football team that George Melinkovich, star full back on last year's squad, will be unable to participate in this fall's early games.

Melinkovich has remained in bed for the last several months because of a strange illness which has left him with a weak heart. Coach Anderson said either Steve Banas or Don Elser, a sophomore, will take Melinkovich's place in the Notre Dame back field.

Ross Figures Out Answer to a Left Hook

Lake Swannanoa, N. J., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Barney Ross put on a dress rehearsal for the benefit of the press here this afternoon, going through four sizzling rounds of training for his bout with Tony Canzoneri in Long Island bowl next Tuesday.

It wasn't Barney's best workout by any means, especially when he faced young Joe Rivers, who seemed to bother Ross with a left hook. The champion soon corrected that, however, for towards the close of the second round he had Rivers' punches blocked and was belting him with a right to the body.

Patsy Gets One on Chin.

Patsy Pasculli, a New Yorker with a whirlwind style, was first to box Ross, but Patsy didn't fare so well. A left hook clipped him on the chin and he went to the canvas. It was the second knockdown of the training period for Pasculli. Previous to coming here to help Ross, Patsy had never been on the floor. Ross boxed two rounds each with Pascalli and Rivers.

The workout was scheduled a half hour earlier than usual so that the visiting writers could go over to Canzoneri's camp at Pompton Lake to have a look at the challenger. There were 18 writers on hand, which serves as an indicator of how this championship battle is taking on in New York.

Predicts $150,000 Gross.

Matchmaker Al Weill asserted that the gate might touch $150,000 gross. This compares well with the $200,000 drawn by Baer and Schmeling and the $170,000 paid at the Sharkey-Carnera gate.

Several members of the New York Giants football team came over from their nearby camp to watch the champion. Harry Newman of Michigan fame was among them. Harry declared that he preferred forward passes or even blocked kicks to the padded gloves.

Harry Dublinsky Fights Tomorrow in Cicero Stadium

Harry Dublinsky, west side lightweight boxer, will make his first appearance here in four months in a 10 round bout against Jacquotte Elverrillo at Cicero stadium tomorrow night. Dublinsky has had seven matches since then. He lost to Wesley Rainey and beat Battling Shaw, former junior welterweight champion; Peter Petroskey, Young Joe Firpo, and Wildcat O'Connor, and knocked out Charlie Baxter and Frank Bojorski. Supporting contests are:

Sammy Leving vs. Johnny Fitzpatrick [6].
Joey Klelko vs. Steve Paido [4].
Johnny Reba vs. Jack O'Connell [4].
Sammy Adams vs. Walter Stallaus [4].
Popeye Huber vs. Carl Scalise [4].

Joe Triner, Illinois boxing commission chairman, yesterday informed Mique Malloy that the promoter would not be allowed to present Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, in an exhibition bout Monday at the Coliseum, due to conflict with the Sharkey-Levinsky encounter.

Phil Kenneally and Barney Ryan will meet tonight in the closed amateur tournament at the C. Y. O. stadium, 1140 Jackson boulevard. There will be eight other contests.

GIVES CHECKER EXHIBITION.

Sharkey Opens Training for Levinsky Bout

Sharkey Weighs 201 Pounds.

Sharkey concluded by shadow boxing two more rounds, and punching the fast bag again and skipping rope one each. He weighed 201 before he started, one pound more than he expects to scale against Levinsky. He was at 201½ in his unsuccessful title defense against Champion Primo Carnera at New York, June 29. Jack lost 2½ pounds yesterday.

The former champion will do roadwork this morning. From now on he will concentrate on boxing, doing away with rope exercises. He has been boxing at Boston for the last two weeks.

Leo Rodak will make his first professional appearance on a major card against Johnny Fitzpatrick in a four round preliminary a week from tomorrow.

Lott, Parker Are Beaten in Tennis Upsets

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 6.—(AP)—The chief casualties today in the battle for the American men's single tennis championship were 17 year old Frankie Parker of Milwaukee and George Martin Lott Jr. of Chicago.

Parker, holder of the national clay court championship, seeded fifth in the present meet, fell before Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., who was not seeded at all, by scores of 4-6, 6-3, 11-9, 6-3.

Lott's defeat by Ryosuke Nunoi, youthful Japanese, in five sets was not much of an upset, according to the seeded positions of the two players, but the American surprised his followers by blowing up after winning the first two sets. The steadiness of the Japanese at critical stages enabled him to pull out an unexpected victory by scores of 5-7, 1-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2.

Satoh Has Trouble.

Jiro Satoh, Japan's No. 1 star, was hard pressed to score in five sets over the veteran Elmer Griffin of New York, 7-5, 4-6, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Otherwise the ranks of the favorites held fast in a series of brisk third round matches.

Three of the four top seeded favorites, Champion Ellsworth Vines, Frank X. Shields and Fred Perry, the British Davis cup ace, swept through the third round without the loss of a set, but the fourth, Jack Crawford of Australia, was troubled by the heat and the opposition before downing Jack Tidball of Hollywood, Cal.

Crawford rallied after a shaky start to prevent his match from going five sets. Trailing 3-5 on his rival's service in the fourth set, Crawford fired a series of dazzling volleys to beat Tidball, 6-2, 6-8, 6-2, 7-5.

Shields Masters Turnbull.

Shields gave his most convincing exhibition of the tournament in whipping Don Turnbull, youthful Australian, 6-4, 8-6, 6-3.

Shields will play Nunoi tomorrow while Perry, who disposed of the 18 year old Marco Hecht of New York today, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, meets Gledhill. Vines, who again got little more than a workout in beating Edward R. Avory of England, 6-3, 7-5, 6-1, runs up against little Bryan Grant of Atlanta in the fourth round.

Wilmer Allison, Davis cup player, was hard pressed to overcome his doubles partner, Johnny Van Ryn, 4-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4, 6-2.

SHERIFF FINED $500 FOR RAID ON DOG RACES

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Sheriff Jerome Munie and Oscar Becker, his chief deputy, were fined $500 each for contempt of court by City Judge William F. Borders today. The fines were imposed upon the pair for not answering a summons after they had raided the Midwest Kennel club's track despite an injunction issued by Judge Borders. The track was scheduled to reopen tonight, but officials late today announced postponement of the races.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POTPOURRI.

LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION BARNEY ROSS, Golden Gloves alumnus, may enter the ring in New York the night of Sept. 12 second choice in the betting to Tony Canzoneri, from whom he took the title at Chicago's Stadium.

The Wake has received reports from New York that fight followers there expect the former title holder to reverse the verdict, in fact feel sure he will do so, are willing to back that opinion. This confidence is based on the fact that Ross' advantage here was narrow and also the eastern belief that the bout here should have been called a draw. They profess to think Tony underestimated Ross and will not do so again.

Decision by which Ross received the title was discussed at the time. Chicago critics deemed the local boy entitled to the decision. As The Wake said then, it was not possible to give the verdict to Canzoneri. Ross had a margin. It could have been called a draw, but that would not have done Barney justice if decisions are to be given on points scored. The return meeting will determine the question of superiority.

Two women players met in the finals of the women's national golf tourney at Exmoor, played a sporting game, remained the best of friends, perhaps taking the affair more lightly than the gallery. Miss Van Wie, now twice national champion, always has gathered some fun out of her playing. In her earlier career we frequently heard it stated she would reach the championship if she ever would take her game seriously. We always have pulled for her because we like her attitude. Helen Hicks, Miss Van Wie's opponent and house guest during the tourney, also enjoys her golf, even in serious play. It was a refreshing contrast to the recent default in the women's national tennis.

Thirty thousand persons at a race track on Labor day does not sound like depression. With lower prices of admission prevailing, Chicago turf goers have bestowed satisfactory patronage on local tracks. Volume of speculation has not kept pace with the attendance, but that is not surprising. Incidentally, Labor day is known in turf circles as a better day to draw a crowd than July 4.

'Tis pepping up the biz;
The merchant's raking in the coin,
I know my grocer is.

Our kin drive in from far and near,
The door bell hourly peals;
They think the Fair is simply grand,
And how they like my meals.

And all day long and half the night
The coffee's percolating;
I'm telling MR. President Dawes [and the whole cook-eyed world],
I'm sure participating. Ella M.

RONZANI MAKES 65 YARD RUN IN BEARS' WORKOUT

Then He Throws 50 Yard Touchdown Pass.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 6.—[Special.]—Gene [Tuffy] Ronzani made his professional football debut here today in the Chicago Bears' first scrimmage of the year. The former Marquette player scored one touchdown on a 65 yard run and threw a 50 yard pass to Bill Hewitt for the only other score of the afternoon.

Ronzani's first star performance came when he grabbed a 30 yard pass from Johnny Doehring, Milwaukee high school product, and galloped five more yards before being hauled to earth. Then he intercepted a pass into scoring territory by the Orange-clad second team.

Pearson Recovers Fumble.

Later in the game Dick Nesbitt's 7 yard run gave the Orange a first down on the varsity 5 yard line. George Corbett fumbled, Bert Pearson recovering for the regulars. An off side play gave the first team a first down on the 15 yard line.

Ronzani threw a pass to Hewitt for 20 yards. On the next play, helped by perfect blocking by Bronko Nagurski, he scooted 65 yards to score. A few moments later his second pass to Hewitt was good for 50 yards and a touchdown, Hewitt grabbing the ball out of Jack Manders' hands.

Five All-Stars on Hand.

The Notre Dame-All Stars, who will play the Bears Saturday afternoon, Sept. 16, at Soldiers' field, Chicago, went through a light drill today while awaiting a quorum. To date only five men have reported: Harry O'Boyle, Nordy Hoffmann, Bernie Leahy, Mike Koken, and Tom Conley. Others, however, are either coaching and working out with their own teams, or working out with professional teams, and will report in condition early next week.

Chicago fans will get their first glimpse of the Bears Sunday afternoon when Coach Halas takes the squad from its training camp to play the Vrba Cicero pros at Morton High school field, 25th street and Austin boulevard, Cicero.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—Virtually all sections of the bond market on the stock exchange were weak today, sustaining the heaviest losses in several days. Trading, however, continued light, with bids on many issues distinctly scarce. A sizeable section of the domestic corporation bond list dropped 1 to 3 points, with a few issues losing 3 to 10 points on the day. The maximum losses in the foreign group ranged from 1 to 3 points.

United States government bonds traveled irregularly lower, finishing off 4-32ds to up 3-32ds of a point. Of the total turnover in the listed bond market of $8,455,700, United States government long term issues accounted for $528,700.

Poorer Rails Hit.

Second grade railroad bonds in the domestic group were hard hit, and some of the better rated rail liens, too, lost ground. Industrial and utility bonds of all degrees of credit ratings moved lower as groups, with the higher grade issues in general showing the smallest declines.

The principal weaknesses in the foreign group occurred in the bonds of Germany and Latin-America. Few issues of the latter group were able to make any headway. Other issues which showed pronounced weaknesses were Swiss government 5½s, due 1946, off 3 points; Dutch East Indies 5½, due March, 1953, off 1½, and Saarbruecken 6s, due 1953, off 2 points.

French Bonds Firm.

The principal strength in the foreigns appeared in French government loans, which climbed more than a point. French municipal loans closed firm.

Curb bonds were subjected to pressure today, but those issues in general maintained a better degree of steadiness than the issues on the big board. This was true of both foreign and domestic bonds on the curb, although both groups finished generally lower.

Investors' Guide: Please explain the following terms used on bonds. They are: [1] First mortgage building and leasehold; [2] 6 per cent first fee and leasehold mortgage bond; [3] sinking fund gold debenture; [4] first mortgage leasehold 7 per cent sinking fund gold bond, and [5] first mortgage leasehold bond.—K. G.

Answer: [1] A first mortgage building and leasehold bond is an obligation secured by a first mortgage on a building erected on leased ground. There has been considerable criticism, and much of it just, directed toward this type of instrument. Virtually the bond does not represent a first mortgage, because it is junior to the lease. If the renter of the ground on which the building is constructed defaults in terms of the lease the lease can be forfeited by the owner of the land, in which case the latter assumes full title to the building, wiping out security for the holders of the "bonds."

[2] A 6 per cent first fee and leasehold mortgage bond is a security on which the fixed rate of return is 6 per cent, secured by land and or buildings owned outright and also property held under a leasehold estate.

[3] A sinking fund gold debenture is an unsecured obligation on which the borrower has agreed to set up specific reserves at definite periods to apply on maturity of the issue. The borrower has also agreed to pay interest and principal, when due, in gold on demand. A recent act of congress invalidates the gold clause.

[4] See 1, for leasehold and 3 for definitions of sinking fund and gold.

NATION'S BANKERS URGE ROOSEVELT POSTPONE GUARANTY OF DEPOSITS

Point to Short Time; Assert It Perils Small Units.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

President Roosevelt yesterday was called upon by the American Bankers association to delay putting into operation the guaranty of deposits provisions of the banking act of 1933.

The bankers in their convention at the Stevens hotel telegraphed to the President a copy of the report drawn up by the resolutions committee in which they condemned the guaranty of deposits as dangerous. To do the job properly by Jan. 1, the effective date mentioned in the law, they pointed out, would result in disaster to thousands of smaller banks.

This demand, together with a statement that adherence to "principles of sound banking" is the best route to recovery, comprised the bankers' reply to the demands made on Tuesday by President Roosevelt, Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the RFC, and Gov. Eugene Black of the federal reserve board for liberalizing of bank loans as the bankers' contribution to the recovery program.

Assail Politics in Banking.

Passage of this resolution followed a speech by George V. McLaughlin, president of the Brooklyn Trust company and president of the New York State Bankers association, in which he attacked political influence in banking.

Other criticisms of the deposit guaranty plan and the administration's bank credit expansion scheme were voiced but interest centered on the resolution passed officially by the convention and the remarks of McLaughlin, whose views seemed to be shared by the majority of delegates.

"We pledge ourselves

"We pledge our support and coöperation in the recovery campaign that is now under way, and we point out that banking support that is in the long run most effective and helpful is that which conforms to the principles of sound banking and which by so doing safe guards the institution and the funds of its depositors," stated the official resolution.

Wary of RFC Participation.

The convention warily voted to "commend to the thorough and thoughtful consideration of all bankers the opportunities to expand and strengthen the capital structures of their institiutions that are being made available through the offer of the Reconstruction Finance corporation to purchase freely the preferred stock or capital notes of banks," but it made no recommendation.

The bankers suggested to the President the appointment of a federal commission to study the "vastly important problems of money and banking and central banking.

"We believe," they stated in their resolution, "that these should be made the subjects of searching and careful study by a federal commission appointed to report on them and to draft suggested legislation, and empowered to secure such testimony and advice and to employ such technical assistance as may deemed necessary to carry through the work to a conclusion in the most competent manner.

"This undertaking would entail prolonged effort, but we recommend that it be initiated, and pending its outcome we commend to the administration and to the congress the advisability of refraining from experimental amendments to our banking legislation and from experimental manipulations of our money system."

Oppose Guaranty Plan.

In their opposition to the deposit guaranty scheme the bankers were outspoken.

"We recommend to the national administration at Washington," they resolved, "that it seek means for postponing the initiation of deposit insurance which under the provisions of the banking act of 1933 would be put into operation at the beginning of 1934.

"The new law provides for the organization of a corporation to administer the insurance of deposits, but as yet this corporation has not been formed.

"The new law also provides that there shall be made a thorough examination of banks to determine their qualifications for insurance as a prerequisite to their admittance to its privileges, but these examinations have not as yet been made.

"There is not now remaining sufficient time before the beginning of next year to carry through the examinations the law requires nor are there enough experienced bank examiners to do the work adequately even if the time were considerably longer.

2,700 Banks Partly Open.

"There are now more than 2,700 banks that are operating on a restricted basis. Most of these banks could not qualify for deposit insurance unless reorganized. Nearly all of them would be forced to suspend.

"There are also many unrestricted banks that are now making rapid gains in strength and liquidity, but which have little prospect of being able to qualify under rigorous examination for deposit insurance before the beginning of next year.

"We believe that if the attempt is made to hurry through arbitrarily strict examinations the result will be the suspension and liquidation of some thousands of banks, which would deprive many communities of any banking facilities and would entail new losses and new credit deflation that would unsettle business and impair the prospects of recovery.

"If on the other hand the necessarily hurried examinations should be lax and superficial many institutions would be admitted to deposit insurance that cannot rightfully qualify for its privileges."

The deposit guaranty experiment came in for another lacing in the McLaughlin address.

"All of us know," he said, "The Glass-Steagall act is a curious mixture

Other Officers Move Up in Usual Order.

Robert V. Fleming, president of the Riggs National bank, Washington, D. C., was elected second vice president of the American Bankers' association at the organization session of the convention at the Stevens hotel yesterday. By virtue of his selection as second vice president Fleming will succeed to the presidency of the association two years hence in accordance with the custom of the organization.

Selection of the other officers was a cut and dried matter. Francis Marion Law, president of the First National bank, Houston, Tex., was formally elected president, having served as first vice president during the last year. He succeeds Francis H. Sisson vice president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York. Rudolph S. Hecht, chairman, Hibernia National bank, New Orleans, was elevated from second vice president to first vice president and will head the association in 1934-'35.

President a Democrat.

By coincidence rather than design the association will be headed during the coming year by a Democrat and a fellow townsman of Jesse H. Jones, R. F. C. chairman and an important figure in shaping the banking policy of the administration. Law has succeeded to the presidency through the normal route. He is 56 years old. He began as a country school teacher in Texas and later took a job as bookkeeper in the bank which he now heads.

Mr. Hecht began his banking career in Chicago in 1903 with the old National Bank of the Republic. He went to New Orleans with the Hibernia bank in 1906.

New Leader from Capital.

The new second vice president was described by the nominating committee as a "political orphan" because of his residence in Washington, D. C. He is chairman of the association's federal legislation committee.

Clyde Hendrix, president of the Tennessee Valley bank, Decatur, Ill., was elected president of the state bank division of the association. James C. Bolton, Alexandria, La., was named vice president.

J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency, will be the principal speaker at the final session today. A. A. Berle Jr., special assistant in the R. F. C., who was scheduled to speak today, will not be able to attend, it was announced.

DOLLAR QUIET, FIRM, BUT FRANC GAINS ON POUND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—The dollar was practically stationary in terms of the leading foreign exchanges today, closing at a gold value of 69.22 cents compared with 69.34 cents yesterday. In London and Paris as well fluctuations or exchanges were slight.

The French franc moved up a point to 5.66 and sterling sagged off nearly two cents to 4.45¾. Consequently the franc appreciated slightly on the pound.

But gold was quoted in London at 130 shillings 7 pence, a gain of 4 pence and equivalent to $29.69 in American funds.

Governor of Kansas Warns It Failed in His State.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A warning that the federal bank deposit guarantee scheme will produce disastrous results was received by the convention of the American Bankers' association yesterday from a state that has unsuccessfully experimented with deposit insurance.

The warning was uttered by Alf M. Landon, governor of Kansas, whose state is $7,000,000 in the red as the results of its attempts to prevent losses to depositors. The paper of Gov. Landon, who was unable to come to Chicago, was read by Henry W. Koeneke, Kansas banking commissioner.

Gov. Landon also made a vigorous defense of state banks and sharply criticized the attempts to nationalize the country's entire banking system.

Calls Country Banks Necessary.

"In my mind there will never come a time when existing conditions will erase the necessity for independent country banks, correctly operated," he asserted. "Any measure, whether it be national or state, that attempts to stamp out state banks and state banking systems is doing a direct injustice to the people themselves."

Landon declared that until recently he believed in the principle of unified banking. "But I now believe," he said, "that state banking systems may prove, after all, to be our greatest salvation.

"I do not believe that the country is old enough: I do not believe that it is densely enough populated or highly enough developed so that we can afford to crush out of existence the little bank."

He said he has received inquiries from some of the largest of the national banks in the state as to whether they could obtain state charters quickly. These have been inspired because of the methods used in the administration of the national banking laws, he said.

Condemns Deposit Guarantee.

Swinging into the subject of deposit guarantees, he declared that arguments over the matter were a waste of breath.

"The guaranty of bank deposits is the start of a vicious circle that is ruinous to depositors and stockholders alike," he said. "When five sound banks must pay the loss of one rotten one, the drain on the five necessarily impairs their strength. One of them breaks under the strain and the remaining four are weakened by the added strain, and so on.

"In Kansas and Nebraska many

Bankers Given Enough Advice but Who's Boss

The banker's dilemma: Which voice is the master's?

On the one hand is Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, telling them to be liberal with their loans, that 25 to 50 per cent liquidity is enough, that the banks' first duty is to the NRA program and that if the banks don't lend to hard pressed business men the RFC will.

On the other hand, is the treasury department telling them to strive for liquidity and that their long term loans are frozen assets.

J. F. T. O'Connor, controller of the currency and the treasury's boss of the national banks, is scheduled to speak at the convention today. The delegates are eagerly hoping that he may say something that will straighten out the tangle.

Reduction or elimination of interest on postal savings to prevent government competition with banks, was recommended before the savings division of the ABA yesterday by Gilbert L. Daane, president of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Savings bank. "Why should savings banks suffer at all from competition of their own government?" he asked.

In banking circles it was reported yesterday that the controller of the currency is about to employ a large number of new national bank examiners whose job will be to examine some 8,000 odd state banks outside the reserve system for admittance to the Deposit Insurance corporation. The rumor had it that preference would be given to youths without extensive banking experience. Bankers who have sons just out of college hastily got in touch with their senators and congressmen.

"Gambling is the assumption of an uneconomic risk; speculation is the assumption of a sound economic risk." Thus did Dr. Harold Stonier, educational director of the ABA, dispose of a controversial matter in a speech yesterday before the association.

"In times of depression," he added, "people confuse speculation with gambling and a stock certificate with a pari-mutuel ticket, and they refuse to assume any risk whatsoever. Then we have stagnation."

The publicity department of the ABA is a smooth working unit. Thousands of words are turned out daily in a mimeograph workshop set up in the convention headquarters. As soon as a speaker finishes a stenographer rushes a report of the speech to the workshop, where copies are made for the score or more of newspaper and trade paper reporters who are covering the meeting.

* *

The report of the bankers' NRA code committee will be presented to the convention today. The code will supplant the temporary regulations now in effect.

ADD TO CAPITAL IF DEPOSITS RISE U. S. BANK PLAN

Experts Seek Guard for Guaranty Fund.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—The next move in federal banking legislation may be to require banks to increase their capital on a sliding scale in proportion to deposits, it was revealed here today.

The move will come as a sequel to the much debated deposit insurance and will be for the expressed purpose of protecting the insurance corporation, it was explained. Experts in the treasury and federal reserve board already have become convinced of the advisability of such a requirement, but legislation has not been drafted.

Experts Expect Controversy.

Unheavals as widespread as those caused by the proposed insurance corporation itself might follow in the wake of such a move, the experts admit. The proposal bristles with troublesome questions, but the treasury and reserve board, in the words of one expert, regard the requirement as "a very good one."

Serious doubt has been raised, for instance, about the ability of many banks to meet the increas demands for capital which would automatically come about with rising deposits. An upshot from this question has been the related one of whether the government would lend all or part of the necessary new capital to banks which needed tiding over. The new insurance corporation has powers to make bank loans.

Want to Safeguard Fund.

Behind the movement to demand a correlation between unimpaired capital and deposit liabilities is a desire to protect the insurance corporation now being formed. By forcing a bank to keep increasing its capital along with its deposit liabilities, the insurance fund might protect itself from serious losses in the event the bank had to be taken over by the corporation.

First intimation of the impending demand for such legislation came in the address of Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, at Chicago yesterday. Experts here today confirmed the possibility mentioned by Mr. Jones and indicated that it would be pushed for action when congress reconvenes.

STOCKS' RALLY NEARLY REGAINS EARLY LOSSES

A Few Leading Issues Finish Higher.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 6.—The share market creaked slowly along again today. Beyond the Cuban revolt the news developments were rather favorable on the whole including a general advance in oil and gasoline prices and encouraging sales reports by a number of leading chain store organizations but the average trader has reached the state of mind where he does not feel that he can be sure of anything these days—not even that he can't be sure of anything.

In its broad outlines, the market sold off in the early dealings—probably a contiuation of yesterday afternoon's run of liquidation—went through a period of aimless backing and filling around midday and then rallied smartly toward the close. The net result was a pretty ragged looking overnight table with a majority of the more important issues selling slightly under last night's levels. American Can, Air Reduction, Case, Consolidated Gas, and American Telephone were outstanding exceptions to the rule.

Oils Strong, Rails Weaker.

The oil group finished a point or two higher—thanks to those price markups on refinery products—and the utilities just about held their own on the whole. Carriers issues were sharply lower as a division. Sugar stocks had to pay a heavy toll on the new uprising down Cuba way, declines of 1 to 4 points being noted in the common and preferred issues of American Sugar, South Porto Rican, and Cuban American.

Another group to go awry was the tobaccos which were being touted for a rise only a few days ago on a cigaret price boost supposed to be in the offing. Today the trading community heard that with all the uncertainties attending industry and everything the way is not clear just yet for the increase. American Tobacco, Universal Leaf, Bayuk Cigar, Congress Cigar, and others dropped 1 to 4 points on the "revised" prophecy.

Steel Sells Lower.

Heavy selling came into United States Steel common at intervals on predictions of a decrease of from 150,000 to 200,000 tons in the corporation's unfilled tonnage report as of Aug. 31, due in a few days. Up to the final hour rally the old bellwether was struggling along about two points under its previous close but the general upturn enabled it to recover about half its loss.

Liquor shares as usual staged a

Grains Seesaw as Traders Await Result of NRA Codes

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain and other commodity markets are regarded by the trade as marking time until the effect on general business of the NRA codes becomes more defined. Speculative interest for a number of days has been at a minimum.

Many observers regard the erratic fluctuations in the markets, especially grains, as being meaningless and to a large measure a reflection of professional operations. It is the general belief of the grain trade, as indicated by the exchange floor gossip, the trend of the markets will be determined almost entirely by developments at Washington.

Wheat fluctuated rather rapidly yesterday within a range of 1⅞ to 2¼ cents, breaking as much as 1¾ cents early with the December delivery touching 86⅝ cents, or 5⅞ cents under the high of last week, but rallied toward the close.

Wheat Closes Higher.

The finish on wheat was ⅛ to ⅞ cent higher, with September leading. The latter finished at 84⅞ cents, while December was 88⅜ to 88½ cents and May 92⅝ to 92½ cents.

Price changes in corn were not as wide as in wheat. The close ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, with commission houses on both sides. September was 47¾ cents and December 53 to 53⅛ cents at the last. Oats were ⅛ cent lower for the day with September 36¼ cents and December 39½ cents at the last.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in rye, which caused a break of as much as 3 cents from Tuesday's finish, but prices rallied later in sympathy with wheat and on buying by a cash house. The close was 1 to 1⅝ cents lower, with September 68 cents and December 73¼ cents. Barley was off ⅛ to ¼ cent at the close, with December at 54¾ cents.

Traders Cheerful About Future.

A strong undercurrent of optimism as to the long time trend of the wheat market was apparent in the gossip, but the average operator is showing a disposition to go slow in taking hold at the present time. Strength in the cash wheat market, with the basis steadily advancing in the west and southwest as compared with the September; prospects of an immediate falling off in the northwestern movement, and continued dry weather in Argentina were factors given attention during the day.

Heavy hedging sales were again in evidence in the Winnipeg market, which closed ¼ to ⅝ cent lower on wheat. October closed at 70⅛ cents, the pegged figure.

Dry and hot weather is forcing the corn crop along toward maturity at a rapid rate, but the feed grain situation, especially in parts of the southwest and northwest, is attracting considerable attention from the trade, and leads to many bullish comments. The country sold 118,000 bushels of corn to arrive during the day.

REALTY BOARD TOLD PROVISIONS OF FEDERAL CODE

Warterfield Tells of U. S. Cash for Housing Loans.

Details of a code for the real estate business were outlined for members of the Chicago real estate board last night by J. Soule Warterfield, representative for the middle west of a committee of five which drafted the code. The code has been tentatively accepted by the Washington administration, Mr. Warterfield said.

At the same time, Mr. Warterfield informed the realtors that a large sum of federal cash is to be available shortly for large scale housing projects. Chicago should get its share of these funds, he asserted.

Mr. Warterfield asserted that loans of 65 per cent are to be made by the government on homes which are to be sold to the public at not to exceed $7,500 at 4 per cent interest—50 per cent to amortized over 15 years. This operation does not apply to individual homes, but to groups of not less than 10.

List Unfair Practices.

The following actions are cited in the code as falling in the division of unfair competition:

One. Offering to transact or transacting business for a compensation which is determined on a basis less than the established rates under this code.

Two. Paying commissions or fees to or dividing commissions or fees with other than members substantially engaged in activities as set out in definitions of those engaged in the real estate business.

Three. Using any trade names or insignia in any organization unless entitled to it.

Four. Acceptance of or charging any undisclosed commission, rebate, or profit on expenditure made for a principal.

Five. Seeking prospects or purchasers for real estate by offering the public free lots, lottery, contest prizes, or other similar inducements without adequate consideration therefor.

Six. Acting in the dual capacity of agent and undisclosed principal in any transaction.

It is provided that fees and commissions shall be established by local associations of subcommittees in conformity with local practice.

Hours and Wages.

Mr. Warterfield outlined the wages to be paid in cities of over 500,000 population. Clerical employés shall work a 40 hour week, with $15 minimum wage. Junior office employés, office boys, etc., from 16 to 19 years of age, will work 40 hours at a $10 minimum wage. From 19 to 21 the wage will be $12 a week.

Office building and business property operating employés—48 hours per week—will have a $14.50 wage minimum. Apartment, industrial and loft building operating employés working regular consecutive hours—60 hours per week—$15. Land development and land maintenance employés—40 hours per week—$14. Home building employés, unskilled labor—40 hours per week—$16. Home building employés, skilled labor—40 hours per week—$24.

There are certain provisions for overtime. Salesmen, solicitors, rental men working a major part of their time outside the office, are exempt, as are building managers, caretakers, or custodians, whose chief remuneration is free rent for quarters occupied. Problems as to certain employés of large apartments remain to be worked out. In general a 60 hour week is requested for them.

William G. Donne, Illinois state manager for the Home Owners' Loan corporation, explained the workings of the corporation to the realtors.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—(AP)—Raw sugar displayed a firm undertone today at the basis of 3.60 for spots duty paid, and although no sales were reported, refiners showed buying interest at that level. # RAIL AND WATER CARRIERS SEEK RATE AGREEMENT

Eastman Calls Parley to End Price Wars.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—(AP)—Representatives of the nation's rail and water carriers agreed at a conference today with Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coördinator, to set to work immediately on a plan to end destructive competition through stabilization of rates.

Eastman called the conference in an effort to stop rate wars in and between the two transportation groups.

He announced all participants agreed "it would be highly desirable if a plan could be made effective under which standing committees representing the rail and water lines in specified regions would keep each other fully informed of all proposed reductions in rates for competitive reasons and discuss such proposed changes freely before attempting to make them effective."

Promote Rail Stability.

The idea, he added, would be "to promote stability in rates and discourage destructive competition."

The proposal also contemplates the creation of inter-territorial organizations to discuss proposed rate changes that would affect more than one region.

Eastman, in a statement after the meeting, said the rail representatives were "disposed to concede that in the case of port to port rates the water lines were in general entitled to a differential under the corresponding rail rates and that this principle could be extended within reasonable limits to joint rail and water rates."

The railroad representatives said they would proceed immediately to formulate a definite plan along the lines tentatively agreed upon in collaboration with a similar committee yet to be created, representing all water lines.

Water Men to Form Group.

The water line representatives participating in the conference said they would arrange for the formation of such a committee.

All water lines were not represented, but Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways corporation and the Federal Barge line, agreed to enlist the coöperation of those services which did not take part in the conference.

LARD RALLIES AFTER DIP; CLOSE ABOUT UNCHANGED

Provisions held within relatively narrow limits with packers and distributors fair buyers. The market eased early with grains but rallied later and closed with lard unchanged to 2½ cents lower while bellies were steady to 17½ cents lower, the latter on September. Scattered longs sold lard early, while a little liquidation developed in bellies. Demand for dry salted meats was reported as quiet with spot bellies quoted at $5.87½.

Cash lard was 2½ cents higher at $5.45 while loose was unchanged at $4.80 and leaf $4.75.

PIGS FILL YARDS DESPITE THREAT TO HALT BONUS

Carryover of 50,000 Head Sets New Record.

The Chicago stockyards yesterday were confronted with the biggest carryover of pigs in the history of the market as a result of the government's offer of bonus prices for pigs in a cut production program to kill off 4,000,000 pigs weighing 25 to 100 pounds and 1,000,000 piggy sows before Oct. 1.

Yesterday's arrivals of pigs at Chicago totaled 65,000. Tuesday's total was 75,000. Upwards to 50,000 of these pigs were left in the pens last night after the packing houses authorized to buy on the account of the government had taken all they could handle.

Threat to Withhold Bonus.

Warnings sent out by government officials have changed from pleas to the farmer to hold back until the surplus can be moved through the packing houses to threats to withhold the bonus on all pigs coming here without the shipping permits from the commission agencies through which they sell their stock. There is even talk of a temporary embargo.

The pig slaughter over the entire country is far ahead of schedule. In the first two weeks that the plan has been in effect the government has killed off more than 2,000,000 pigs, but the number of piggy sows is far under the quota expected by the government.

W. O. Fraser, who has charge of the pig buying at Chicago, warned the country over various radio stations yesterday that no pigs coming on the market for the government without the permit will be regarded as eligible to the bonus being paid by the AAA.

Permit System Fails.

The permit system to date has failed of its purpose of stemming the influx of pigs, but according to government officials practically all of the carryover from now on will be the pigs coming in without the shipping permit.

According to the stockyards committee of live stock commission agencies handling the system, there are permits issued on enough hogs to keep the packing houses in Chicago working at capacity for the remainder of this week. No more permits are being issued for pigs to arrive this week. In 14 days Chicago packers slaughtered and tanked 232,205 of the 25 to 80 pound pigs and butchered 43,855 of the stronger weight pigs and 10,425 of the piggy sows.

174,000 Pigs at 20 Markets.

Twenty markets handled 174,000 pigs yesterday. The 80 to 100 pound pigs cost the government $6 to $7 per hundredweight, while the lighter pigs cost $7.25 to $9.50, according to weights, with the lightest at the top of the list of bonus prices. According to packing houses, the commercial value of these pigs runs from $1 to $3.75, depending on weight and condition. Piggy sows weighing 240 to 400 pounds sold to the government at their market value of $3 to $3.40 and the 450 to 600 pounders and up at $2.60 to $2.90, plus the $4 per head bonus.

HOGS WIND UP HIGHER AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Regular Supply Short; Cattle Also Rally.

The trend of hog prices was reversed yesterday after the market had opened lower. Early declines of 5 to 10 cents were quickly recovered, with the close strong to 5 cents higher than the average of Tuesday.

Available supplies of regular market hogs were short of requirements, after directs and government pigs had been deducted from the supply, despite the fact that total receipts are running largest on record for this time of the year, including the pigs intended for the government. Tuesday's actual total of 103,180, including 75,000 government pigs, was second largest on record, the all-time record of 122,749 having been established in December, 1924.

Pork Trade Improves.

Buyers found yesterday that the pork trade was in position to handle more of the regular market hogs than have been coming in the last few days. Few of the 3,000 left at the close were offered for sale. A late survey indicated, however, that 50,000 of the government pigs were still in the pens. Yesterday's receipts of 85,000 carried only 20,000 "market" hogs, against 26,000 a week ago. The eleven leading markets handled only 68,000 "market" hogs yesterday, against 92,000 the previous Wednesday. The total for the first three days of this week at eleven markets shows a shortage of 142,000 head, or 48 per cent, in the receipts of hogs supplying the regular trade channels with pork.

Cattle Rally After Decline.

Cattle weakened in the early part of yesterday's session, but packers cleaned up most of the supply before the close and last sales indicated that some of the first losses had been recovered in the bulk of steers. Hot weather was a handicap to sellers.

Some of the upper crust of steers were called stronger late in the day when some eastern order buyers entered the trade. Prime 1,405 pound steers topped the list at $7.

Only a small share of total offerings were eligible to more than $6.50, the bulk of the beef steers going at $5.25 to $6.50.

Lamb prices rebounded from the low close of Tuesday when eastern buying orders increased yesterday. Fully 25 cents of the losses were recovered on active closing rounds, with western range stock leading the rise. The latter sold upwards to $7.25 on last rounds.

SOLUTION TO KELLEY BLOWS UP

Careful reading of the story will disclose the following facts:

1. Wilson was not the leader.
2. Logan was not the leader.
3. Finnerty was not the leader.
4. Frachetti was not the leader.
5. Therefore Kern was, of course, the leader.
